Passes with Unanimous Democratic Support and Votes of 23 Republicans.

AN ALL-DAY FILIBUSTER

All Amendments Defeated, Though Minority Had Opportunity to Offer 150 Without Restriction.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The free list bill passed the House a few minutes after 10 o'clock to-night after a parliamentary struggle beginning a little after noon. The vote was 236 to 109, all the Democrats voting for the bill and 23 Republicans supporting the measure. Not a single amendment was allowed, but every chance possible was given to offer amendments and to discuss them providing they were germane to the items carried by the bill.

The Republicans assaulted the Democratic position from paragraph to paragraph all day, and in all upward of 150 amendments were offered, most of them by Mr. Mann of Illinois, the minority leader. Again and again the amendment against the application of the terms of the bill to the goods of any country that should discriminate against American merchandise when exported to that country, was offered, to be thrust aside. The first test vote of the day came on an appeal from the decision of Speaker Clark that a motion by Mr. Mann to recommit the bill with instructions to Ways and Means to report the bill back with the retaliatory amendment added. This vote having been disposed of the passage of the bill was only a matter of form.

The Democratic team work all day was fine, and was not marred by a single mistake. The only visible dissent came from Mr. Rucker of Colorado, who could not sit still and see the cattle industry of his State voted away, and he offered an amendment to strike out the clause providing for free meats. He said that this was probably the most unpopular amendment that any man could have the temerity to propose, and probably it would have but one vote on his side. It was lost with a yell.

A Question of "in" and "of."

The sharpest fight came on a simple amendment by Mr. Mann to put glass on the clause in regard to free agricultural implements. Mr. Anderson, a trusted Missouri friend of Champ Clark, was in the chair, and he frankly stated that he had noticed from time to time in the debate during the last fortnight the allusions to free sugar, free steel and iron, and other articles that members thought should go on the free list, and he had anticipated the point of order. Thereupon he proceeded to read a typewritten decision, in which he held that amendments must be germane to the subject matter "in" the bill and not to the subject matter "of" the bill, the difference between the prepositions "of" and "in" making all the difference imaginable. This proved a wall of adamant for the majority the rest of the day.

The Republicans attacked the bill continually, Mr. Payne and Mr. Mann, and others making good old fashioned tariff speeches. Mr. Payne said that the bill was full of gross inaccuracies, although he did not point out any specific examples, and declared that there were Democrats who would be against it but for the power of the Democratic caucus. He declared that even the decision made by Chairman Anderson had been dictated by the caucus and had its approval according to some statements by Democratic members in private conversation.

The Democrats made the last possible attempt to defend their bill. The only one noticeable effort came when Mr. Mann repeatedly tried to force debate on the omission of rice and rice flour from the paragraph on meats and cereal foods. He said that rice was left out simply to favor a few districts down South. Mr. Underwood replied that the committee's reason for leaving rice out of the bill was because it afforded some revenue and it was not wise to cut off all revenue bearing items. Mr. Mann retorted that the amount of revenue from rice flour was only $824,000 last year, an amount insignificant as a motive for those who desired to retain revenue bearing articles of the dutiable list.

Payne Tangled in His Words.

Mr. Payne said that Mr. Underwood had first said that the free list bill would cut off only a million of revenue, then in the committee report he said it would take off ten millions, and in his statements to the newspapers he had put it at twelve millions.

"And I believe," roared Mr. Payne, "that it will cut off fifty millions and the country from shore to shore will hear from what you are doing to-day."

This statement, which evidently was not exactly what Mr. Payne had had in mind to phrase, was greeted with the longest and loudest yell of the day.

Now and then there was a suggestion from Mr. Mann that he would lead a filibuster, but his main purpose was to offer amendments on articles produced in Democratic districts, with the idea that somewhere he would break through the caucus alignment. But in was in vain. At the end of the bill he laid the most toothsome morsel produced in the whole debate in the form of an amendment proposing that articles of personal adornment and foreign produced goods to the amount of $100 in value and all wearing apparel carried by travelers abroad coming home should come in duty free. This was most tempting, but it did not tempt a single member of the Democratic flock from the caucus folk.

Mr. Mann offered many ingenious amendments. One was directed against convict-made goods, which was promptly voted down, and as promptly Mr. Mann jeered and taunted the majority with voting to favor convicts against free citizens.

Underwood Rebukes Mann.

These made it necessary for Mr. Underwood to break his dignified and patient silence and say that the Illinois member was only using his professed anxiety for American laborers as a cloak, and that his real intention was to go home to his constituents and charge that the Democratic Party was in favor of convict labor competing against free labor.

Mr. Mann proposed free tin so that free meats might come in manufactured. He asked for free iron and steel. He demanded free dyes and tanning articles so that free hides might be tanned here. He offered an amendment that no articles manufactured in establishments abroad where the eight-hour law was not observed should be admitted. He asked for free hemp to go with cotton ties and bagging. He urged free macaroni and vermicelli, together with free flours and biscuits. He tried to get free pineapples, free olive oil, free sponges, free paris green, free chemicals for making wood pulp paper, free castor oil, free soaps, free spectacles and goggles, free grindstones, and scores of similar things, and not one would the other side concede.

Like a stone wall the Democrats either whooped the amendments down or swept them like dead flies off the Clerk's desk. Over and over Mr. Mann offered in his

False Alarm of Fire Leads to a Mad Stampede for the Doors.

Two hundred and fifty men, women, and children were panic stricken in a motion theatre at 51 East Ninety-ninth Street last night when cries of "Fire!" were shouted followed by six shots fired in rapid succession. In the rush for the exits that ensued women and children were knocked down and trampled under foot. Several patrons of the theatre suffered bruises and scratches, but no one was seriously injured.

Samuel Orbach, manager and owner of the theatre, later caused the arrest of a man who said he was Daniel G. Lambert, a law clerk, living at 111 East Ninety-sixth Street. He was locked up at the East 104th Street Police Station on the charge of disorderly conduct. According to the police Orbach identified Lambert as one of six men who forced their way past the ticket collector without paying admission and started the panic in the theatre.

Orbach was notified by the ticket collector that the six men had forced their way into the theatre, and he stopped them as they were walking down the centre aisle. He told them they would either have to pay admission or leave the theatre, he said, and one of the men struck him in the mouth, knocking out a set of false teeth he was wearing. Orbach fell to the floor, and a moment later the alarm of "fire" was given and the theatre was in an uproar.

Orbach managed to get on his feet, and tried to calm the fears of those who were struggling to get to the exits. When the shots were fired women in the theatre began screaming and men fought to get out of the place ahead of the women and children.

Police Headquarters was notified and reserves were sent to the theatre from the East 104th Street Police Station.

Orbach declared that the panic was started by members of a gang in the neighborhood who wanted to injure him because he did not give one of their number employment. He added that he was going to take the matter to the Mayor and the Police Commissioner, as he had sold the theatre two weeks ago, and the new owner, who had had a similar experience, had returned it to him gratis. Before he was locked up Lambert requested the police to get State Senator James J. Frawley on the telephone and tell him of his arrest. He was later arraigned before Magistrate O'Connell in the Men's Night Court and held in $300 bail for trial.

ROAD SUES COMMUTERS.

Accuses Newburgers of Selling Their Tickets at Cut Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., May 8.—Deputy Marshal Joseph J. Kumb of New York came here to-day and served on twenty-one Newburg men summonses to appear before Commissioner Shields in New York on Monday, June 5, to show cause why an injunction obtained against them should not be made permanent, and to punish them for the selling or renting out of commutation tickets over the West Shore Road between this city and New York.

The company issued two commutation tickets. One is good for fifty trips at $40, to be used only by the purchaser or members of his family. The other is a daily run ticket, thirty-one round trips in all, for $14.45, to be used by the purchaser. It has been the custom of some purchasers to sell these at $2 the round trip, while the West Shore charges $2.50.

Detectives have been here getting evidence for a month past. It was easy to get evidence, for no one tried to conceal the fact that they had tickets. Some church societies have announced that the purchase of tickets from the Secretary would help the treasury of the society.

Having obtained the information the company obtained a temporary injunction.

FINGER PRINTS MAY CONVICT.

No Other Evidence Against a Burglar —First Case of Its Kind.

Upon four finger marks upon a pane of glass, which had been removed from a window on the second floor of the building at 171 Wooster Street, Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel hopes to convict Charles Crispi of burglary. It is charged that Crispi, who lived at 140 Macdougal Street, entered the place on Feb. 22, and, making his way to the third floor, occupied by M. M. Bernstein & Brothers, manufacturers of ladies' garments, stole $300 worth of goods. Detective Armstrong discovered four finger marks on the glass in the door to Bernstein's place, and a comparison showed that they were those of Crispi.

This is the first time since the adoption of the Bertillon system in this country that finger prints have been the sole evidence upon which the prosecution has had to base its case, and much difficulty was experienced in getting a jury, as few talesmen were willing to convict on the evidence of finger prints alone.

Only two witnesses were examined yesterday. They were Max Bernstien, one of the owners of the place, and Detective Armstrong. Bernstein told of seeing the glass in the door when he left the day before the robbery and Armstrong of discovering the finger marks.

YOUNG AGASSIZ MISSING.

Disappears When on Trip with Yale Students to Study New York Life.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 8.—The disappearance of Walter Gammond Shalto Agassiz, a descendant of the famous naturalist and a recent graduate of Yale, has caused a general search to be started in this city and New York, where he went last Friday with the members of the classes of sociology who took their annual trip with Prof. William B. Bailey to study New York institutional life. Agassiz was not a member of the class, but said that he believed the trip would be interesting, and that he wanted to take it.

A professor who is close to Dean Andrew W. Phillips of the graduate school said to-night that it was not believed that Agassiz was in New York City, but that there were indications that he was suffering from mental aberration, possibly caused by too close attention to his studies. It has been learned that he received considerable money from home just before he left Yale.

INTERBOROUGH WILL OFFER $101,000,000

To Add $26,000,000 to Its First Proposal of a Fund for New Subways.

PLANS BROADWAY LINE

From Fourteenth Street to Fifty-ninth and Queensboro Bridge—Elevated Lines in Queens.

The first definite outline of the amended subway offer which the Interborough Rapid Transit Company has promised to submit to the city's transit conferrees this afternoon was obtained yesterday. It covers, according to good information, the points on which the Interborough representatives have expressed a willingness to make concessions from the company's offer of Dec. 5, 1910. The main features are:

First—The company to increase its contribution to the extended system from $75,000,000 to $101,000,000, leaving the city's proposed contribution at $53,000,000 as contemplated in the offer of Dec. 5. The company's contribution, as stated above, includes the $30,000,000 estimated cost of the elevated extensions and third tracking.

Second—The company to bid on a subway from Fourteenth Street and Broadway in Manhattan, under Fourteenth Street and the East River and through the Eastern District of Brooklyn to a junction with the Lafayette Avenue branch of the original Tri-Borough Subway. The operation of the Lafayette Avenue branch was included in the offer of Dec. 5.

Third—The company to operate a subway under Broadway from Fourteenth Street to Fifty-ninth Street, with a connection to and over the Queensboro Bridge, this to be operated in conjunction with the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District Subway.

Fourth—The company to build two elevated extensions in Queens, from the Queensboro Bridge Plaza, one, the Woodside-Corona line, and the other the Astoria line.

Fifth—The company to offer to swap franchises on the old and new Subway lines, below Forty-second Street, at such time in the future as the city might want to exercise its rights under the indeterminate clause of the franchise. In such an event, however, the city to obtain legislation enabling it to pay to the company a sum representing the difference between the earning capacity of the existing Subway, below Grand Central, for the balance of the lease, and that of the proposed new Seventh Avenue Subway.

The offer extricates the company from the position it took in delivering to the city's transit conferrees some time ago its so-called Broadway ultimatum. By bidding on a line running up under some part of Broadway, the Interborough is not placed in the position of demanding that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company be kept out of Broadway, while offering to operate no subway through that thoroughfare itself. The amended offer also makes a bid for local support in Queens by offering two elevated extensions in that borough, and the proposal immediately to construct and operate the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District subway is calculated to placate local subway sentiment in a section of Brooklyn where real estate operations have been accompanied by a considerable subway agitation for some time past.

The offer of the company to increase its cash contribution to the new subways has been expected for some time. Last week a report was current that the Interborough would add $40,000,000 to its previous offer of $75,000,000 for construction and equipment, but the figure of $26,000,000 seems to be pretty definitely established. The contingent swap of franchises which the Interborough offer is expected to contain is directed at the objection made by the city's conferrees to the terms of the company's proposition of Dec. 5, that in case the city chose, under the indeterminate franchise, to take back the new parts of the Manhattan trunk lines, it would receive the Lexington Avenue line above Forty-second Street and the Seventh Avenue line below Forty-second Street, which would require the expenditure of millions for a connection, and in addition run counter to established lines of east side and west side travel.

Throughout the negotiations of the Winter, the Interborough Company has raised various objections to the swap of its long-term franchise on the link of the present Subway below Forty-second Street, for a ten-year indeterminate franchise, and the acceptance of a long-term franchise for the Seventh Avenue subway. The proposition now understood to be advanced does not bring the situation very much nearer a solution, for, according to the accounts of the Interborough's offer which came out yesterday, the possibility of a swap eventually being made would be contingent upon agreeing on a complicated question of valuing prospective earning capacity, and would, further, make it necessary to go to the Legislature at some unknown time in the future when the city might wish to exercise its option.

So far as could be learned yesterday, the operating basis of the Interborough's amended offer will not differ materially from that underlying the offer of last December. It is understood that the company does not concede the pooling of the earnings over its extended system, and still adheres to the proposition of calculating the earnings on the extensions, in which the city is scheduled to share, on the basis of the tickets dropped in the boxes at stations on the extensions, and the car miles operated on the extensions.

Throughout the conferences of the Winter the city's transit conferrees have objected to this plan of computing the revenue in which the city shares, on the ground that the basis proposed would starve the extensions for the benefit of the existing lines, and have particularly pointed to the situation on the easterly branch of the extended system, where traffic originating on the present Bronx extension of the Subway, and finding its distributing points below Forty-second Street, would pay fares at each end of the ride on existing lines, and have from one-third to one-half of the expense of operation attributable to the new lines. In previous statements of the points on which the McAneny committee of the Board of Estimate was prepared to stick, some solution of this problem has uniformly been included.

Another branch of its offer which, it is understood, the Interborough is not prepared to modify, is the suggested basis for operating the Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn and all future extensions, including those to Coney Island and Fort Hamilton. As to the Fourth Avenue Brooklyn, line and the Fort Hamilton and Coney Island extensions, as well as all other future extensions of the general system, the company has asked a guarantee from the city against any loss.

There was a report current downtown yesterday that the Interborough's proposition would be held over until to-morrow, when the final conference between the Brooklyn Rapid Transit representatives and the city's conferrees is held, in order that the company might be informed of the final concessions of the Brooklyn company. However, the Interborough sent out yesterday invitations to the "owners and editors of the press" for a luncheon to-day to discuss the terms of the amended offer, which was taken as indicating that the proposition would be made public this afternoon, according to the schedule mapped out last week. If this course is followed there will also be a conference to-morrow between the Interborough representatives and the city's transit conferrees to talk over the terms of the amended proposition.

Yesterday a delegation from Typographical Union No. 6 called at the offices of the Public Service Commission to urge that a reduction of fare in the present

ROUND UP TEN MEN AS EXPRESS THIEVES

Detectives Capture Them in a Stable While They Are Unloading a Wagon.

HAVE A HARD STRUGGLE

Sleuths Trail Them in Wagons After Working for Some Time as Express and Truck Drivers.

Lieut. Vachris, head of the Italian Squad of the Detective Bureau, and nearly a dozen of his men marched ten prisoners into Police Headquarters last night, charging that they had been caught in the act of unloading $20,000 worth of merchandise from a wagon of the United States Express Company. The men were trapped in a stable at the end of a blind alley running out of Rivington Street, between Chrystie Street and the Bowery, where the wagon had been diverted from its destination at the Liberty Street ferryhouse of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Vachris declared that in the ten men he believed he had a gang that has made a business of wagon stealing and got away with thousands of dollars' worth of property in this way. Although the detective is not certain that he has all the members of the gang, he said last night that he believed the arrests would go a long way toward putting a stop to the theft of horses and wagons, which recently has been carried on extensively in this city.

Many express wagons laden with merchandise have been stolen in the last few months, and these thefts, Vachris believes, can be traced to the gang of captives. Five of the ten prisoners were found to have their pictures and records in the Rogues' Gallery, where three were recorded as burglars and two as pickpockets.

The capture of the ten followed more than a week's work by Lieut. Vachris and eighteen of his men, and was the result of information to the detective by which he was forewarned of the plot. According to Vachris's information, the theft was to have occurred last Thursday, and for a week previous to that time Vachris and his men circulated among drivers and teamsters, especially those employed by the express companies. Several detectives got jobs as drivers for the United States Express Company at its office at 35 West Third Street, while others, in the guise of teamsters, drove wagons all over the downtown streets and consorted with men engaged in similar work.

As a result, Vachris admitted last night, he learned that efforts had been made by members of the gang to persuade drivers for the United States Express Company to join them. When each of the men approached refused to share in the theft, Vachris learned that the gang had been forced to change its plans to the extent of waiting until some van of a private truckman was loaded at the express company's office. No such van was loaded on Thursday, and it was not until yesterday that a private van backed up to the express company's door. On the box, according to the detectives, was a man they knew as a member of the gang.

A crowd began to gather when the work of loading the van was begun. A covered wagon drove up East Third Street about a block away from the van and came to a halt. Two men descended from the wagon and closely watched the express employes as they loaded the van.

The van was loaded quickly and sealed and then started along East Third Street. The two men who had descended from the wagon walked back to the vehicle, climbed in, and followed the van. When this wagon reached Third St. and West Broadway six more men climbed in. The detectives had engaged a light delivery wagon and when the van was well under way they crowded into it, pulled the oil cloth curtains down and trailed the other wagon, which was directly in the rear of the moving van. A few minutes later a fourth wagon joined the procession. This contained six detectives employed by the United States Express Company and Joseph Mayo, chief special agent of the company.

The little procession went through Third Street to West Broadway and down this thoroughfare to Spring Street. The van destined for the ferry should have kept on south, but instead the driver turned east into Spring Street, and the two vans behind followed suit. Across Spring Street to the Bowery wended the procession, and then up the Bowery to Rivington Street, into which the loaded van turned and disappeared in the alley. The second truck stopped at the corner, and eight of the ten men later made prisoners alighted and hurried into the alley. The detectives stopped a block away, and, posting themselves so that they could keep an eye on the alley, they waited to give the gang time to unload the wagon.

After a quarter of an hour Vachris gave the word to enter the alley, and the detectives rushed into the stable at the other end, where they found the wagon, its seal broken, almost unloaded. The goods it had held lay about the floor. At the appearance of the detectives the men in the stable made a rush for the street. Though outnumbered, they fought to pass the detectives, and it was only after a lively fight that the ten were subdued and arrested. A guard was left over the wagon and goods and the prisoners were taken to Headquarters.

There they said they were Charles B. Miller, 224 East Fourteenth Street; Michael Palausky, 179 East Third Street; Herman Green; 315 East Twenty-fifth Street; Rudolph Turner, 8 Stanton Street; Joseph Rose, 290 South First Street, Williamsburg; Isidor Valino, 99 Suffolk Street; Morris Berger, 81 Sheriff Street; Henry Miller, who said he had no home; Samuel Fisher, 46 Eldridge Street, and Michael Rich, 245 East Third Street. Fisher and Rich protested at their arrest, declaring that they were employes in the stable and knew nothing about the rest of the band or their business. They were held, nevertheless.

Palausky, Green, Rose, Berger, and Henry Miller are the men said by the police to have old records. Palausky, Green, and Rose are said to have been arrested before as burglars, while the detectives say that Berger and Miller have records as pickpockets.

MARGARET ANGLIN WEDS HOWARD HULL

Noted Actress and Magazine Writer She Met Last Summer Married at Cathedral.

TO SAIL TO-DAY FOR EUROPE

Bride Had Planned Summer Trip Abroad, but Had Not Announced It Would Be a Honeymoon.

Margaret Anglin, the actress, and Howard Hull, a magazine writer on the staff of Everybody's, were married last evening in The Lady Chapel in St. Patrick's Cathedral. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Gleeson, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Sinnott. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Hull had a quiet supper in the home of Mrs. Anglin, the bride's mother, in West Fifty-eighth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull will sail to-day on the Kronprinz Wilhelm of the North German Lloyd Line, and for some weeks expect to motor in France. Her wedding trip will be Mrs. Hull's first respite from the work of the stage for two years. She has had no vacation in that time, and only a few days ago announced her intention of spending the Summer abroad. She neglected to add, however, that it would be a honeymoon.

Miss Anglin and Mr. Hull met first last Summer, when Mr. Hull accompanied Prof. George Riddle of Harvard to California to assist in the production of "Antigone" which Miss Anglin made at the University of California in Berkeley. Mr. Hull had been connected with the stage for some time, but about a year ago he gave it up permanently to take up literary work.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull took apartments at the Plaza last night, and there Louis Nethersole, speaking for them, issued a short statement, telling of the circumstances of the meeting and of last night's ceremony.

Those who heard last night of Miss Anglin's marriage were interested instantly as to whether or not this meant her retirement from the stage. Mrs. Hull settled the question when in reply to many questioners she announced that she had no intention of retiring.

"I hope to work on the stage for the next two or three years, and Mr. Hull will work with me," she said. "No; not as an actor; as a writer."

Miss Anglin has been playing of late in "Green Stockings," a comedy by A. E. W. Mason and George Flaming, and closed her season last Saturday in Wilkesbarre, Penn. It was then that she announced her plans for her Summer vacation.

Miss Anglin expected to remain abroad until George C. Tyler's return from Algeria, when she planned to meet him in Paris and talk over plans for next season. How much this programme may be disarranged by Miss Anglin's marriage is not known.

Margaret Anglin belongs to a distinguished Canadian family. Her father was Speaker of the Ottawa House of Commons at the time of her birth, 35 years ago. She came to New York at 17 and immediately began to be successful on the stage. She was chosen from Nelson Wheatcroft's school by Charles Frohman to play Madeline West in "Shenandoah" at the Academy of Music, where she made her first professional appearance in 1894.

Two years later, after a season on the road, she was with James O'Neill in such rôles as Ophelia in "Hamlet," Virginia in "Virginius," Julie in "Richelieu," and Mercedes in "Monte Cristo." In 1897 she organized a company and played Rosalind in "As You Like It" through lower Canada.

As Roxane in Richard Mansfield's production of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in 1898 Miss Anglin became recognized as one of the foremost emotional actresses of the day. She won further laurels when she became leading woman for Charles Frohman's Empire Stock Company. She played the leading rôles in "Mrs. Dane's Defence," "Brother Officers," "Lady Ursula," "The Liars," "Lord and Lady Algy," and Ophelia in "Hamlet." For four seasons she played in San Francisco with Henry Miller's stock company. During the season of 1905-06 Miss Anglin was starred under the management of the Shuberts in a dramatization of Wilkie Collins's "The New Magdalen," called "Zira."

In the Fall of 1906 she co-starred with Henry Miller in William Vaughn Moody's "The Great Divide," which opened at the Princess Theatre, New York, on Oct. 3. The play ran through the seasons of 1906-7-8. She made a tremendous success in this part, as she also did in "The Awakening of Helena Richie."

Miss Anglin again went West, and in July, 1910, appeared before 10,000 persons in "Antigone" at the Greek Theatre of the University of California at Berkeley.

In September, 1910, George C. Tyler for Liebler & Co. suggested to Miss Anglin that her real forte was comedy rather than emotion, and arranged a comedy part for her in a play called "The Backsliders," when she was taken ill last November in Chicago. She suffered from an affection of the throat, and at one time it was feared that the operation might result in her losing her voice.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8.—Howard Hull was born on East Street, this city, and after attending the public schools he began working as a messenger boy in the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Later he became an usher in Col. John MacAuley's Theatre and worked there for several seasons.

Watching the players led him to try to make a living by acting, but his father, William E. Hull, an editorial writer on The Louisville Times and at one time dramatic editor of The Courier-Journal, got him a place in the offices of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. He retained his interest in the stage, and, after trying railroad work for several months, his father and Col. MacAuley got him a place in the chorus of one of the theatrical companies playing in Louisville. Later he took to writing short sketches.

RUNAWAY ENGINE'S DASH.

Escapes Passenger Train by Taking Switch—Conductor Climbs to Cab.

SALEM, Mass., May 8.—A runaway Boston & Maine engine escaped collision with a passenger train by a narrow margin here to-day, sped past the depot at a terrific rate, and whirled through a long tunnel, near the north end of which it was brought under control by Conductor D. A. Churchill, who had valiantly stuck to his post on the rear of a car attached to the locomotive.

A freight engine with one box car was in motion in the local freight yard this forenoon when Engineer I. H. Williams suddenly found himself on the same track with a rapidly approaching passenger train from Boston. In an attempt to make a switch in the rear, Williams reversed the throttle with such suddenness that he was hurled through the cab window onto the roadbed. Fireman F. L. Dodge, thinking that a collision with the passenger train was inevitable, jumped.

Without a driver, the engine rapidly gained momentum backward and took to a crossover switch and passed the approaching passenger train by two feet margin.

CUBAN BANDIT AGAIN ACTIVE.

It Is Believed That a Planter Captured by Solis Has Been Killed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 8.—After many months of quiescence the notorious bandit Solis is again active. He recently captured a planter named Marero and demanded a ransom of $4,000, which was not forthcoming, and it is believed that the captive has been killed.

Rural Guards are on the bandit's trail, but they have failed so many times to take him that it is hardly believed they will be successful. Solis manages to retain the aid and sympathy of the poorer classes in the country in which he operates, and it is not thought that the reward of $5,000 offered for him, alive or dead, will result in his capture.

A SUFFRAGETTE WEDDING.

Rings Exchanged and the Couple Declare for a Life of Equality.

A Thousand Houses in Yamagata Have Already Been Destroyed.

TOKIO, Tuesday, May 9.—Word has been received this morning that the town of Yamagata, capital of Yamagata Prefecture, is on fire and that 1,000 houses have already been destroyed. These include the Prefecture building, banks, schools, and the Court House.

No further details have been received.

Yamagata is about thirty miles from Sendai. It is of considerable importance commercially, and has a population of about 45,000.

BABY'S BATH A LEGAL POINT.

McNeir Demanded Custody of Children Because Child Got Only One a Day.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 8.—Mrs. Allene Ely McNeir, wife of Burrows McNeir, by a decision of Supreme Court Justice Morschauser, filed to-day, is entitled to a divorce from him, and also gets the custody of their two children. One of the contentions raised by Mr. McNeir in his fight for the custody of the children was that Mrs. McNeir bathed the baby only once a day.

Justice Morschauser in his decision said: "The reasons advanced why the mother should be deprived of the custody of their children are entirely inadequate. Both children are girls of tender years, now 2 and 4 years of age, and naturally need the care, affection, and attention of their mother."

WARRANTS FOR ALASKANS.

Fifty Arrests to be Made for Dumping Coal in the Bay at Cordova.

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 8.—After a conference between United States Marshal Harvey Sullivan and District Attorney George Walter, it was announced yesterday that fifty warrants would be issued for the arrest of the men known to have participated in the "coal party" Thursday when Canadian coal, piled on the wharf, was dumped into the bay.

The announcement caused a storm of protest, and the officials decided to postpone action for a time and give the angry citizens a chance to regain their composure.

WIFE SEIZES HIS OFFICE.

Mrs. Stone of Brooklyn Insists That Dr. Stone Shall Support Her.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, May 8.—Mrs. Florence Smith Stone, an actress of Brooklyn, N. Y., who says she is the wife of Dr. J. C. Stone of this city, has taken possession of the doctor's office here and defies any one to eject her. Stone came here two years ago, and has not been known as a married man. Mrs. Stone demands support from the doctor. She has a marriage certificate showing that a J. C. Stone married her at Crown Point, Ind., May 23, 1909.

She says Dr. Stone told her to go back on the stage and earn a living for two years and that he would come to Burlington and get into shape to give her a home. She did her part, but alleges the doctor has not kept his word. Dr. Stone does not deny that he is married to the woman, but says he refuses to live with her.

SINCERE EFFORT, SAYS DIAZ.

By Telegraph to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—In the manifesto I addressed yesterday to the Mexican people I made plain not only the sincerity of the resolutions taken by my government to satisfy public opinion, but also the hope I have, relying on the good sense and patriotism of my fellow citizens, that the Republic will soon be at peace.

PORFIRIO DIAZ.

MADERO BELIEVES IN DIAZ.

By Telegraph to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAMP OF ARMY OF LIBERATION, near Jaurez, Mex., via El Paso, Tex., May 8—12 noon.—The manifesto of Gen. Diaz changes everything. Peace negotiations will be taken up again at once. I predict very early a restoration of peaceful conditions throughout the Republic.

The manifesto proves the patriotic spirit of Gen. Diaz.

Sincerely yours,
F. I. MADERO,
Provisional President of the Republic of Mexico.

Juarez was attacked yesterday by about 150 Mexican rebels, including many Americans, who disobeyed Gen. Madero's orders against fighting on the American frontier. Gen. Madero had great trouble in preventing the main body of his army from joining in the attack, but finally prevailed with his reluctant commanders and men. The small band of rebels penetrated well into Juarez and defeated the Federal forces, but, having no support, are reported to have retired late in the evening.

Five persons were killed on the American side of the line, and many were injured by bullets that fell thickly in El Paso. Troops kept Americans back from the line so far as possible.

The Administration at Washington regards the killings at El Paso as incidents of war and intervention is no nearer.

Negotiations for a renewal of the armistice and the peace parleys are going on at Juarez. Gen. Madero places faith in the promise of Gen. Diaz to resign when peace is restored, but opposite opinions are held by some rebel leaders. There are even rumors that an attack on Juarez will be made to-day.

In Mexico City Gen. Diaz's manifesto is not regarded as peaceful and it is not thought to meet the demands of the rebels. It is counted as hopeful, however, in that it shows that Gen. Diaz has begun to realize the gravity of his situation and the necessity of addressing the people. The War Department has been ordered to press hostilities with greater vigor. If sufficient do not volunteer for the army the draft will be put into effect.

In the States near the capital the situation steadily grows worse. Guadalajara, in Jalisco, and Vera Cruz City, heretofore untroubled, are now threatened by rebels. In Zacatecas and Puebla the insurrectos continue to gain. Floods due to Spring rains are carrying away temporary railroad bridges and cutting the lines.

MADERO HOLDS ARMY BACK.

EL PASO, Texas, May 8.—Insubordination in the ranks of Gen. Madero's army and a lust for a fight caused a fierce attack on Juarez, which culminated to-night in a careful retreat of the insurrectos after a day of continuous skirmishing. The 150 rebels concerned not only captured some of the important outposts, but carried the fighting into Juarez.

Planned to Attack at Night.

The attack of to-day would have come last night had it not been for the receipt of a dispatch from Mexico City which misled the rebels into believing that Gen. Diaz had really complied with their demand for his retirement. Plans to take the city had been made, in spite of the orders of Gen. Madero that his forces should avoid fighting on the border and that this particular army should start southward, with Mexico City as its objective.

Gen. Madero's manifesto to his army yesterday bore witness to the difficulty he had had in reconciling his commanders to his change of plan. These men, especially Gen. Pasqual Orozco, believed they could take Juarez, and were extremely anxious to do so. They even begged Gen. Madero with tears in their eyes to let them fight. Their men were in harmony with them. It is asserted to-day that the commanders combined last night to act against orders.

When the retirement of the army began last night, Gen. Madero, in some fashion, was induced to go with the advance. He was to camp at Bauche, long a rebel stronghold, about eleven miles from Juarez. Gen. Orozco was left in charge of headquarters, to see to the movement of the army. Cols. Garibaldi, Blanco, and Villa apparently were moving off with their detachments by various roads.

After Gen. Madero had seen the movement under way and had gone forward, however, the columns were turned and silently taken back to the trenches before the city. It was a dark night, with a drizzling rain, and they showed no lights, so that they were able to make the movement without being discovered by the Federal garrison, which had been lulled into security by the announced change in Madero's plans. It was understood that at midnight a signal was to be given and the attack should begin all along the line.

False Hope of Diaz's Retirement.

It was about 10 o'clock when a dispatch concerning the supposed resignation of Gen. Diaz was telephoned by a press correspondent to Gen. Orozco at headquarters. Immediately the plan for the attack was abandoned, word was carried to Gen. Madero, and the news was spread among the insurrectos. Thinking the victory had been won, they were highly joyous and were willing to wait until disagreements had been settled by negotiation. Gen. Madero also received word indicating that Diaz was to quit and telegraphed his congratulations to Gen. Diaz. His example was followed by his father and others, and there was a general agreement among the rebel leaders that the armistice in Chihuahua should be resumed and peace parleys be taken up.

With the morning, however, came details of the Diaz manifesto, which showed that the President had promised to resign only when he chose to do so. These aroused the leaders, whose firm stand theretofore had caused Gen. Madero to demand a specific pledge from Gen. Diaz. While Gen. Madero believed that the proclamation was an earnest of the President's willingness to listen to reason and would be followed by all the concessions the rebels demanded other influential leaders declared that the revolution never could succeed while Gen. Diaz was in power, that his indefinite pledge was a trick, and that if the rebels agreed to lay down their arms now they would soon find themselves crushed and the old regimé in power as before.

Gen. Madero, however, was able to hold his leaders in line for a plan which would permit negotiations until it could be learned precisely what the intentions of the Government were. A conference was held at rebel headquarters this morning, which was attended by Señors Braniff and Obregon, the unofficial peace Commissioners from Diaz, and the way was paved for the renewal of the armistice and a fresh meeting between Dr. Vasquez Gomez and Judge Carabajal, the peace Commissioners. There was even general discussion of the personnel of the men for whom the rebels would demand important places in the Government. It seemed then as though an attack would be prevented.

Rebellious Rebels Begin Attack.

All plans were upset by the action of the small force of rebels.

As soon as Gen. Madero learned of their attack he endeavored to stop it. He rode out personally and commanded the return of the men who were hastening from the trenches to the aid of their victorious comrades. He was obeyed by these soldiers, but was not able to reach those who had penetrated the town. He sent a messenger with a flag of truce to his rebellious men. This messenger was shot down. A messenger from Gen. Navarro, the Federal commander, sent with a flag of truce, was also shot down.

Gen. Madero managed to get into communication with Gen. Navarro by telephone. He disavowed the actions of his men and promised that those who had disobeyed him should be punished. Under this assurance an armistice was arranged with Gen. Navarro early in the afternoon, and it was announced that formal peace negotiations would be resumed at 4 o'clock. Another messenger was then sent to the rebels in the city, and they were ordered to stop fighting. They replied that they would do so when they had taken Juarez.

Madero Persuades Commanders.

Gen. Madero called his commanders into council and begged them to heed the armistice and not to permit the hotheads to provoke intervention by the United States by endangering lives in El Paso. Some of his chiefs urged that the attack so well begun should be carried to its conclusion, and at 4 o'clock it was said at headquarters that a general assault had been ordered. Gen. Madero seemed to prevail, however, and at 4:20 o'clock he announced that no general attack would be made on the city at that time.

The main force of the rebels, however, was becoming more and more restive and the men were threatening to go to the aid of their comrades in the town. The commanders also were repeating their urgings. They became insistent when a dispatch came from El Pais, a Mexico City newspaper, saying that the effect of Gen. Diaz's manifesto was a refusal to resign.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the men in the town renewed their attack and the men in the rebel trenches opened up a fire on the Federals to support them. Some of the main body of the rebels went to aid the invaders. There was some sharp skirmishing in the city from that time until after 9 o'clock.

There is renewed talk of a battle to-night. It was said to-night that the rebels who had entered the city had retired, when the firing ceased at 10:30 o'clock. The rebels are now said to be concealed in the city, awaiting reinforcements.

It is rumored that an automobile party from the rebel camp went to demand the surrender of Juarez from Gen. Navarro.

Physicians in the rebel army have been ordered to be in readiness for the wounded and the opinion is general that an attack will be made. The Diaz manifesto is gradually losing its effect, and the insurrecto leaders are determined to fight. They believe they can take Juarez with ease, as their advance guard has, it is reported to-night, completely routed the Federal outposts.

The total dead for the day's fighting, including insurrectos and Federals, is to-night estimated at nearly 30. The wounded will number close to 60.

Five persons on the American side of the line were killed and at least twelve wounded. Thousands of people in El Paso dotted roof tops or lined the river banks in direct line of the fire. Col. Steever of the Fourth United States Cavalry protested to both armies against the fire into American territory, and it lessened considerably thereafter. About 1,000 American soldiers were on the border keeping crowds back and ready to respond to any orders from Washington.

Couriers to-night galloped back and forth in an effort to arrange an armistice so that peace negotiations might be resumed. Gen. Francesco I. Madero, Jr., is down-hearted. His efforts to prevent a general attack were successful, but only after he had made the strongest appeal to his officers to uphold him. He attributes the attack to taunts given out by Col. Tambourel of the Federal garrison at Juarez, who has declared that the rebels were cowards and dared not attack. In a statement Gen. Madero genuinely regretted the occurrence.

About a dozen insurrectos were seen to emerge from the barren hills around Juarez early in the day. They skulked along through the shrubbery toward the Federal outposts, firing repeatedly at a squad of Federals cooped up in an adobe house. At the Madero headquarters to-night it was said that the Federals began the engagement. At any rate, they soon left their adobe stronghold and fled, pursued by the insurrectos.

Canadian Leads the Attack.

At the head of the insurrecto band was a Canadian, W. H. McKenzie, whose pink shirt was plainly visible as he pressed close to Juarez. At the first few shots two Federals toppled over. Soon the Federals abandoned their trenches and the rebels fired intermittently for a few hours without advancing. The Federals brought their artillery into action, and heavy cannonading commenced. The Federals not only shot shrapnel into the insurrecto advance, but far into the outlying forces of the insurrecto camp near "Peace Grove," where the Peace Commissioners were to have met to-day.

The insurrectos, however, took advantage of the river bank and used it for protection, as the Federals had been ordered not to shoot into El Paso. They came as far as the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé railway bridge, driving the Federals back into town and taking possession of the custom houses. They then entered the town and for four hours kept up continuous fire. Insurrecto reinforcements reached the bridge later in the afternoon, but did not fire. They withdrew at night under orders from their chiefs. Not a few Americans were among those who entered Juarez.

The first person killed on the American side of the line was Antonio Garcia, who was standing beside The Associated Press correspondent, about two hundred yards from the advancing insurrectos across the river. A woman sitting on a porch several blocks within the city was hit in the wrist and the abdomen by two bullets.

About 6 o'clock to-night two Americans were killed near the Santa Fé bridge. The name of one is supposed to be Camp and his home is said to be in Nebraska, while the other had on his person a memorandum reading "R. H. Ferguson, Troop F, Third Cavalry, San Francisco." The names of the others killed have not been learned.

Glen Chesman of Shreveport, La., Mrs. Joseph Moorehead, Edmund Heaton, and Luis Villalobas of El Paso were among those wounded, but not fatally.

There was occasional firing to-night into Juarez, but Gen. Navarro seemed to be in complete command.

Rebels Tell of Fighting.

Five Americans, four of them in the rebel army, came to the middle of the Santa Fé bridge and asked permission to-night to bring some wounded rebels across. The request was denied.

The men were J. R. Crump of Idaho, who seemed to be the leader of the rebel squad; John F. Moriarty of Holyoke, Mass.; Charles Beech, former soldier; D. L. Michaels, who said he was a member of Company I, Twenty-third Infantry, and was discharged here in December, and John F. Jones of Chicago, who said he was sightseeeing in Juarez. Jones was permitted to come across.

They all talked freely. They said there were forty Federal dead in one trench which the Federals had abandoned, and that the rebels could and would take the town if only they had reinforcements to help them. They said the Federals hold the jail, the bull ring, and the church, but that they could be dislodged if a determined attack were made. They said not an American had been hurt among the rebels yet.

Capt. Nolan of the Twenty-third United States Cavalry to-night received a report from his men near the Globe mills, northwest of El Paso, that a shrapnel shell from the Federal guns burst among a squad of rebels on the mesa opposite the mills and tore a number to pieces.

F. Cassidy, a member of the American legion with the rebel army, reached the American camp to-night and declared that during the night about seventy insurrectos were met in Commercio Street by a band of Federals bearing a white flag, and that the Federals fired into them with a machine gun. The destruction was terrific.

He said K. E. Lenderfelt, a former United States Army Sergeant, commanded the Americans, and that he led them in a charge on the bull ring in the afternoon, captured two flags, and then had to retreat.

INTERVENTION NO NEARER.

Killings at El Paso Regarded in Washington as Incidents of War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—While officials here were much distressed to hear of the fighting at Juarez, the unofficial news that some Americans had been killed while sight-seeing along the border does not change the attitude of the Administration. It is just what it was after the satisfactory exchange of expressions with the Diaz Government, and will remain so. The accidental killing of Americans, even if safely on the American side of the border, will be regarded as an incident of war unless the killing is wanton, and while demands may later be made for reparation, the incident does ont make intervention nearer than heretofore.

Official information is very scarce to-day, and pending the receipt of full official accounts no comment is obtainable here. There is still some hope that the manifesto issued by President Diaz, expressing his intention ultimately to resign might have the effect of renewing the armistice. The Mexican Ambassador, Señor Zamacona, insists that peace is in sight, but that has been his position ever since his arrival, regardless of news from the front.

"All we can do," said Major Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff of the Army to-night, "is to keep our people out of the danger zone as far as possible and protest to the belligerents against firing in our direction. Without authority from Congress the army cannot cross the border, no matter what happens."

Administration officials are watching the constantly changing situation with deep and anxious interest. News of the Juarez fight was received at the White House this afternoon with obvious surprise and disappointment. The announcement that President Diaz would resign upon the restoration of peace, followed immediately by the recall of the revolutionists' vanguard on the march for the City of Mexico, had given rise to hope that the worst was over and peace at last was in sight.

The President told callers to-day that he believed Gen. Diaz's promise would be accepted in good faith by the insurrectos. A manifesto to the Mexican people, he thought, would be taken as the surest indication that Diaz would keep his word.

With a view to reassuring the people of Mexico, Senator Rayner of Maryland today introduced a resolution defining the attitude of this country toward the Latin-American republics in connection with the enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine.

The resolution would declare it to be the opinion of the Senate that the United States has no right or purpose to interfere with or disturb the political integrity of any of the independent republics of the western hemisphere, or to assume at any time any political protectorate over them.

A second proposed declaration reads in part:

"While we reaffirm the Monroe Doctrine and announce our adherence thereto, the United States hereby offers to these Governments an assurance and guarantee that their territory shall not be usurped by the United States."

FIGHTING AT TIJUANA.

Rebels Attack Small Garrison—Bands Gather to Take Agua Prieta.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 8.—Fighting has been going on all day at Tijuana, Lower California, and is continuing to-night. Intermittent firing can be heard from the Custom House on the American side of the boundary line.

The rebels from Tecate had planned to assault Tijuana for several days. The Federal guard, numbering about 100 men, was put under arms at daylight to repel an attack. Fighting began in earnest at 10:45 this morning. The rebels advanced from the east, and a detachment of Federals went out to meet them. Rebel bullets entered Tijuana, which was practically deserted.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 8.—Insurrecto bands in Sonora are marching up the Nacazari Valley for the fourth battle of Agua Prieta. The rebel leaders, with the breaking of the armistice, dispatched couriers to all rebel camps calling for a concentration of forces.

Among those expected to take part in the attack are Rojas, with his command of 400 men, at Pilares, near Nacozari; Juan Cabral and his large band, stationed west of Fronteras; Antonio Garcia, with 600 men, who are believed to have united to-day with Cabral's force, and Escoboso, who has 500 men surrounding Moctezuma.

In addition to these important forces there are many scattering bands of smaller size, and if all were brought together they would make a strong army.

DIAZ PLEDGE COOLLY RECEIVED AT CAPITAL

MADERO MAY BE DECEIVED

Altered Document Said to Have Been Sent to Him—Situation Grows Worse in Nearby States.

By STEPHEN BONSAL,
Special Correspondent of The New York Times.

Copyright, 1911, by The New York Times Co.

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—I talked this morning with more than twenty representative Mexicans and foreigners and have not found one who interprets the Diaz manifesto in a favorable light.

We are told by dispatches that the document has been accepted as satisfactory in the Madero camp and in Washington, but these representative men unanimously point out that Gen. Diaz still reserves for his conscience and his judgment the choice of the opportune moment in which to withdraw from the head of the Government. It is apparent here, and I believe the same conditions prevail outside the capital, that the overwhelming majority of the people are not willing at this crisis to abide either by Gen. Diaz's judgment or his conscience.

Diaz Realizing the Situation.

On the other hand, the fact that the President should openly parley with his people at all without any further attempt at subterfuge is recognized as a return to reason. It is the first recognition by the Chief Magistrate of the actual conditions in the country.

There are other indications of this surer appreciation of conditions, one of which I will cite as an illustration. For ten days a committee of the leading citizens of the State of Guanajuato has been pleading with Gen. Diaz to remove their Governor, saying that if it was not done immediately an overwhelming majority of citizens of their State would throw their fortunes with the revolution. Last night the President yielded and has consented to appoint a new Governor whom the citizens' committee will nominate.

Intense excitement prevails throughout the city. There is also the most perfect order. Little interest is shown by the people in the manifesto, which is being placarded throughout the city. The exodus from the city still goes on, principally toward Vera Cruz. Mexicans of the wealthy class predominate in the rush.

Madero Deceived on Manifesto.

An article in this afternoon's Nacionel, the evening edition of The Pais, which has revolutionary tendencies and connections, may offer an explanation why Gen. Madero and his Lieutenants near Juarez were so pleased with the Diaz manifesto, while their sympathizers here are, to say the least, only moderately pleased when at all so. The Nacional says the version of the manifesto that was submitted to Gen. Madero late last night was, to use its word, "adulterated"; that it does not tally with the text of the proclamation issued here, and that the joy in the insurgent camp was based entirely on an erroneous conception that Gen. Diaz had offered his resignation without any reservation whatsoever.

Peace, war, and even intervention bulletins and extras have followed one another all the evening in bewildering succession. Now the lights are out in the Ministry. It is reported here that insurgents have captured Juarez. The Federals charge the insurgents with bad faith, and add that Madero cannot control his men. The revolutionists here reply that the Government has been trying to deceive Madero, and under cover of the armistice buy off some of the important leaders. Great anxiety is felt here lest Texans might under provocation take a hand in the fight. The conservative opinion here is that now peace will come.

Whether the situation is to be changed for better or worse depends upon the working of the manifesto as it was submitted to Madero. It will be impossible to ascertain this for some hours. As it is published here, the impression made is certainly divided. Some hail the fact that Gen. Diaz should depart from his sphinxlike attitude and parley with the people direct. Others declare that the promises made and the views expressed are distinctly unsatisfactory. Perhaps a day or two will elapse before it will be apparent which impression, upon which so much depends, will prevail.

News has been received here from official sources that American plantations back of Salina Cruz have been burned.

DIAZ ORDERS HARDER FIGHT.

Draft May Be Enforced for Army—Vera Cruz Is Now Threatened.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
From Another Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—Mexico City was never more surprised than when it awoke this morning to find that the rebels at Juarez were pleased with the Presidential manifesto, issued late last night. In it the President said:

> The President of the republic, who thus has the honor of addressing the Mexican people at these solemn moments—let there be no doubt that he will retire from power when his conscience tells him that he can do so without giving over the country to anarchy. He will then retire in a dignified manner, which the nation has dignified manner, which the nation has a right to expect and to which he himself is entitled as a ruler who may have made many mistakes, but who has also fought in defense of and has served his country with loyal devotion.

This pledge of retirement has seemed to the majority of the people here to be insufficient to satisfy the rebel demands. It is the belief here that when the full text of the manifesto reaches Gen. Madero a different view will be taken of it, especially as the Maderists are accused of bad faith in the peace negotiations, the manifesto maintaining that by a prior private arrangement the question of the President's resignation was not to be brought up.

May Draft Men into Army.

That the manifesto favors in a way some of the demands of the revolutionists is admitted, but the general tone of it is regarded as defiant. Furthermore, orders have been issued to the War Department to push the campaign with a rigor heretofore unattempted. In case volunteers fail to furnish sufficient men for the army, drafting will be the resort of the authorities.

El Imparcial, a semi-Government organ, in an editorial this morning, refers without qualification to the "American impresarios" of the revolution. It says that the statement of President Taft that intervention will no come unless conditions become exceedingly bad, "undoubtedly will cause them to close their money pouches, as their hope of gain was based more on intervention than on a chance of Madero winning. The holdings of these men in Mexico in lands, mines, and other properties would reach high values in the case of intervention, and the pennies furnished to Madero would become dollars; but with the chance of intervention diminishing. Madero's hope for funds from Americans grows less," a decided decline in the revolution is predicted from the present time.

Dynamite in San Luis Potosi.

Fourteen dynamite bombs were found last night near the barracks at San Luis Potosi. Many such implements of destruction have been found recently in various places in that city just in time to prevent dangerous explosions. There is great fear among the inhabitants that some of the efforts at dynamiting will succeed, with wholesale destruction of life and property.

The War Office is advised that Col. Rabago, who was camped at Terragas, north of Chihuahua City, has started north to relieve Juarez immediately on the expiration of the armistice on Saturday. He is said to have more than 1,000 men and strong field artillery.

In Vera Cruz City the proximity of rebel bands is giving rise to alarm, as the place is practically without a garrison. The opportunity for rich loot it offers, it is feared, will cause the concentration of rebel bands in that portion of the State of Vera Cruz. Tamalpico, in the State of Vera Cruz, in the rich oil belt, has been taken by the rebels.

Guadalajara Also in Peril.

Within a week rebel activity has spread throughout the State of Jalisco, and is causing much uneasiness in Guadalajara.

The express companies here refuse to accept valuables which the people want to send away for fear of cessation of all travel on the railroads on account of the many cribbed bridges. The rains are beginning, and floods are carrying many of the temporary structures away.

Conditions in Zacatecas are growing much worse.

In the State of Puebla the situation is even more alarming. A large cotton factory near Atlixco has been seized by the rebels and the stock, valued at more than 300,000 pesos, has been carted away. The foreign factory owners in Puebla have sent an insistent demand to the Federal Government asking what guarantees it can give for the protection of their property. They declare that the State Government is powerless to meet the situation.

PREPOSTEROUS, SAYS DIAZ

Of Demand That He Resign Now or at a Given Date—Relies on the Army.

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—The manifesto of President Diaz, issued last night and posted throughout the city this morning, after relating at length the details of the reforms already in course of enactment or planned, the events leading up to the negotiations for peace, and the appointment of a Commissioner by the Government, is in part as follows:

"The result of this private initiative was, as is known, an agreement for the suspension of hostilities concluded between the General in command of the Federal forces at Ciudad Juarez and the rebel leaders of that region, in order that during the truce thus arranged the Government might learn the proposed conditions or bases on which order might be restored. The Government named a delegate in the person of a distinguished Justice of the Supreme Court, to whom instructions were given, conceived in as broad a spirit of liberality and concord as was compatible with the dignity of the republic and the stability of the very peace which it was sought to bring about.

"The Government's good will and its evident desire to make ample concessions and afford effective guarantees for the early execution of its intentions were perhaps interpreted by the rebel chiefs as signs of weakness or of slender faith in the justice of its cause. But in any case the negotiations came to naught, owing to the preposterousness of the demand formulated by the representatives of the revolutionists as a condition for the declaration of their own terms, a demand absolutely inconsistent with all ideas of legality.

"If the demand of the revolutionists that the President of the Republic should resign in the midst of the present difficulties were to be allowed it would expose the Nation to all the contingencies and dangers of the new elections which, according to constitutional provisions, would have to be held at once while political passions are in effervescence and before order could be established throughout the Republic.

"Again, to fix a given date for the resignation would involve the same drawbacks, seeing that it is impossible to foresee when the disturbances will end, and, what is still worse, such a course would impair the prestige and authority of the nation's chief at the very time when those qualities are most needed to buttress the political situation, of which the mainstays are the sound sense of our people and the attitude of the army, whose brave and exemplary conduct has been a source of pride to the republic. It is not, therefore, a sentiment of personal vanity that led the President, to whom power has become more than ever a burden of bitter contrarieties and immense responsibilities, to refuse to yield to the demand of the insurrectos.

"No, it is duty, the supreme duty of bringing back the country to the sway of law and order, at any sacrifice, including that of his life, if necessary.

"Furthermore, to allow the Presidency of the republic, the supreme authority in the nation, to become the sport of the will and pleasure of more or less armed groups would not certainly conduce to the restoration of peace, which ever must rest on the respect for law; but, on the contrary, would open a new and most sinister chapter of anarchy in our history, the persistence and consequences of which it would be impossible to foretell.

"The President of the republic, who thus has the honor of addressing the Mexican people at these solemn moments, will, let there be no doubt, retire from power when his conscience tells him that he can do so without giving over the country to anarchy, and he will then retire in the dignified manner which the nation has a right to expect and which he himself is entitled to expect as a ruler who has made many mistakes, but also has fought in defense of his country and has served her with loyal devotion.

"The failure of the peace negotiations will perhaps entail a renewal and aggravation of revolutionary activity. If, unfortunately, such should be the case, the Government on its side will redouble its efforts, relying on the loyalty of our heroic army to quell the rebellion. But, in order promptly and efficaciously to ward off the dangers which threaten our social fabric and the country's autonomy, the Government needs the support of the people's patriotism and co-operating efforts. It feels that it has that support, and, with it, it is confident of saving the nation. PORFIRIO DIAZ."

MANY BANDITS IN MEXICO.

Pretend to be Maderists, but Are Out Only for Loot.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 8.—More refugees from Mexico arrived here to-day, and, as did those who arrived yesterday, they told stories of grave conditions in that country.

One of the arrivals was S. Rabe of this city, who said that the Mexican Government was contending not only with rebels but with bandits.

"Throughout large parts of Mexico there are bandits who fly the colors of the revolution merely as a pretext for all sorts of crimes," said Mr. Rabe. "Especially is this true in the southern States, where Madero is less well known than in the northern parts, where his army is mobilized. These bandits claim allegiance to Madero, but in reality acknowledge nobody as their commander. Accounts of robberies reached me from numerous sources when I was at Queretario."

Another arrival was W. B. McCallum, who came in from Torreon. He said that when he left last Tuesday the city was still in the possession of the Federal troops, but the inhabitants of the city were expecting it to be taken by the rebels whenever they saw fit to attack.

That the city of Nuevo Laredo is in danger of capture was confirmed by an American army officer who arrived from Laredo this morning. He said the insurrectos were reported camped about eighteen miles south of Nuevo Laredo, and the Federal force guarding the city was so small that the natives did not believe the city could hold out more than a few hours.

A detachment of the Third Cavalry under Lieut. H. B. Johnson recently captured near Laredo a bull cart which was about to cross into Mexico with a bale of hay. The hay was ballasted with 500 rounds of rifle ammunition. A fine touring automobile in which was a Captain of the insurrecto army was also captured by Capt. Munro and Lieut. Johnson. It contained ten new rifles and several hundred rounds of ammunition. The automobile was taken to Fort McIntosh and the insurrecto Captain was locked up in the Laredo jail to await a hearing before the United States Commissioner there.

Gov. Colquitt of Texas visited the camp to-day, and this afternoon Gen. Carter paraded 3,000 infantry in his honor. He said it was one of the finest military sights he had ever witnessed. Beyond this there were no military exercises in camp to-day.

REBELS DRAG A SPANIARD.

Employe Saves the Life of a Mill Manager by Cutting Lariat.

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—Dragged through the streets of the little town of Metepec, Puebla, at the end of a lariat tied to the saddle horn of an insurrecto, Faustino Diaz Caneja, a Spaniard, escaped death Saturday by the merest chance. A workman in his employ ran forward before a band of rebels and cut the lariat. The injured man was taken to Puebla for treatment.

Caneja is the manager of a textile mill at Metépec. Several hundred rebels appeared at the mills and demanded money. He gave them $1,500, all there was in the safe. The insurrectos rode on. Later, another band attempted to force a loan. Angered at his reply that there was no money, they started to drag him.

Following the cutting of the rope a small force of rurales arrived and engaged the rebels. It was a short fight and the Federals were victorious. Sixteen of the rurales were killed.

MEXICAN GOLD COMES HERE.

Not $10,000,000 as Reported—Brokers Say It Is Not Significant.

Reports were circulated yesterday that there had been within the last few weeks shipments of freshly minted Mexican coin to the Assay Office amounting to $10,000,000, and it was assumed that such a large sum could only mean that President Diaz was sending away as much cash as he could get hold of preparatory to leaving the country. The coin, it was stated, had been sent to this country through the international banking firm of Lazard Freres, 10 Wall Street.

At the Assay Office it was stated that within the last two weeks the receipts of Mexican gold coin had been less than $1,000,000. There was nothing to show that the gold had not been received in the regular course of business, although it was admitted that gold from Mexico did not usually come in the shape of coin.

At the Sub-Treasury there has also been received in the last few days about $1,000,000 of Mexican coin. This was accepted in accordance with the provision of the recent law, which authorizes the Sub-Treasury here to exchange foreign gold coin for gold certificates instead of, as has heretofore been the case, directing the consignor to the Assay Office to have it melted down into bars. The coins were sent in by certain banks, and the Sub-Treasury officials stated that they had nothing to show that there was any special reason for the consignment.

At the office of Lazard Freres it was denied absolutely that there had been any specially large consignment of Mexican gold to them recently. The quantity received, it was stated, had rather fallen off from the normal figure in the last week or two, and by no means was all of it in the form of coin. Regular transactions to meet bills held here on Mexico were declared to be the explanation for such shipments as have been made.

OUR OFFICERS 'NURSEMAIDS.'

Cosmo Hamilton's Discoveries in Regard to the United States Army.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 29.—Cosmo Hamilton is contributing a new series of "Brummell" articles to Black and White. They are headed "Brummell's Brother," and are supposed to be written by a brother of the original Brummell—Mr. Hamilton's Brummell, not the dandy of the days of George IV.

In this new series Mr. Hamilton has been throwing brickbats about in an amazing manner. Among the things he has recently attacked savagely, for instance, are the new building of the Royal Automobile Club—generally regarded as the finest club building in the world—and the Victoria Memorial, also generally regarded as among the finest modern monuments in London.

But "Brummell's Brother's" latest effusion is the most astonishing of all. Where the author obtained his ideas regarding the officers of the American Army he alone knows, but this is the manner in which he sees fit to speak of them:

"I would awfully like to run up against that pessimist, or fatalist, or vegetarian, or whatever he jollywell calls himself, who said the other day, somewhere or other, that we had seen the absolute last of old Sol, the sun that brightly. Eh! What 'ud I do with him? I'd hold him by the short hairs at the back of his neck and the scruff of the things that scruffs belong to and keep his old face in the warm, gorgeous and oh, so welcome rays till he blistered! I had a fit when I read his appallin' grogumgigs—the world eludes—and pretty nearly put my place of residence in agents' hands and bolted to Algiers. Don't regret not havin' done it, but rather wish I had gone to Algiers and thence to Fez.

"Interestin' show, the Fez show, b'Jove. If it isn't watched pretty closely there'll be regrettable incidents. And what I funk is the fact that the American so-called army may plunge recklessly into a sort of action. Ever seen or heard of the American Army? Ah, well, there are armies and armies. There are mildly comic things, like the Swiss in arms, and precious bad jokes, like the Terriers in the field.

"But the American Army, b'George, is a scream. It is officered by very hairy fellers with wide centre partings and no mustaches, who immediately marry and spend the whole of their time with their children. The C. O.'s orderly room rings with merry voices and the patter of kids' feet all day long. Processions of officers go by in the afternoon, wived and childrened completely. They are nothin' more nor less than male nursemaids, who tittle-tattle all day long.

"Put these dear domestic creatures into action, and what? Well, we've seen it once, eh! They're worse now. The one thing they do better than the officers of any other nation is to stand in small heaps, heads close together, and swig what they call swipes."

Mexican Mail Held Up.

LAREDO, Texas, May 8.—The Postmaster at Laredo has been instructed to hold all Mexican mail until more settled conditions prevail in the country.

CHILDREN'S STREET PERILS.

Five Large Sites for Play-Spaces to be Opened—Appeal for Funds.

It was announced yesterday by the National Highways Protective Association that five large sites in the city have been given it for play spaces for children, and that a junior league of the society has been started as a new department, which it is hoped will spread all over the United States. To help to form this department the society has sent out 20,000 appeals for monetary aid and new members.

Edward S. Cornell, Secretary of the society, said yesterday at its headquarters, 46 East Twenty-ninth Street, that many communications have been received by it from educational and other organizations asking what are the best means whereby children may be protected in streets and highways. He said that 21 children have been killed in Manhattan in the last month and 183 were killed and 210 maimed for life in Manhattan in the year 1910.

It is hoped to enroll in the Junior League all the children in large cities who can write their names. Certificates of membership will be given to them and they will be presented with badges for carrying out the principles of the society and of their league. Medals for bravery and meritorious conduct also will be given. It is thought that this plan will interest children in large cities throughout the country, and that these children will in many cases be able to interest their parents, many of whom know little of the ways of protecting children in dangerous streets or roads. This is especially true of foreigners.

Park Commissioner Stover is helping the society in its work, and particularly in opening as a children's and mothers' "rest," at First Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, a piece of ground placed at its disposal by F. Augustus Schermerhorn. A baseball ground will be established on a site donated by the J. G. Bennett estate at Broadway and 184th Street, where four "diamonds" will be laid out. Alfred L. Seligman, Vice President of the society, has placed at its disposal a piece of ground for baseball at Broadway and Hillside Avenue.

A farm garden will be made on Sixty-sixth Street, between First and Second Avenues, on a plot 225 by 150 feet, given by Mr. Schermerhorn. Children will be taught the rudiments of farming and truck gardening, and will be permitted to take away whatever they produce there. There is space enough for 350 children to engage in farming. It is also intended to open a fresh-air park on the east side, near the river, somewhere in the Fifties.

All these places will be open soon and before the settled warm weather is here. The committee in charge of the work consists of Alfred L. Seligman, Dudley Field Malone, Joseph A. Herron, M. DeG. Trenholm, and E. S. Cornell. The committee signing the appeal for funds sent out to-day is made up as follows: F. Augustus Schermerhorn, Joseph H. Choate, Cleveland H. Dodge, R. Fulton Cutting, Felix M. Warburg, Isaac N. Seligman, David B. Ogden, W. Emlen Roosevelt, B. Aymar Sands, J. A. Scrymser, Douglas Robinson, and Dallas B. Pratt.

CHARITIES MEETING TO-DAY.

First Session in Brooklyn When City Needs Will Be Discussed.

The second New York City conference of Charities and Correction will hold its first session this evening in the Collegiate and Polytechnic Institute Hall, 99 Livingston Street, Brooklyn, and will continue Wednesday with meetings in the United Charities Building, Manhattan, and on Thursday at the Home for Convalescent Children of the Children's Aid Society at Chappaqua, Westchester County.

William H. Allen, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, will present a report of the Committee on Municipal Roads. Controller Prendergast will speak on "Municipal Needs in Budget Estimates," and Dr. Edward T. Devine, General Secretary of the Charity Organization Society, will open the discussion. There will be other speakers.

The meetings to-morrow in the United Charities Building at 10, 3, and 8 o'clock will deal with public institutions, wholesome homes, and the sick. The speakers will include the Rev. Mgr. William J. White, Supervisor of Catholic Charities in Brooklyn; Michael J. Drummond, Commissioner of Public Charities; Patrick A. Whitney, Commissioner of Correction; Mrs. William Einstein of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association, W. Frank Persons of the Charity Organization Society, Dr. Godfrey R. Pisek of the New York Milk Committee, Miss E. P. Crandall of Teachers College, Miss Lillian D. Wald of the Henry Street Settlement, and others.

The delegates to the conference have chartered a special train on the New York Central Railroad for an excursion to Chappaqua on Thursday, when Henry Solomon, President of the State Commission of Prisons, will present the report of the Committee on Delinquency. City Magistrates Robert C. Cornell and Robert J. Wilkin will speak on "The Domestic Relations Court" and "The Delinquent Parent," respectively. Miss Maude E. Miner of the New York Probation Association and Mrs. Annie Winsor Allen of the Board of Managers of the New York State Training School for Girls will discuss "The Woman Delinquent," and Mrs. Helene Ingram, Superintendent of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, will tell what is being done in New York on behalf of sick children of the poor.

BRAIN STORM HIS DEFENSE.

Corporal Spohr Says It Led Him to Kill Rosa O'Toole.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 8.—Corp. Lawrence Spohr, a musician and marksman of Battery G, First United States Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Slocum, was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Tompkins, at White Plains, today on an indictment charging him with the murder of Rosa O'Toole. His trial was set for May 22. His defense will be that he had a "brain storm" at the time of the shooting.

The murder occurred on the night of April 21, at White Plains. Spohr found the girl out walking with A. Woodin, a young railroad brakeman. He followed them to her home, seriously wounded Woodin and then killed the girl. The commanding officers and many soldiers at Fort Slocum will be called to aid Spohr in his defense. The District Attorney has a package of letters in which Spohr wrote he would kill the girl if she met any other man.

Seven Horses Burn in a Stable.

Seven horses were burned to death last night when a two-story frame stable at 397 Third Street was destroyed. Fifteen horses were on the lower floor of the stable, but eight were saved. The loss to the building and live stock was estimated at $[illegible].

MANY HURT IN TRAIN WRECK.

Cars Jump the Track Near Elmira—Three Passengers May Die.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 8.—A passenger train on the Elmira and Cortland division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad due here at noon, was wrecked about eight miles north of this city to-day and twenty passengers were injured, three of them perhaps fatally. The train left Van Etten about 45 minutes late and was making up time.

When near Fowler's Crossing, between Horseheads and Breeseport, the tender, baggage car, and two coaches were derailed. The tender and baggage car ran over the ties and passed over a culvert. The two coaches were thrown down the embankment and turned over. Of the twenty injured three are reported in a serious condition. The injured are being brought to the Elmira Hospitals.

Mrs. Della Hollenbeck of Erin, N. Y., had her face crushed in and was internally injured. She is dying in a local hospital.

Pearly Dickinson of Cortland, N. Y., and Thomas Linderman of Swartwood, N. Y., have concussion of the brain, and both may die.

Harvey B. Dickinson of Mansfield, Penn., has concussion of the brain, but is expected to recover.

J. J. Candler of Moravia is seriously hurt.

Fifteen others are in the hospital with broken bones.

DEFENDING COAL CLAIMANTS.

Case That Led to Ballinger-Pinchot Inquiry Argued Before Board.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Arguments designed to prove that letters patent should be issued to the holders of the so-called Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims, which were the cause of the Ballinger-Pinchot Congressional investigation, were begun to-day before the board which has final jurisdiction. Secretary of the Interior Fisher, to whom a final appeal may be made, sat with the board, consisting of Land Commissioner Dennett and the Land Office Board of Law Review.

Speaking for the claimants, E. C. Hughes of Seattle, the only attorney heard to-day, attempted to prove that there had been no thought of combination among the various entrymen prior to the time when their rights to their claims had been acknowledged by the Government's acceptance of the purchase price for the lands.

Clarence Cunningham, who discovered the coal lands and finally succeeded in getting thirty-two others to allow him to locate claims for them, was present all day. Mr. Hughes, defending the efforts of the claimants to combine after their claims had been allowed, declared that it was understood by Congress when it passed the Alaskan coal land law that the operation of a coal mine upon 160 acres was impracticable, if not impossible, and that individuals had the right to unite in the operation of their claims.

WOMAN DEAD; MOTHER DYING

Mrs. McLean Not Told—Daughter Never Knew Mother Was Burned.

Annie McLean is dead in her home 15 Chestnut Street, Flushing, Queens Borough, and in an adjoining room her mother, Mrs. Anna Smith Miller McLean, 82 years old, is dying. The mother has not been informed of the death of her daughtere, who died without knowing of her mother's condition.

Mrs. McLean is the widow of John McLean, an old resident of Flushing. On Wednesday last she was about to leave her home to get medicine for her daughter, when the feathers in her hat caught fire from the flame of a gas jet. Not wishing to alarm her daughter, who was then in a critical condition, Mrs. McLean did not scream or call for help, but tried to put out the flames herself. Her clothing caught fire and she was found on the kitchen floor [illegible].

At her [illegible] told what [illegible] died yesterday [illegible] it was said [illegible] a question of hours.

FAIL TO TURN TAFT AGAINST RECIPROCITY

Farmers Threaten Him with Loss of Votes, but He Tells Them He Will Stand by Treaty.

SURE THEY'LL BE WON OVER

Believes a Year's Trial Will Convince Them of Its Benefits—Book Paper Makers Also Protest.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—President Taft indulged in some plain talk to-day in explaining to twenty-five members of the National Grange that he does not intend to play politics wtih the Canadian reciprocity agreement, even if the enactment of that measure by Congress costs him the farmer vote. The President told his visitors bluntly that he was sorry to hear that Republican farmers would desert the party of the agreement goes through, but fear of such desertion would not change his conviction as to the wisdom of the legislation. He said that he believed reciprocity to be the best thing for the whole country, and that he didn't intend to argue it.

N. P. Holt, spokesman for the farmers, intimated strongly that they do not like reciprocity.

"If reciprocity goes through," said he, "it means that we must take less for our wheat and less for our products, and that means a halt in the improvement of our homes and in the education of our children. Take the States along the line—Michigan, Wisconsin, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont. In the past the farmers of these States have been the backbone of Republican protection. You could count on these people every time.

"If this measure goes through it will discriminate against our markets, and Canada will get the benefit; it will make it harder for us to get a dollar. No President ever commanded the faith of the farm people in times past more than you, and I ask you whether you do not think that we will suffer if we are put on a free-trade basis?"

The President's Reply.

"Certainly I have no disposition to interfere with the prosperity of those who make up the bone and sinew of our population—the farmers," replied the President, "and I am convinced that I am in no way interfering with it. If I am—if we carry through this treaty and it turns out that it does produce the injury that you anticipate, it can be repealed by a single Congress. It does not last longer than either side desires it to last. I am convinced that after it has been given one year's trial neither side will think of reversing it. That is my conviction. I cannot go into an argument.

"You say that the Republican farmers are going to desert us if we put that through. I am very sorry if that is to be the case, because I have a personal liking for the Republican farmers just a little mite stronger than for the Democratic farmers, although they are all citizens of the United States whose welfare I must hold equally in my care.

"But my conviction with respect to the advantage of this treaty is very deep. So far as the effect of this on my personal political fortunes, it ought not to influence me and does not influence me in the slightest.

"I believe this treaty to be the best thing for the whole country, including farmers, merchants, laboring men, and all, because I believe it is contrary to nature, it is flying in the face of Providence, to put an artificial wall like that between this country and Canada and not get the benefit that will inure to people's of the same traditions, the same language, and practically with the same character of labor.

Stands by the Treaty.

"If we take down that wall, we will benefit by it, for we shall sell more agricultural products to Canada than she will sell to us. We do now, and we shall sell her even more after the treaty goes into effect. That is my judgment. I am not arguing—I am merely stating my conclusion.

"If I did not believe this, I should not have taken the responsibility of doing what I have done to put this reciprocity treaty through. I am willing to abide the judgment of history—the judgment that will come after the event. When you gentlemen come to see the result, I believe that you as fair-minded men will admit that you have been wrong in your fears and that I have been right."

The farmers also protested against the reciprocity treaty before the Senate Finance Committee. Representatives of the farmers from Illinois, New Hampshire, New York, Missouri, West Virginia, and Michigan addressed the committee. Others will appear to-morrow.

Ex-Gov. N. J. Bachelder of New Hampshire, Master of the National Grange, denounced the bill as a violation of the pledge of the Republican National platform of 1908 to maintain protection to the country's industries equal to the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

"Are cattle, sheep, and hogs, wheat, oats, butter, eggs, and potatoes controlled by trusts?" asked Mr. Bachelder of the Democratic Senators, as he referred to the Democratic platform. "If not, why put them on the free list, instead or on a revenue basis as your platform demands?"

Ex-Gov. Bachelder presented tables to show that articles used by the American farmer bore an average tariff tax of from 20 to 35 per cent. more than that paid by the Canadian farmer. He concluded from this that the American farmer could not compete with the Canadian on an equal basis.

Threat by the Farmers.

N. L. Raine, Master of the Missouri State Grange, and Prof. T. C. Atkinson of Morgantown, West Va., also spoke in opposition to the measure. The latter declared that while the cost of production on the American farm had more than doubled in the last ten years, the prices of farm products had far from done so.

Robert Eaton, Master of the Illinois State Grange, and W. N. Giles, Secretary for the New York State Grange, both warned Congress against discriminating against the farmers.

"You'll hear from us farmers if you do," said Mr. Eaton.

"Lower the tariff equally, if too high," said Mr. Giles, "but don't discriminate against the farmers. We are going to hold somebody responsible if this bill passes."

"That will be the President, for he negotiated the treaty," suggested Senator Bailey.

"How about Senators who voted for it?" interjected Senator Gallinger.

"I wouldn't like to be President—I don't expect to be," retorted Mr. Giles, "and I would not like to be a Senator who had to go to the farmers and say he had been willing to sacrifice the farmers in this matter."

Book paper manufacturers also protested against the treaty. George Sullivan, representing a Philadelphia company, asserted that because of the vast wood supply and cheap water power in Canada, coupled with advantages in the duty on raw material, Canadian book paper manufacturers could make their product at $7 a ton less than Americans. He declared the agreement would put the American book paper manufacturers out of business.

Mr. Sullivan said there were forty-six book paper mills in the United States, with 30,000 employes. The only book paper Americans export is Bible paper.

IF POSTAL CLERKS STRIKE

Law Against Obstructing the Mails Could Be Used in Retaliation.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—"There is a law making it a criminal offense to wilfully and knowingly obstruct the mails, and I think that law would be applicable in the case of a strike in the Railway Mail Service," declared Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart to the House Committee on Civil Service to-day in explaining what the Post Office Department would do in the event of a walkout by the clerks, who are seeking to establish their right to form a union.

Mr. Stewart declared that a majority of the 17,000 mail clerks are satisfied with present working conditions. Trouble was being fomented, he said, by "a few discharged clerks and agitators outside the service."

STRADIVARIUS GETS IN FREE.

Court Dismisses Government's Suit in the Famous Havemeyer Case.

Judge Holt in the United States District Court yesterday dismissed a suit instituted by the Government for the forfeiture of the famous Kiesewetter-Stradivarius violin which the late Henry O. Havemeyer bought in London in 1895 for $7,750. The forfeiture was attempted because of the discovery that the violin was smuggled into this country without the payment of duty, but Judge Holt dismissed the suit on the ground that the statute of limitations had run against the offense charged. He also held that Mr. Havemeyer had no knowledge when he bought the violin that the duty was to be evaded.

Mr. Havemeyer bought the instrument from George Hart & Sons, dealers in violins in London, on condition that it was to be delivered to him in Boston without further expense than the purchase price. Delivery was made at a Boston hotel in January, 1906, and it developed after the death of Mr. Havemeyer that no duty was paid on the violin. It was said by the Government that the entry was obtained through a relative of the Harts who was first officer on a liner running to Boston.

retaliatory amendments the proposition that the terms of the bill should not apply to any country that imposed restrictions on wood pulp coming into this country, but this was swept along with the tide. The Democrats were bent on passing their first tariff bill without the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t" and they did it.

Mr. Hobson asked Mann finally if he would vote for a bill embracing all the amendments he was offering to the Free List bill.

"No, I would not," said Mann, "nor for any one of them."

"That shows the sincerity of your amendments," said Mr. Hobson.

Its Republican Supporters.

The Republicans who voted for the bill were Anderson, Davis, Lindberg, Miller, Volstead, and Steenerson of Minnesota; Anthony, Jackson, Madison, and Murdock of Kansas; Hanna and Helgeson of North Dakota, Hubbard of Iowa, Kent of California, Kopp, Lenroot, Morse, and Nelson of Wisconsin; La Follette and Warburton of Washington, Morgan of Oklahoma, Norris of Nebraska, Roberts of Nevada—23.

Victor Berger, Socialist, and Aiken of New York, Independent, voted for it.

Another Free List bill was introduced in the House to-day. Its author is Representative Morse, a Wisconsin Republican insurgent. It would exempt from duty articles imported for use in the construction and equipment of pulp and paper mills and in the manufacture of pulp and paper.

NOW FAVOR FREE WOOL.

Democrats Almost Unanimous for Such a Bill—Underwood Overruled.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Democrats on Ways and Means have overruled their Chairman, Mr. Underwood, and eliminated his hard and fast duty of 5 cents a pound on unwashed wool. The majority will bring out a bill for free wool or for a five-cent duty, automatically reducing a cent a pound annually until there shall be free wool in 1917.

Mr. Underwood to-day admitted defeat for his view which is opposed to free wool either now or in 1917. The developments came when Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York asked his delegation for its views on the subject. Accordingly the twenty-two New York Democrats met this morning, and eighteen of them voted for free wool, while four voted for a tariff on the article, but signified their willingness to agree to an annual reduction that would gradually put wool on the free list.

Later in the day Representative Hughes of New Jersey learned the views of his delegation, the seven New Jersey Democrats voting for free wool, though one of their number favored the gradual annual reduction on the ground that the revenue on the wool is needed.

Speaker Champ Clark in the last two days has come out strongly for free wool.

For the Tafts' Silver Wedding.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Fifty members of the Cincinnati Commercial Club are coming to Washington to help the President and Mrs. Taft celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on June 2. They will entertain the President at luncheon.

DIRECT CHOICE VOTE SOON IN THE SENATE

Resolution Submitting Amendment Made Unfinished Business by Vote of 66 to 5.

DEBATE MAY BEGIN TO-DAY

Only Reactionaries Voted Against Taking Up the Resolution—Both New York Senators Absent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The strength in favor of the popular election of Senators was indirectly indicated in the Senate this afternoon when, on motion of Mr. Borah of Idaho, the resolution submitting the constitutional mendment to the States was made the unfinished business by the vote of 66 to 5. This overwhelming vote of course merely showed that the taking up of the measure was recognized as inevitable, but the supporters of the proposed change are much encouraged by it.

The five Senators who voted against taking up the resolution are all reactionaries. They were Senators Penrose of Pennsylvania, Brandegee and Burnham of Connecticut, Gallinger of New Hampshire, and Heyburn of Idaho. Senator Root of New York, who opposed the measure in committee, was absent, as was his Democratic colleague, Mr. O'Gorman. Mr. O'Gorman was not present at the committee meeting, either, but he has since expressed himself unequivocally as supporting the measure without the Sutherland amendment.

Formal debate on the proposed constitutional amendment may begin to-morrow, and as the subject comes up automatically whenever there is a lull in other business, it is certain that in a scattering fashion speeches will be made on it for several days to come. The expectation now is that the Sutherland amendment, reserving expressly to Congress control of the "manner" in which the elections shall be held, will be added to the resolution by a close vote, and that as amended the resolution will get the needed two-third vote of the Senate by a safe margin.

In the last session the resolution as amended by Mr. Sutherland failed of passage by four votes.

CAUCUS CHOOSES GALLINGER.

His Election as President Pro Tem. of the Senate Expected To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Republican caucus this afternoon unanimously nominated Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire, President pro tempore of the Senate. His election probably will be moved to-morrow afternoon when the Senate convenes. He will be technically opposed by Senator Bacon of Georgia, the Democratic nominee, and possibly by Senator Clapp of Minnesota, an insurgent.

Only thirty-one of the fifty Republican Senators attended the caucus this afternoon. Several insurgents were among them, and they voted along with the regulars for Mr. Gallinger, but it is still undecided whether or not some of the insurgents who stayed away will vote for the regular candidate or name Mr. Clapp.

WILSON CHEERED IN DENVER.

Talks on Preservation of National Resources and the Tariff.

DENVER, Col., May 8.—A demonstration continuing for five minutes followed the mention of Gov. Woodrow Wilson as a "probable Democratic candidate at the next election" by President Charles Johnson of the Denver Chamber of Commerce to-night at a banquet.

Gov. Wilson spoke upon the preservation of the National resources and the tariff. He said, in part:

"We have determined to safeguard our National resources at every point, realizing, as we do, that we have been too lavish of them and have used them in spendthrift fashion. We now insist that our resources do not consist merely of forests and the power of great streams and the wealth that lies hidden in the mines or merely in the productive powers of our varied soil, but include also the lives and health of our workmen, of our women and children. The rights and health and prosperity of our workingmen and workingwomen and of our children we now recognize as being our chief National resource, and we mean to safeguard that resource of all others against the selfishness of private use and profit. We shall take care of our forests and mines and water courses and soil; but, above all things else, we shall take care of our people."

Speaking of the tariff, Gov. Wilson said:

"We have made up our minds to cut all privilege and patronage out of our fiscal legislation, particularly out of that part of it which affects the tariff. We have come to recognize in the tariff as it is now constructed not a system of protection but a system of favoritism, of privilege, too often granted secretly and by subterfuge instead of openly and frankly and legitimately, and we have determined to put an end to the whole of the bad business, not by hasty and drastic changes, but by the adoption of an entirely new principle—by the reformation of the whole purpose of legislation of that kind. We mean that our tariff legislation henceforth shall have as its object not private profit but the general public development and benefit; that we shall make our fiscal laws not like those who dole out favors but like those who serve a nation."

ALASKANS TO SEE WILSON.

If Governor Will Solve Coal Question They Will Embrace Democracy.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 8.—Falcon Joslin, 6 Broadway, New York City, President of the Tanana Valley Railroad, and other prominent Alaskan political leaders, will confer with Woodrow Wilson upon the latter's visit to Seattle, May 20, in regard to the Alaska coal land question and situation, which are daily becoming more desperate.

According to Alaskans who pass the Winter in Seattle, the district is almost unanimous in turning down the Administration and is strongly in favor of Gov. Wilson, if he will turn a willing ear to Alaska's appeals for relief in the matter of the forced purchases of foreign coal, when its own coal is at its doors but unmined by reason of executive orders.

A. J. Daly, National Democratic Committeeman from the Iditarod, unable to remain here to meet Gov. Wilson, gave out before leaving for Skagway last night that Alaska was ready to turn to the Democracy for relief, and this latest development in the coal question since the Cordova "coal party" last Thursday, was confirmed to-day by Mr. Joslin.

"I intend with other Alaskans to go into the Alaskan coal land question very carefully and thoroughly with Gov. Wilson when he reaches Seattle, for I received no satisfaction from either President Taft or his new appointee to the office of Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Fisher, when I was in Washington a few weeks ago," said Mr. Joslin to-day. "This coal question, to Alaskans at least, is as big an issue as Canadian reciprocity or the Mexican intervention, and before the long-suffering Alaskans are through, the present Administration will be well aware of that fact."

Wilmington Theatre Burned.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Tuesday, May 9.—The Lyric Theatre was destroyed by fire early this morning. William Benner, proprietor, and his wife, W. J. Waring, John Muller, and a woman, actors, were rescued by firemen with difficulty from the third floor. The general store of Louis Jacoby, adjoining, was badly damaged. The loss is $100,000, fully insured. The fire started in a dressing room of the theatre, probably from a cigarette.

HIS OWN FAMEMAKER.

Representative Littlepage Praises Himself in Congress Directory.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The new Congressional directory was issued today and James Preston, Superintendent of the Press Gallery, has made a compilation from the biographies of the Congressmen. According to his tabulation, ten members of the House and seven Senators are foreign born. In the House three members came from Ireland, two from Germany, one from Nova Scotia, one from Canada, one from Hungary, and one from Bohemia.

While New York's delegation in the House is only thirty-seven strong, forty native born New Yorkers are in the House. Twenty-seven of them represent New York, while thirteen represent other States. Ohio, with a delegation of twenty-one, has twenty-eight of her sons in the House, and Indiana, with a delegation of thirteen, has eighteen of her sons in the House. Seven Pennsylvanians represent other States in the House. In the Senate are six native born Mississippians, five Kentuckians, and five New Yorkers.

The biographies of new members, as compiled by themselves or their secretaries for the directory, are always food for amusement, and this year's edition is no exception. The fashion is growing every year for short biographies, but some of the new members can not resist the temptation to tell about themselves and their ancestry.

Representative Adam Brown Littlepage of West Virginia, for instance, sets forth how his father was killed in a duel, having at the time of his death accumulated "quite a fortune." "But the Northern and Southern armies," goes on the memoirs, "confiscated and destroyed about everything the family had with the exception of the land and one dwelling house built of stone, thereby reducing the family to want."

"Adam," says the confession, "was the youngest of five boys, consistent Democrat, never wavering in his political convictions."

Mr. Littlepage tells that he made a lucrative practice of law and a "fine record" in the State Legislature. He informs the public that he "bears the reputation of being a very grateful man, never forgetting a kindness, and is faithful in his friendships and thoroughly reliable. He stands for the under man in life, works hard, late, and early as a Congressman, and is reflecting credit upon the country by his manly, conservative, and wise course in Washington as a representative of all the people."

As all of the directory has been in type almost since the first day Congress was convened, Mr. Littlepage, though he doesn't mention it, must have been working while others slept in his conservative and wise course.

STATEHOOD REPORT READY.

Democrats Agree as to Terms for Arizona and New Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The sub-committee of the House Committee on Territories to-day completed the draft of the report on the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as States. This report represents the Democratic solution of the Statehood problem, and is to be adopted at a meeting of the full committee, so that it can be at once laid before the House. The report will offer a joint resolution, the chief effect of which in regard to New Mexico will be to give the people an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of the provision in the Constitution already adopted by convention, making it very difficult to amend that instrument.

In the matter of admitting Arizona the report provides that when the general election for State officers is held there shall be submitted to the voters a provision amendatory of the section on the recall of public officers, specifically excepting Judges from the recall. If this amendment is adopted by the people the recall will not be applicable to the judiciary, but if it fails of adoption then the pending Arizona Constitution, including the recall of Judges, is to be in full force and effect.

The Democrats expect the Statehood joint resolution to pass the House in this shape, and expect it to meet the approval of the President in the event that the Senate also passes the measure.

FLAGG SUES GOVERNMENT.

Architect Claims $114,104 for Extra Expenses at Naval Academy.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Claiming extra expenses in supervising new construction work at the Naval Academy, Architect Ernest Flagg, who has supervised the expenditure of $10,000,000 for the Government at Annapolis, to-day filed suit against the Government in the United States Court of Claims for $114,104.

Mr. Flagg has been engaged at Annapolis since 1898, and acknowledges receipt of $374,000.

Subway be made for rush hours. The committee wanted a six-day weekly coupon ticket to be sold for 30 cents, each coupon good for one round trip in either direction, between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock in the morning and between 5 and 7 o'clock at night. The delegation expressed its belief that this arrangement would increase travel in the Subway during the rush hours and would help draw workers away from the congested centres of population.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company gave out yesterday the following statement bearing upon the complaints about the company's Coney Island service, forming the basis of stories in yesterday's morning papers:

"It is odd that after three years Coney Island is now making its first general protest against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit service, which has been in Summer use since 1908. The point has been raised about the operation of through trains to the heart of Coney Island. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit considers that the West End terminal, to which trains of both the Sea Beach and West End routes are now operated, and the Culver terminal, into which trains on the Brighton Beach and Culver lines are operated, are both of easy access to all the principal entertainments at the Island.

"When the four-track elevated and depressed route to Brighton was completed the express service, which had hitherto been operated to Coney Island over the Sea Beach line through what was originally a section of open country and was rapidly becoming a developed section of houses, was shifted to the Brighton line, from which grade crossings had been eliminated. That was done in the interests of the public; in the interest of public safety all expresses from Manhattan to Coney Island were routed over a line from which grade crossings had been eliminated; in the interest of public comfort they had been taken from a congested double-track surface line and placed upon a four-track line where trains could be operated with celerity and with absolutely no increase in running time.

"The Brooklyn Rapid Transit is doing its best, with the facilities it has at the present time, to give the best service to the greatest number. It is conceded that operating an express service to West End terminal would be better for Coney Island as a whole, provided this could be done, but this will not be possible until grade crossings have been eliminated on the South Brooklyn lines running to Coney Island. Any statement that the Brighton Beach line is being preferred by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit at the expense of West Brighton is absurd. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit must carry passengers where they wish to go—whether it be Brighton, Ocean Parkway, or West Brighton.

"The running time on express trains on the Brighton Beach line from Manhattan to Coney Island will this year be further reduced by reason of the construction of high platforms at Brighton Beach and Ocean Parkway stations. The long stop at these two stations on account of the necessity of loading and unloading from low platforms will be avoided. All express service from Manhattan on the Brighton Beach line, operates through to Coney Island."

MAY INDICT FIFTY MORE LEGISLATORS

Grand Jury Investigating Ohio Bribery Reconvenes for Far-Reaching Inquiry.

GARBER IS BADLY WANTED

National Committeeman May Be Forced to Return from Abroad if He Does Not Do So Voluntarily.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, May 8.—"I believe that twenty more Senators and thirty Representatives will be enmeshed in the bribery net before the Grand Jury finishes its work," was a statement made to-day by Secretary Moore of the Manufacturers' Association, who is assisting the prosecution. He added:

"We are receiving offers of financial assistance from all over Ohio, and from many Ohioans who live outside of the State. If the present backers of the investigation should withdraw their financial support, there would be enough money coming from other sources to carry the matter through.

"This corrupt condition has existed in the General Assembly for many years, and the atmosphere there will be cleared. The men who are saying that the Grand Jury will not return any more indictments are simply whistling to keep up their courage."

From Mr. Moore it has been learned that a close watch has been kept on the movements of Harvey Garber, Democratic National Committeeman and legislative agent for telephone interests, and that, if he does not voluntarily return to Columbus from England to testify, means to force him to come back will be taken. In order to extradite a man from a foreign country an indictment for a felony must first be returned against him. A person wanted as a witness only cannot be forced to leave a foreign country. Asked whether an indictment would be returned against Garber, Moore declined to answer.

When the Grand Jury reconvened to-day for a continued and far-reaching investigation of legislative graft those in charge of the inquiry believed they were in possession of certain evidence as to an "agreement of silence," entered into by various legislators and lobbyists whose aim is to prevent the indictment of any more members of the General Assembly.

Prosecutor Turner and Attorney General Hogan declared that they would be able to break up the agreement, and in the end would make it harder for those who had entered into the alleged compact. The Grand Jury began to-day a deeper inquiry into new evidence that is thought to promise many interesting ramifications. Those who are pushing the prosecution have information of a secret meeting held yesterday near Columbus of about a dozen legislators who have either been indicted or are under suspicion. The first hint of the meeting was contained in the fact that several legislators had not returned home for the Sunday recess and could not be found. It is generally believed that a "stand-together" meeting was held.

Prosecutor Turner said to-night that a partial report would probably be made by the Grand Jury to-morrow.

There are indications that some of those who were instrumental in bringing the detectives here are now trying to smother up the whole affair as the expose brings into the net some of their closest friends whom they had never suspected. Representative A. C. Lowry, one of the indicted, is a son-in-law of Col. H. A. Marting, the millionaire manufacturer of Ironton, who is a member of the Manufacturers' Association, which subscribed largely to the fund to start the investigation.

The prosecution declares that it will be impossible for any one to smother the investigation, as there are now so many sources of information and the affair is entirely out of the hands of those who first started it.

Eight or ten officers of the Allied Employers' Association will be summoned before the Grand Jury to throw light upon their operations and to tell if efforts have been made by members of the General Assembly to extort money in return for opposing the Women's Nine-Hour Work Day bill. Prosecutor Turner has copies of letters sent out from Cincinnati by Charles E. Waltz, Secretary of the association, that are said to show that the association was formed expressly to kill this bill. A letter was sent out asking for contributions to a fund of $10,000 outside of the regular maintenance allowance. The Senate committee by amendments did partly destroy the bill by excluding mercantile establishments, hotels, and restaurants from its operation. In the hearing before the Labor Committee of the House union labor speakers said these amendments had been brought about by the Allied Employers' Association.

Sergeant at Arms Diegle, one of the indicted, said to-day that immunity had been offered to him if he would tell all he knew. He declares that he knows nothing.

Attorney General Hogan says it is illegal for a legislator to be elected by money contributed by the liquor interests, and the Grand Jury had before it to-day the cases of several members who accepted campaign contributions from the liquor men.

A bill was introduced in the Senate today providing that lobbyists must register with the clerk of the House or Senate before approaching a legislator to solicit his vote on a bill.

RECLUSE SAYS SHE'S SANE.

Aged Miss Williams Tells Court She Can Care for Her Estate.

On application of Robert H. Haskell, representing Frederick W. Sandford, an architect of Hillsdale, N. Y., a hearing was held before Supreme Court Justice Aspinall in Brooklyn yesterday over the petition to appoint a committee of person and estate for Miss Jennie Perkins Williams, the aged recluse, who was recently removed to Kings Park Hospital from her little shanty at 452 Prospect Street, East New York. At that time it was said that she was wealthy, although she chose to live in squalor, and in her room were found newspapers and unopened letters containing checks for dividends that had gone uncollected for years.

Mr. Sandford is a nephew of the woman. Homer G. Babcock, another nephew, appeared. After he had finished questioning Miss Williams, who appeared mentally alert in court, Justice Aspinall said that the question of her competency should be settled by a jury, and so directed.

The aged recluse told the court that she did not believe she was worth more than $25,000 in all. "All this trouble has been caused by those who want my money," she told the court. "Smart men respect me, but ignorant women don't, particularly those who are after my money."

"Do you know the nature of this proceeding?" Justice Aspinall asked her when he called her to the front.

"Well, I understand it has something to do with me, but I have not been able to catch what has been said," she replied.

"They say you haven't been able to care for yourself and ought to have somebody look after you and your property. What do you think about it?"

"Well, I have always been able to look after my estate. I think I can now. I had a little money to begin with, and have worked hard to double it."

"Have you ever had dealings with J. P. Morgan & Co.?"

"Oh, yes. When my father died, in 1873, I put all the money left me with the Morgan firm."

The case will be decided later.

Metropolitan's Third Rail Men Quit.

A strike of the third-rail men of the Metropolitan Street Railway took place yesterday to enforce a demand for an increase in wages from $2.10 to $2.50 a day and a nine-hour workday. The strikers say they had been working ten hours a day. The strikers said last evening that the Metropolitan third-rail men were paid lower wages than those of any other company in the East, and that the risks they ran ought to be taken into account.

JAIL FOR TRUST OFFENDERS.

Senator Kenyon's New Bill Would Make Such Punishment Obligatory.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who until his election a few weeks ago was Assistant Attorney General in charge of trust prosecution, to-day introduced a bill intended greatly to increase the severity of the existing anti-trust statutes. His bill, in place of fines, makes the jailing of offending trust officials obligatory upon the courts.

Mr. Kenyon's measure also takes steps to prevent the use of patents as a means to secret trust organization. In this connection his bill provides for the forfeiture of patent rights when the holder of the patent joins with others in restraint of inter-State trade.

The purchase of ownership of stock in competing inter-State corporations is prohibited, and a jail sentence is imposed upon the person negotiating the transaction.

The measure has wide support, but it is not likely that it will get serious consideration at this session.

FOR FULL SUGAR INQUIRY.

House Committee on Rules Extends It to All Companies.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Investigation of the American Sugar Refining Company and all other concerns engaged in the manufacture or the refining of sugar, to ascertain whether or not there have been violations of the anti-trust law, was recommended to-day by the House Committee on Rules.

The resolution of inquiry, introduced by Representative Hardwick of Georgia, provides for a special committee of nine members of the House. Chairman Henry of the Rules Committee expects to report it to the House to-morrow.

The original resolution provided for inquiry into the affairs of the American Sugar Refining Company alone, but the scope was broadened to include all sugar manufacturers.

This empowers the committee to investigate whether companies which are not affiliated with the American Company have violated the anti-trust laws by restricting or destroying competition or have raised prices of refined sugar to the consumer and decreased prices of sugar cane or beets to the producer.

Hatters Begin Convention Here.

Sixty delegates from Philadelphia, Chicago, Danbury, Conn., this and other cities, attended the quadrennial convention of the United Hatters of North America, which began yesterday at Arlington Hall, in St. Mark's Place. It will last two weeks. The President, John A. Moffett of Orange, N. J., reported the union as in good shape, having increased its membership within the last two years. The forenoon and afternoon sessions were taken up principally in hearing reports and appointing committees.

Here's How!

It may be asked how can we produce such perfect fitting and splendidly finished men's garments at such reasonable prices. The point is well taken—the answer very simple.

In the first place we maintain our own tailoring organization in fact and not in theory. Every Saks-made garment is bought by us in the fabric and evolved into a garment by labor that is permanently in our employ. This saves the tremendous profits of the middlemen.

In the second place, although we employ the highest paid designers and cutters and tailors, this manufacturing cost is reduced to a minimum by the fact that it is distributed over many thousands of garments.

To put it in another way, the high cost of our labor is diminished by the volume of our sales.

Candidly and unequivocally—that's how!

LONDON'S SEASON OF GAYETY OPENS

Royal Ball Given by Lady Naylor-Leyland at Hyde Park House the Chief Event.

HOSTESS IN GORGEOUS GOWN

Mrs. Waldorf Astor and Lady Decies Among Americans at Dance—Duchess of Norfolk Also Entertains.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 8. — What London hopes will prove one of the gayest seasons on record really began to-day most auspiciously in perfect weather. The King motored to Newmarket, where to-night he occupies a suite of apartments in the Jockey Club, formerly used by King Edward, and whence he returns to-morrow for the first Court of the year.

The West End throughout the day presented an aspect such as usually is only seen at the height of the season, and to-night no fewer than six dances of importance are being given. Among these, though the Duchess of Norfolk is one of the hostesses, the chief honors will fall to the royal ball which the American-born Lady Naylor-Leyland is giving at Hyde Park House. Princess Christian and Princess Victoria are royal guests, whom the hostess is assisted in receiving by her son, Dr. Albert Naylor-Leyland, a godson of King Edward, who comes of age next December.

Hyde Park House, which is not only the handsomest, but the best situated in London, was admirably and not excessively decorated, the dazzling white marble staircase being massed with lilies and pink roses. The vast ballroom was illuminated with the soft light of wax candles in Venetian chandeliers.

The hostess wore a wonderful dress of gold and white brocade opening in front over a tulle underdress. She retains her noted looks and fine figure. Her corsage drapery was caught with great diamond clusters, and her waist was encircled with a diamond cincture. She wore an immense diamond crown and a wide necklace as well as other diamonds.

Americans were well to the fore at this dance, including pretty little Mrs. Waldorf Astor, in a skimpy little frock of the latest cut, with many strings of her lovely pearls. Among other guests were Lady Paget, who has just returned from Paris; Mrs. Greville, Lady Craven, Mrs. Henry Higgins, Lady Decies, who wore some of her wedding gifts with a delectable gown; Commander and Mrs. Simpson, and the Countess of Strafford.

The royal supper table was decorated with a new variety of rose, whose flaming color made a sensation.

English Excavators Turned Antiquities Over to the Government.

LONDON, May 8.—In an interview to-day Capt. the Hon. Montagu Parker, one of the leaders of the British expedition which has been making excavations at Jerusalem, emphatically denied the charges of theft of ancient treasures at that place.

"All the antiquities we found in the Holy City," he said, "have been left in the hands of the Turkish Government."

Capt. Parker asserted that the work had been carried on throughout with the consent of the Turkish Government and in the presence of Turkish officials.

One result of the excavations, he added, was the discovery of proof beyond doubt that the ancient City of David was not on Mount Zion, but on Mount Orphel.

The contention that the City of David was on Mount Ophel and not on Mount Zion bears out the belief of modern investigators, who have taken a position in antagonism to the testimony of Josephus, the Jewish historian.

Mount Zion is a hill at the southwestern corner of modern Jerusalem and Mount Ophel is opposite to it on the southeast, directly south of the site of the Temple.

MORE ROOM IN CHANNEL NOW

Inspection Officials Move Anchorage Back from Robbins Reef.

Government officials inspected the ship channel and general anchorage ground in the upper bay yesterday in considering changes proposed by steamship men and Captains of the big liners, who say they have difficulty in swinging vessels clear of anchored ships above the Narrows and near Robbins Reef. The inspection party included Eugene T. Chamberlain, Commissioner of Navigation, Washington; Col. W. T. Rossell, Chairman of the Harbor Line Board; B. S. Cable, Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor; Capt. O. C. Hamlet, Supervisor of Anchorage; W. R. Eaton and Deputy Collector Johnson, representing Collector Loeb; Capt. Charles, commander of the Lusitania; Richard L. Walker of the Cunard Line and Capt. R. M. Doyle of the Lighthouse District; Col. Black of the Harbor Line Board, and George Uhler, Supervising Inspector General of the Steamboat Inspection Service.

It was decided to cut off about 500 feet of the general anchorage just above the Narrows at Robbins Reef and add that water space to the ship channel. Additional anchorage ground will be provided further back.

SUES JOHN HAYS HAMMOND.

Man Hired to Organize Republican Clubs Claims $17,368.

Jesse F. Turner, whom John Hays Hammond, as President of the National League of Republican Clubs, employed to organize subsidiary clubs throughout the country, is suing Hammond for $17,368 in the Supreme Court. Turner says he was hired on April 7, 1909, with the understanding that he was to be kept at work until President Taft's first term should expire, in 1913.

Hammond, he says, discharged him without just cause last September. Turner says he spent $5,118 of his own money forming Republican clubs. He places a value of $1,000 a month on his "unique and extraordinary services."

Justice Newburger sustained yesterday Turner's demurrer to one of Hammond's four defenses, which was that Turner had no contract in writing nor note of any contract. Hammond denies that Turner gave his entire time to the work of organizing Republican clubs, declares that he cannot be held personally liable for Turner's salary, and pleads that Turner was fully paid.

New Envoy's Name Not Yet Submitted.

BERLIN, May 8.—It was stated at the Foreign Office to-day that the name of the American who will succeed Ambassador Hill had not been submitted to the German Government, and it was expected that his identity would be communicated to the Foreign Office, in accordance with diplomatic usage, by Dr. Hill after his return here from the United States.

TWO REFORMS FOR CHINA.

Edict Abolishes Grand Council and Substitutes a Constitutional Cabinet.

PEKING, May 8.—The long-awaited edict abolishing the Grand Council and substituting a constitutional Cabinet of ten members was issued to-day.

The Cabinet as announced, however, is made up of the present Grand Councilors, with the addition of Liang Tun-Yen, ex-President of the Foreign Board, who is now traveling in the United States.

Prince Ching becomes Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Na-Tung and Hsu Shih-Chang are made Vice Prime Ministers. Liang Tun-Yen is named as second Foreign Minister. Otherwise the Presidents of the various boards become the Ministers of their respective departments.

The change is in line with the demands of the National Assembly for a constitutional Cabinet responsible to that body instead of to the Throne, but in what respect the new Ministry is made responsible to the Assembly has not been announced.

The new British-Chinese agreement for the immediate reduction and final extinction of the exportation of Indian opium to China was signed to-day.

The agreement becomes operative at once. It provides that China shall annually diminish its production of opium proportionately with the Indian exportations, until its extinction in 1917. Great Britain agrees that the importation of Indian opium into China shall cease earlier if the native production in this country ceases.

Great Britain is to receive facilities for investigating this diminution, and China is to have similar facilities with reference to the sale and packing of opium in India. The Indian exports to China are not to exceed 30,600 chests in 1911, and they will be reduced by 5,100 chests annually.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—With the substitution of a Cabinet composed of Prince Ching and the heads of the executive departments for the old Grand Council, a long step toward the establishment of a true constitutional Government in China has been taken, in the belief of officials here. It is a part of the plan to make the Cabinet Ministers' tenure depend upon the will of a majority in the Assembly, and since this was one of the principal demands of the Liberal element, it is expected that the action of the Government will reduce the probabilities of an extension of the insurrection in the South.

A cablegram to the State Department to-day from Minister Calhoun, reporting the issuance of the edict, indicates that while Prince Ching will continue to supervise the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the actual Minister will be Liang Tun-Yen. Tsou Chia-Lia will act as head of this department until the new Minister, who is now traveling in the United States, returns to China.

The revolutionary disturbances in Kwang-Tung have been quieted and the missionaries at Wu-Chow are safe, according to State Department advices to-day from Consul General Bergholz at Canton.

LANSDOWNE PLAN PRESENTED

Its Author Thinks It Would Insure a Non-Partisan House of Lords.

LONDON, May 8.—The Marquis of Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition in the House of Lords, to-day introduced his bill for the reform of the upper house before a great audience, in which were many diplomats.

The Unionists, oLrd Lansdowne said, were convinced that an amendment of the Constitution of the House of Lords should proceed simultaneously with a reform in the relations between the two houses. They desired to demonstrate to the country that they could provide an efficient second chamber which could be trusted to use its powers fairly as between the great political parties, faithfully serve the democracy, and at the same time be strong enough to resist the gusts of passion and prejudice with which all democracies were familiar.

The Unionists, the speaker went on, proposed a House to consist of 350 Lords of Parliament.

No peer should hold his seat for more than twelve years, but they would be eligible for re-election. The peers themselves would elect 100 members of the peerage possessing statutory qualifications, such as being present or former Vicedoys, Governors, Privy Councillors, members of the House of Commons, diplomats, naval and military officials, heads of civil service departments, Lord Mayors, provosts, &c.

A second contingent would consist of 120 members, to be elected from outside the House of Lords by an electoral college composed of members of the lower house representing constituencies comprised in electoral districts, into which the country would be divided by specially appointed Commissioners.

The third section of the House, numbering 100, would be appointed by the Crown on the recommendation of the Cabinet. Princes of the royal blood would retain their seats, as also would the two Archbishops, while five Bishops would be elected. Including the Lord Chancellor and the ex-Lord Chancellor there would be sixteen law lords. The power of the Crown to appoint hereditary peers would be limited to five appointments each year.

Lord Lansdowne concluded by expressing the belief that there could be no permanent party majority in a House reconstructed in this manner.

Viscount Morley, who immediately followed Lord Lansdowne, threw cold water on the plan. He admitted that the author of the bill had taken a bold and frank course, a possibly helpful course, but said that the Government could not accept the proposals as a solution of the difficulty.

The bill passed its first reading.

Lord Lansdowne's bill goes a deal further in the direction of reform than the Liberals had anticipated, but would, it is asserted, still give the Conservatives a majority in the upper house. His speech was listened to in chilling silence within the House and has excited no enthusiasm outside.

The bill is recognized by many Liberals as a possible basis of negotiation between the two houses, but only after the Veto bill has been adopted. Lord Morley, in his brief speech following Lord Lansdowne, made it quite clear that it would be impossible for the Government to accept the bill as an alternative to the Veto bill, although it might possibly serve as a complement or supplement to the Veto bill.

The House of Commons began the report stage of the Veto bill to-night, rejecting some of the amendments. It will pass its third reading this week and will be sent to the House of Lords next week, which also has been fixed for the second reading of Lord Lansdowne's bill, so that the two measures will be before the House of Lords simultaneously. This may give rise to an interesting situation.

NO NEW TRIAL FOR FIELD.

Indictment to be Dismissed, as Whitman Despairs of Getting a Conviction.

District Attorney Whitman announced yesterday that the indictments charging Leonard J. Field with perjury and grand larceny in connection with the Windsor Trust Company case in 1909, would be dismissed.

Field was tried recently before Justice Davis in the Supreme Court and after a trial lasting three weeks the jury disagreed. Mr. Whitman says that he put in all the evidence he had against Field, and can hardly hope for better results in another trial.

Another reason for his consenting to the dismissal of the indictment was the fact that there are a great number of very important cases to be tried in the Criminal Branch, and he did not feel that he would be doing right if he insisted on retrying a case in which he felt there might be another disagreement.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—Since the recurrence of the cholera epidemic there have been forty-one suspected cases in this city.

BERLIN, May 8.—The Japanese Military Commission, headed by Major Gen. Yamaguchi and Major Gen. Todoye, arrived here to-day for the study of fortifications.

WARNING TO FRANCE GIVEN BY GERMANY

Dangerous Consequences Likely to Follow Occupation of Fez by French Troops.

BRULARD'S PROGRESS SLOW

Relief Expedition, Expected to Reach Fez Last Saturday, Still 100 Miles from the City.

BERLIN, May 8.—Germany has warned France of the dangerous consequences which would be likely to follow the occupation of Fez by French troops.

Further than this the Government has taken no step, although it is watching developments in Morocco very closely. There is no truth in the rumor published this morning that Germany had decided to send three cruisers to Moroccan waters in order to display the German flag at Casablanca, Rabat, Mogador, and El Araish.

In view of the hint from Berlin, it is believed here that the French flying column from the Southwest, which has been hurrying to the relief of Fez, will be halted outside the capital.

TANGIER, May 8.—The French, British, and Austrian Consuls received advices from Fez to-day. The messages are of a pessimistic character.

Other official couriers and those of news agencies who were expected to-day did not arrive.

The dispatches received state that Col. Brulard's relief expedition is still close to El Knitra. The column was expected to reach El Knitra on May 1, and to make the intervening 100 miles to Fez by forced marches not later than last Saturday.

On April 27 France gave formal notice to the signatories to the Algericas Convention of 1906 that prompt and energetic intervention in Morocco by France had become necessary to protect foreigners at Fez, re-establish order throughout the country, and safeguard the sovereignty of the Sultan. At the same time it was made known unofficially that Spain, the other police power in Morocco, acquiesced in the French plans, which also had the full and sympathetic support of Great Britain.

The German Government made no public announcement of its attitude, but the Berlin press forthwith attacked the French movement as a violation of the Algericas agreement.

France and Germany clashed diplomatically on the subject of foreign influence in Morocco shortly before the conference at Algericas brought about an understanding. M. Delcassé was then the French Foreign Minister, and his aggressive attitude in Morocco was followed by a visit to Morocco of Emperor William and a speech in which the German monarch declared that French domination in that country would not be tolerated. Immediately afterward the Sultan refused to accede to the French proposals and, the French policy in Morocco failing, M. Delcassé lost the support of his associates in the Cabinet and was forced to retire.

MOTHERS' CLUB HAS DEBATE.

Suffrage the Issue, and Some of the Mothers Oppose It.

The Mothers' Club followed the general fashion yesterday and had a suffrage debate. It was no mock debate and the arguments were given back and forth with more decision than parliamentary law requires. Miss Marguerite Cummings, who has been called the Queen of the Antis, was one of the speakers.

Miss Cummings told of the shortcomings of her own sex. In work that she does in the dance halls she can influence the boys, but she only gets impudence from the girls.

"I can always manage the boys by my womanliness," she said. "I want my rights, but I think if there was anything in particular I wanted I could get the men to get it for me. I'd be the first to cast my vote, though, if we did have suffrage."

"I don't want to talk against women," said Miss Cummings, "but I know women in my own set who would vote for a man who has curly hair and white teeth."

"Yes, I know," said Mrs. Flora E. Cook, nodding sympathetically, "I have four daughters."

Miss Cummings doesn't think the working women want the vote or need to improve their industrial condition.

"You'll find the salesgirls are contented," said Miss Cummings. "Why, I know girls in department stores who make $15 a week and own property and go to Europe."

Mrs. Kate Upson Clark told a story of one of her boys who, when he was small, wanted her to "prim with him in his primer." She insisted that he meant read in the primer, but the boy knew better. "'You read in the reader,' he said, 'but you prim in the primer.' That is what women are doing now," said Mrs. Clark. "They are priming in the primer instead of reading in the reader."

"We cannot have real democracy without the woman's vote," said Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer. "I see no way for women to shirk the burden of responsibility. I do not consider it a privilege, but an obligation—women need the discipline."

METHODIST BRANCHES MEET.

Joint Commission to Act on Report or Alienated Divisions of Church.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 8.—Envoys from the three great branches of Methodism met here to-day to lay a foundation for the unification of the alienated divisions of the Church. Plans for the federation of the denomination are shaping into complete form. The three branches represented are the Methodist Protestants, the Methodist Episcopal, and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The joint commission consists of twenty-seven members, each church being represented by nine Commissioners, and its first session will be held Wednesday to receive and act on the report of a subcommittee.

AEROPLANE HITS A POLE.

M. See Badly Hurt by Collision—Falls to the Roof of a House.

ISSY-LES-MOULINEAUX, France, May 8.—While making an early morning flight to-day M. See, the aviator, collided with a telegraph pole erected on the top of a residence. He fell to the roof and was seriously injured.

The sleeping occupants of the house were awakened by the crash of the falling machine and went to the aid of the injured man.

See was trying a new style of aeroplane called the "Canard."

Smith Gray & Co.

Foremost Clothiers Since 1845

In the world search for Smith Gray & Co. fabrics, every foreign and American fine woolen producing centre has yielded its best. There are fabrics from England, from Scotland, from Belgium, from Ireland, Germany, France, Canada and all the better woolen producing sections of the United States. And to all these, there have been added many special designs and weaves, which will not be shown outside the Smith Gray & Co. stores until another season.

Smith Gray & Co. Spring Coats and Suits range in price from 18.00 to 50.00, with special values at 15.50 and 18.50.

Blue Serge Suits
15.50 and 18.50 Special

Here are two of the most wonderful blue serge suit values at 15.50 and 18.50 that have ever been shown in New York. Whether your judgment of value hinges on fabric, style, service or all combined, these suits are unusual value at 22.50 to 25.00.

About 800 standard value 22.50 blue serge suits..... 15.50

The tailoring and fabric are all of a quality found only in those garments conceded to be extreme values at 22.50—all are Smith Gray & Co. distinctive styles for men and young men, in every size from 32 to 48.

Over 1500 standard value 25.00 blue serge suits..... 18.50

This fine serge fabric is spun from the finest Australian wool, much superior to that ordinarily found in 25.00 serge suits. The Smith Gray & Co. tailoring, style and trimmings in these suits are unequalled, in all New York, in any blue serge suits 25.00 will buy. There are sizes and models for men and young men.

Sale of Broken Sizes of
SMITH GRAY & CO. SPRING COATS

The enormous demand for Smith Gray & Co. Spring Coats, greater than in all our history, has brought about a large number of broken sizes and odd end small lots. The Smith Gray & Co. policy does not permit the carrying over one season's garments into another—but demands the immediate disposal of broken lots as rapidly as they occur, and in consequence you may now participate in Spring Coat values which, all things considered, excel any like offering at any corresponding season in all our 66 years.

THE FOLLOWING LETTER

was written to us by Messrs. Stern Brothers upon the completion of the first half of the Annex to their Twenty-third Street store, the second half of which is now in course of erection:

"We desire to hereby acknowledge the splendid manner in which you have handled the construction of our new building on Twenty-second Street. Every promise of yours in connection therewith has been promptly met and fulfilled, and any future work we have in this line we shall be only too happy to have you do for us. We further feel that our judgment in placing the construction in your hands has been fully justified."

The Man in the Tower

THESE Spring nights, through the telescope of style, an interesting phenomenon is noted. The well dressed New Yorker, when he disrobes, displays underclothes that fit.

To them he owes his comfortable appearance.

It is observed that the best dressed men in Gotham wear Gotham Underwear.

We sell it—lots of it.

Athletic, loose, cool—made to wear with soft finished clothes like ours.

Coat shirts—knee drawers—cut as a tailor would cut them.

Lightest and finest materials—$1 to $3.50 a garment—from nainsook to silk.

Well worth it—and guaranteed.

* * *

Warm, friendly days on the horizon.

Golf links, yachts and biplanes astir.

Town clothes—country clothes—all here to fit every Spring mood of the New Yorker.

Street suits, ready to wear, as his best tailor would make them.

Norfolk suits from best English models.

All in custom tailor woolens—grays, browns, tans, blues and exclusive stripes.

Few only of each pattern.

Graded from $20 to $40—differing only in quality of cloth.

WOMAN IN AUTO KIDNAPS A CHILD

PARENTS ARE LIVING APART

The Mother in Connecticut and the Father on the Road—The Child Was in the Care of Her Grandfather.

A woman, heavily veiled, jumped from an automobile in front of Public School 28, at Herkimer and Ralph Streets, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, and, coaxing 6-year-old Mildred Hilzinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilzinger, from the yard, placed her in the machine and drove away. The girl's grandfather, Alexander J. Hilzinger, a hardware merchant of 1,854 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, reported the matter to the police, and a general alarm was sent out.

Mr. Hilzinger explained that his son, Frank, and his wife had separated and that a suit is now pending in the Supreme Court of Connecticut. In the meantime the daughter, Mildred, he said, was left in his care. He told the police that he believed the girl had been kidnapped by her mother, who lives in New Haven. The Brooklyn police have communicated with the New Haven police to be on the lookout for the child.

The police learned that Mildred had left her grandfather's home yesterday afternoon and had gone direct to school. The children had formed in line in the school yard, preparatory to marching into the building, when a closed automobile drew up. Two women, both closely veiled, were in the machine. One, apparently the younger, jumped hurriedly out and ran to the school fense. She called "Mildred" several times, and beckoned the child to her.

Mildred went reluctantly to the fence, and the woman, raising her veil, begged the child to leave the school and take a ride in the automobile. The child hesitated some time, and was finally won over. As she still wore her cloak and hat she went through the gate and the woman seized her eagerly by the hand. Then she half led, half dragged her to the automobile. According to several of the school children, who saw and heard what had taken place, Mildred at this point began to cry. She was inside the automobile in a minute, however, and it sped away. None of the children thought to mention the occurrence to the teachers.

Mildred is described as pretty, with light hair, light blue eyes, and wearing a pink dress, a gray coat, white stockings, and black lace shoes. The woman who enticed her into the automobile is described as about thirty-five years old and wearing a long automobile coat.

"My son Frank and his wife Margaret have been separated several months," said the elder Hilzinger. Frank is a travelling salesman, and he is on the road at present. During his absence I have been taking care of his daughter."

Davis Leaves Educational Alliance.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Educational Alliance last night Allan Davis, who for a year has been the Educational Director of the institution, presented his resignation. In his letter Mr. Davis says that he wants to give his time to letters and that his resignation is due to this cause. His resignation was accepted, but his successor was not appointed last night.

OFFERING WOOLEN NOTES.

Issue of $2,000,000 for Ayer Mills in Hands of Brown Brothers.

The American Woolen Company, whose preferred shareholders showed a disposition to complain a few weeks ago when the Board of Directors announced the purchase for retirement of $10,000,000 of the company's common stock in the open market, has sold $2,000,000 of 4½ per cent. Ayer Mills construction and equipment notes to refund a like amount maturing on June 1 next. Brown Brothers, who bought the issue, are offering $1,000,000, due March 1, 1916, at 95½, and the balance due one year later at 95. The money costs the issuing company between 5½ and 6 per cent.

The Ayer Mills are owned by the American Woolen Company, and are used in the manufacture of worsteds and worsted yarns. The notes are guranteed both as to principal and interest by the woolen company. Holders of the maturing issue are offered an exchange at par.

HIS NAME WORTH $26,725.

Son Who Dropped It from Firm When Father Died Must Pay Widow.

Referee H. Snowden Marshall reported yesterday to the Supreme Court that J. B. McElfatrick's share in the good will of the firm of J. B. McElfatrick & Son, architects, exclusive of his own prestige and ability as an architect, was worth $26,725. Mr. McElfatrick died in 1906. His son, William H. McElfatrick, then continued in business without using his father's name. His mother, Mrs. Margarete McElfatrick, set up in business under her late husband's name with another architect, and her son obtained an injunction to prevent her continuing this practice.

Referee Marshall, though expressing his doubts that an architect's good will does not follow him to the grave and may not be salable, finds that William H. McElfatrick owed a duty to the estate to attempt to realize on the value of his father's name and is accountable for the amount he fixes.

SLAIN ON A BATTLESHIP.

Negro Mess Attendant on the Nebraska Shot by Companion.

BOSTON, May 8.—An early morning fight on the berth deck of the battleship Nebraska at the Charlestown Navy Yard to-day between Alexander Allen and James Beeks, negro mess attendants, was followed an hour later by a shooting affair in which Allen was killed and Beeks locked up on a charge of murder.

The officers of the Nebraska stated after the shooting that the two men had quarreled frequently for some months, but had always settled their difficulties with their fists.

Both rolled out of their hammocks at 5 A. M. to-day and were soon pummeling each other. Allen was the victor, and Beeks was badly punished.

About one hour later a shot was heard, followed by four more, and those on the berth deck who saw the shooting said that Beeks fired one shot that sent Allen to his knees, and followed it by four more through the chest, with fatal effect. Beeks ran up on the main deck and surrendered himself to the officer in charge. He was taken to the brig and locked up.

No one was allowed to leave the ship for the next three hours, while an inquest was being held and a report sent to the Secretary of the Navy. The Nebraska sails on Thursday for the Spring practice, and Beeks will be turned over to the Federal authorities in this city.

Allen's home is in Brooklyn, where he has a brother, Frank Allen, at 578 Baltic Street.

Library Gets No More from Carnegie.

BELLEVILLE, N. J., May 8.—Andrew Carnegie has refused to give an additional $10,000 to the Belleville Free Public Library Commissioners to build an auditorium and enlarge the building. Two plans were submitted to Mr. Carnegie, but he turned both of them down. Mr. Carnegie gave $20,000 for the original building.

BANK TELLER HELD FOR $115,000 THEFT

Confesses When Examiners Discover Shortage in First National Bank of Cleveland.

FOUR DEATHS IN FAMILY

Hopkins Was President of a Speed Indicator Company and Lived Beyond His Means.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 8.—Confessing to the embezzlement of $114,850, Julius W. Hopkins, head paying teller and confidential man of the First National Bank, one of the biggest banks in the State, was arrested this afternoon and lodged in the county jail. His peculations, he says, extend over a period of eight years.

"If this had come ninety days later I could have made good," he said. "I was money mad. Unless a person has seen millions of money pass through his hands he cannot realize just what I faced."

The National bank examiner, M. W. Williams, discovered the shortage at about the same time that Hopkins confessed to the bank officials. According to his own story Hopkins took money sent to the bank from the Treasury Department in Washington in exchange for mutilated currency. Hopkins kept no record of this on the bank's books. It was contained in what was called incomplete currency account. When the defalcation grew to a large sum, Hopkins saw that he would have to place it on the books, or he could no longer keep it secret. Just after he had done that the bank examiners came, and the discovery and confession followed.

Hopkins had been with the bank since its organization. He was President of the Cleveland Speed Indicator Company, which employs twenty men, and is a prosperous concern. The bank officials and his friends thought that the money he spent came from this outside source. He owned an automobile and lived beyond the means of an ordinary paying teller, although he was the highest salaried man for that position in the city. It is said that he lost much of his money in speculation.

In the last eighteen months Hopkins has had much ill-fortune. His mother, wife, little daughter, and sister died. He also was in poor health. He has a son in a sanitarium in the South.

"I did wrong, and I am willing to take the consequences," Hopkins said in a statement made at the county jail.

DEMOLISH THE DUMMIES.

Firemen Throw Waxen Blondes and Brunettes from a Window.

A crowd of women witnessed a fire last night at Third Avenue and 117th Street, and all but wept when exquisitely gowned dummies were thrown from a second-story window to be trampled under the firemen's feet.

The fire was in the women's cloak and suit store of Jacob Bishop, who occupies the entire four floors. On the arrival of the firemen a ladder was run up to the second story and admittance gained to the building by smashing in a show window crowded with waxen blondes and brunettes, attired in Summer suits, hobble skirts, sailor suits and other seasonable novelties.

As the figures impeded their activities the fire fighters cast them into the street. The fire did $5,000 damage and was confined to the second floor.

CHICAGO BANKS DEPOSITORY.

Will Be Able to Pay Balances with Certificates Instead of Cash.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Within a few days the Chicago Clearing House Association will open a depository for banks that are members of the association, modeled after the plan successfully operated in New York. Specially constructed vaults are being placed in the basement of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, and when these are finished there will be constantly on hand in gold and currency from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

"The plan is similar to that long in operation in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and other cities where there are Clearing Houses, but is new in Chicago," said W. D. C. Street, manager of the Clearing House Association, this afternoon.

"Each bank will deposit a certain amount and certificates will be issued each day against these deposits to cover balances. It will do away with the necessity of the banks carting the money to cover balances from one bank to the other each day, as has been the custom.

"The capacity of the vaults will be about $30,000,000."

HOFFSTOT TRIAL BEGUN.

Accused of Bribery, He Fought Jurisdiction for Two Years.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 8.—Frank N. Hoffstot, of New York, banker and steel manufacturer, charged with bribery in connection with the selection of banks as city depositories, by the City Councils, was placed on trial to-day after fighting the jurisdiction of Allegheny County courts for two years.

As soon as a jury had been selected the taking of evidence was begun before Judge John C. Haymaker in the Criminal Court, and when adjournment was taken for the night the jury was locked up under guard. The case will be resumed to-morrow.

Dr. E. R. Walters, Director of the Department of Health, and formerly a Select Councilman, who is charged with accepting $1,000 as a bribe, in connection with the bank ordinance, also was put on trial to-day.

Late in the afternoon the case went to the jury, which was locked up for the night and court adjourned. In the event of a verdict during the night it will be sealed and returned to Judge Shafer in the morning.

GANG BEATS A FAMILY.

Leader Arrested for Attacking Man, Wife, and Child in Their Home.

Peter Costello, a blacksmith, of 163 West Sixty-third Street, was arrested last night on charges of burglary, robbery, and felonious assault. The complainants were Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Boyer of 159 West Sixty-sixth Street.

Boyer says he was sitting on the night of May 7 in the parlor of his apartment, when the door opened and Costello entered and with brass knuckles knocked him unconscious.

Costello, it is charged, grasped Mrs. Boyer by the throat, and then went through the flat. Not finding any money, he returned to Boyer and took $14 from his pocket.

Meanwhile, it is said, three other men entered the flat through the kitchen window. They aroused the Boyers' nine-year-old son John and pointed a revolver at him. The little fellow's cries summoned his mother, who ran to the window and called for help. The men escaped.

A New Book by the Author of

MARY CARY

MISS GIBBIE GAULT

By

KATE LANGLEY BOSHER

MARY CARY had to grow up. The rest of her story had to be written—and here it is. You remember her childhood days in Yorkburg. Since then she has been living in the West, and we meet her on her return, after several years, in this new story—"Miss Gibbie Gault." Most of the characters are new, and Gibbie Gault herself, who is linked to Mary Cary's destiny, is one woman in a thousand. At Yorkburg, in an atmosphere of rose-blossoms and sunshine, romance touches Mary Cary. She blooms into young womanhood, and looks on life—a little older now—with the same sympathy and sweet good humor as in childhood. Hers is a genuine heart story. Gibbie Gault's greatness of heart and quickness of temper—Mary Cary's shy but effective entry into Yorkburg's many interests—the Needlework Guild—the hundreds of incidents of Mary Cary's new life—and especially the One Great Interest—make this a story to read and to love.

Phone Your Bookseller!

It will be hard to buy this new book "Gibbie Gault," unless you do it at once. "Mary Cary" was published in February last year. It is still among the best sellers—has not been out of the list for these fifteen months, and "Gibbie Gault" promises even better things.

ARREST MAN FREED BY UNWRITTEN LAW

Killing of Leary by Father to Avenge Daughter's Wrongs Stirs Philadelphia Judge.

DISCHARGED BY CORONER

McMahon Rearrested on Complaint of Leary's Relatives, Who Deny Charges Against Wealthy Real Estate Man.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 8.—Frank W. McMahon, saloon keeper, who was exonerated by Coroner Ford for killing George Leary at Fifty-seventh and Spruce Streets last Thursday night, was rearrested on warrants charging murder, sworn out by Leary's relatives to-day. He was held by Magistrate Morris without bail for a formal hearing to-morrow afternoon.

At almost the minute McMahon was being taken into the police station Judge Barratt, in Quarter Sessions Court, was directing the Grand Jury to make a special investigation of the killing and to make a presentment to the court.

Immediately afterward District Attorney Rotan announced his office is prepared to prosecute McMahon with vigor, and that he will assist the attorney chosen by Leary's relatives in the effort to have the saloon keeper tried for murder.

James Leary, a brother of the dead man, declared that all the $100,000 estate left by the man who was shot will be used if necessary to convict his slayer of the crime of which he believes the prisoner guilty.

The "unwritten law" is not to be regarded by the courts, the District Attorney's office, or the so-called "private prosecution" which has caused McMahon's arrest.

More of the letters written by Annie McMahon to the victim of her father's revolver were made public to-day. These letters, unfolding the story of the love between the girl and Leary, probably will be used in the father's trial.

Leary, a middle-aged man, is said by the McMahon family to have been the father of Annie McMahon's child.

McMahon testified at the inquest that Leary, who was larger than he, attacked him first, and that the shot which killed the broker was fired during a struggle for the weapon.

James Leary said to-day that this was false, and he intimated his belief also that his brother was not the father of Annie McMahon's child.

"McMahon did not shoot in self-defense," he declared. "He shot through his pocket, and the weapon was not even in sight when the trigger was pulled. There was no struggle. If there had been McMahon never would have had a chance to use his weapon. My brother was a powerful man, who could have felled his slayer in an instant.

"It was a cool and deliberate murder, and every cent of the $100,000 that my brother left will be spent, if need be, to bring his murderer to justice and to clear his name of any blame that has been put on him which he does not deserve. All his relatives are ready to pursue the case so long as they have a cent left.

"With regard to the child, there is no one in our family who knows whether there was a child born to Miss McMahon or whether it was some foundling which the McMahons wished to foist upon my brother. He never saw the child."

The action taken by Judge Barratt created widespread interest in City Hall. Shortly after court convened he summoned the Grand Jurors before him.

"There have been statements in the public press," he said, "that a citizen has been killed in this city by means of a deadly weapon, and that the person charged with the offense has been discharged. This is a grave and serious matter, affecting the order and safety of the community and the supremacy of the law over individual passion or magisterial caprice.

"In such a case it is the duty of the proper tribunal to take action to vindicate the rights of the Commonwealth. Private prosecution for murder is not recognized by our law since the Commonwealth has assumed the function of prosecuting and punishing homicides.

"You will proceed at once to make due inquiry, and I have sent for the District Attorney in order that he may assist you. You are not to wait for any private complaint, but to proceed at once, and as soon as your inquiry is completed you will make a presentment to the court."

Stops Sale of Art Collection.

Hans E. C. Felix, who pledged in 1906 a collection of art objects for a loan of $20,000, got a temporary injunction yesterday restraining Diamante Ichenhauser, executrix of the will of Julius D. Ichenhauser, from selling the collection to satisfy the claim. Felix asserts that he had an agreement with Ichenhauser that none of the pledged articles should be sold at less than agreed prices.

RUSHING INSURANCE BILL.

Mutualization Plan Passes Senate and Goes to Assembly.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 8.—The Legislature to-night made a record in rapid legislation when it passed without dissent the T. D. Sullivan bill providing for the mutualization of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The bill was introduced in the Senate last Tuesday, reported Wednesday, and was at once advanced to the order of final passage without amendment.

The bill was rushed over to the Assembly, where an identical bill was ready for consideration. The Sullivan bill was substituted for the Assembly measure, and to-morrow it will be in the hands of the Governor.

The Mutualization bill was recommended by Supt. Hotchkiss of the State Insurance Department. It was modeled after a measure passed by the Connecticut Legislature to provide for the mutualization of one of the Hartford fire insurance companies. It provides for the purchase of the stock for the benefit of the policy holders, and follows a plan said to be favored by J. P. Morgan, who holds a majority of the stock, and the voting trustees. The mutualization plan is also said to be opposed by the present Directors of the Equitable Society.

LEGISLATORS SOON TO QUIT.

Will Adjourn on May 19—Little Work Has Been Done.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 8.—A concurrent resolution will be introduced to-morrow tentatively fixing the final adjournment of the Legislature for Friday, May 19. It is believed that it will require at least two weeks longer for the Senate and Assembly to get through with the most pressing of the great mass of legislation pending before the two houses.

Only rarely has the Legislature prepared for the final rush of a session with so much of the important work before it left undone. Not one of the reforms recommended by Gov. Dix in his annual message to the Legislature has been enacted.

With the introduction of the concurrent resolution looking to final adjournment, the Committee on Rules will take charge of all legislation in the lower house. This will mean that the working committees will go out of existence, but resolutions were introduced to-night providing for the continuance of the Committee on Ways and Means for the purpose of preparing the appropriation bills, the Cities Committee for the purpose of considering the New York City charter, and the Committee on Judiciary for the consideration of the income tax resolution.

GOTHAM HOTEL LOSES AGAIN.

Bill to Allow Sale of Liquor Defeated, but Will Be Reconsidered.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 8.—A bill introduced by Senator T. D. Sullivan to make it lawful for the Gotham Hotel in New York to sell liquor was lost in the Senate to-night by a vote of 24 to 14. The Republicans, except Senator Ormrod of Rochester, voted against the bill and the Democrats, except Senator Bayne, voted for it.

As the full membership of the Senate was not present, the friends of the measure hope to secure its passage when to-night's vote is reconsidered. The bill allows the sale of liquor within 200 feet of a church when a portion of the church property is used for other than religious purposes.

Efforts have been made for the last six years to secure legislation favorable to the Gotham Hotel, but they have failed, either in the Legislature or before the Governor.

SETBACK FOR "WHITE RATS."

Assembly Passes Brennan Bill Which Repeals Society's Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 8.—The Assembly to-night passed the Brennan bill, which repeals the so-called "White Rats" legislation, passed last year. The "White Rats" bill was directed against the practice on the part of certain theatrical booking agencies of making vaudeville performers pay a double fee, one to the booking agency and one to the employers for obtaining bookings.

A hard fight was made against the repeal by Assemblymen Murray of New York and Terry of Brooklyn. Assemblyman Herrick of New York finally offered an amendment which sent the bill back to committee. The provision was contained in a general bill amending the business law with relation to employment agencies, which Mr. Brennan said was introduced by him at the request of the Commissioner of Licenses of New York City.

For Justice Spencer's Successor.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 8.—The Schenectady County Bar Association to-day indorsed County Judge Edward C. Whitmyer, Republican, and Daniel Naylon, Jr., Democrat, for appointment as Justice of the Supreme Court to succeed Justice Edgar A. Spencer, deceased.

IN AID OF WORKERS INJURED ON DUTY

State Amendment Proposed Providing for Compulsory Compensation.

MORE FACTORY INSPECTORS

Other Safeguards Also Urged—Criticism Aroused by One Bill That Would Favor a Monopoly.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 8.—Labor legislation will occupy much of the lawmakers' attention this week. Many measures introduced at the behest of the commission created in the administration of Gov. Hughes, for the purpose of investigating employers' liability laws in other States and countries and to frame suitable legislation for this State will come up for hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee and the Committees on Labor and Industry of both houses. Other labor measures will be on the calendar of both houses for final action during the next three or four days.

Among the measures on which hearings will be held this week, the most important is the proposed Constitutional amendment introduced by Senator Howard R. Bayne of Richmond, which has for its purpose a change in the fundamental law of the State so as to meet certain objections set forth by the Court of Appeals in declaring unconstitutional the Compulsory Compensation act passed on the recommendation of the Employers' Liability Commission at the last session of the Legislature.

This act provided that in employment where there was an inherent risk, employers should be made to compensate workmen for injuries sustained, even though it could not be proved that the employers were directly or indirectly at fault. The Court of Appeals, Judge Werner writing the decision, declared that while there were sociological and economic arguments in favor of such a statute, its provisions involved the taking of a person's property without due process of law, which was contrary to the Constitution.

To remedy this condition the concurrent resolution, proposing an amendment to the Constitution, provides that the Legislature may impose such conditions on any contracts of employment as shall be designed to protect the health or promote the safety and wellbeing of any of the parties thereto or the public. It authorizes the Legislature in specific terms to make provision for the payment of compensation with or without the right of trial by jury and with or without regard to the fault on the part of the employer or employe, to employes injured by accidents of employment or to persons dependent upon them, either by employers, or by employers and employes in conjunction, or otherwise, in such a manner as the Legislature may prescribe.

The proposed constitutional amendment is very drastic in its provisions, but it is pointed out by members of the commission who have made a study of conditions surrounding employers' liability laws abroad that it does not go any further than the law in Great Britain, and that it would authorize no act for the amelioration of the workers and their families which is not in operation in the most advanced countries abroad. Drastic as the proposed amendment may seem, members of the commission declare it is justified by considerations of public policy.

Employers in hazardous lines of industry, it is pointed out, may protect themselves either by insurance or may gauge the price of their products so as to compensate them for any risks incurred in the way of compensation to injured workmen.

In addition to the constitutional amendment there is a series of eight bills, also introduced by Senator Bayne, designed to protect the life and health of workmen and prevent accidents and injury in industrial employment.

One of these bills provides for an increase in the number of factory inspectors in the labor department from sixty to eighty-five. Another increases the powers of the State Department of Labor so as to enable the Commissioner to make rules to standardize the work of factory inspection and compel the installation in buildings used for factory purposes of proper safeguards against fire and other accidents by mandamus proceedings if necessary. At the present time the authority with regard to such regulations is a divided one.

One of the Bayne bills, which is certain to arouse a good deal of opposition and in regard to which there has been much comment because, it is believed, that it might unduly favor the manufacturers of a safety device for elevators on which there is said to be a virtual monopoly, provides that the owner, lessee, agent or agents of a factory where there is an elevator shaft "shall cause every elevator inclosed on all sides which is used for conveying passengers to be equipped with an automatic lock, which will prevent the starting of an elevator car in either direction while any door or gate into the elevator shaft is open."

Another Bayne bill brings within the supervision of the State Labor Department all public work done by the State to the extent of the State of providing safeguards for employes. The last of the series gives the Public Service Commission power to order the safeguarding of the life and limb as well as health and welfare of employes of public service corporations under their jurisdiction.

DIX SURE OF VAN TUYL.

Expects Senate to Confirm Him as Banking Superintendent Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 8.—Gov. Dix to-day expressed the greatest assurance that before the week is over the Senate will have confirmed the nomination of his friend George C. Van Tuyl as State Superintendent of Banks. Though the name of Mr. Van Tuyl has been before the Senate for a week, the Senate Finance Committee so far has taken no action.

Mr. Van Tuyl is a Republican, and it is due to this fact partly that he has not been confirmed. The natural resentment against the Governor among the Tammany members who dominate the upper house on account of his failure to apportion what they regard as a fair share of the patronage to Tammany Hall and a desire to hold out for a bargain with Gov. Dix by which Tammany shall get a better deal in the future are the other factors entering in the situation.

There has been some talk of a bi-partisan agreement to prevent the confirmation of Mr. Van Tuyl. According to these reports, certain large banking interests, fearing an investigation of the department in case Mr. Van Tuyl becomes its head, have been able to bring enough pressure on the Senate Finance Committee to cause the nomination of the Governor's friend to be held up. In regard to these reports it was pointed out to-night that Gov. Dix has all the necessary powers under the Sherman-Moreland act to cause an investigation as thorough as he may wish of the manner in which the State Banking Department has been conducted under Orion H. Cheney and his Republican predecessors.

Gov. Dix said to-day that he had not yet received the report demanded from Supt. Cheney with reference to the affairs of the defunct Carnegie Trust Company, and more particularly with reference to the relations between certain attachés of the department toward that institution. Mr. Cheney was in New York to-day, but is expected here to-morrow. The Governor will then make a peremptory demand for the report, which he has been waiting for now for more than three weeks.

COLLINS REPLIES TO SOHMER

Denies Irregularities in Purchasing Supplies for State Prisoners.

TROY, N. Y., May 8.—Cornelius V. Collins, former State Superintendent of Prisons, replied to-day to the statement, given out by State Controller Sohmer, asserting that "the State has suffered severe financial loss through the irregular awards of contracts for coal and flour, and through the fact that deliveries have been made of articles cheaper than, or inferior to the contract specifications."

"The Controller is really attacking himself," said Mr. Collins. "If the State has suffered through improper supplies, it is the Controller's department that is responsible for seeing that these supplies correspond with the invoices and to see that the State receives what it orders and pays for.

"Never have I approved purchases that I knew to be made before the estimates have been approved," he continued. "He states an untruth when he states that no advantage has been taken of the State finance law permitting the purchase of supplies for a period beyond that for which estimates are originally made.

"It is true that at one of the prisons it was found that a false inventory had been made. The State Controller did not make the discovery, nor did the commissioners investigating the prisons. I made the discovery on my own investigation and immediately reported it to the investigators appointed by the Governor."

700 CHICKENS TAKE FLIGHT.

Escape on Williamsburg Bridge in a Runaway and Start a Wild Scramble.

Seven hundred chickens flew all over the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg Bridge yesterday, having escaped from crates that were lost from a wagon belonging to the New York Poultry Market Company of 452 Rockaway Avenue, Brooklyn, when a horse ran away on the bridge. Jacob Zimmerich of 829 Schenectady Avenue was the driver. He was on the south roadway, and while on the slope at the Brooklyn tower the weight of the wagon knocked up against the horse, snapping some of the harness, and the horse bolted.

The rig struck one wagon after another, and half a dozen crates were dumped off the wagon before the runaway struck the runaway gate, where the other crates dropped off. There was a wild scurry on the part of a dozen policemen and pedestrians, as well as motormen and conductors, to capture the chickens. Many of the fowls were killed or maimed by being run over by cars, and when the pursuit was over about 100 chickens were missing.

When the horse struck the runaway gate it was badly injured and Zimmerich was hurled off and slightly hurt.

Life Saver Gets a State Medal.

Francis J. Maher, a chauffeur in the Dock Department, was presented with a life-saving medal yesterday, the award of the State of New York. He rescued Andrew Mackey from drowning on Aug. 1, 1910, in the East River, off Twenty-fourth Street. He jumped into the river with his clothes on and had a fifteen minutes' battle with Mackey before he could save him. Mackey almost strangled him and Maher had to strike him in the face to insure saving both the man and himself.

URGE DIX TO HELP FIGHT FIRE PERIL

City Factories Are Deathtraps, Declare H. L. Stimson and Other New Yorkers.

ASK LEGISLATIVE INQUIRY

Local Officials Powerless to Protect the Workers, Say Committee of Safety Members.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 8.—Prominent members of the Fifth Avenue Association and the Committee on Safety urged Gov. Dix today to lend his support to an effort which is being made to obtain a legislative investigation of factory conditions in New York City, with a view to preventing a repetition of such a disastrous fire as occurred in the plant of the Triangle Waist Company a few weeks ago.

It was made plain to the Governor that under existing laws the local Building and Fire Departments are powerless to prevent the use of loft buildings for manufacturing purposes and that this practice is a menace to life and property. It was also stated that twenty or more bills dealing with the subject of New York's fire and building laws were now before the Legislature and that before any legislation was undertaken there should be a careful investigation, in order that the rights of all may be protected.

The committee is an outgrowth of a mass meeting held after the Asch Building fire, and constitutes a permanent organization on the prevention of fire disasters. At to-day's meeting a letter was read from Henry L. Stimson, Chairman of the Committee on Safety, to the Governor, saying that "the committee is much impressed with the need of a legislative investigation." His letter continues:

> The situation of the factory workers in the tall buildings of this city presents an emergency which is little less than appalling. Within a brief period of time the character of large portions of the city have changed completely. The city is being filled with huge buildings, constructed ostensibly as loft buildings, which are immediately converted to factory use without any safeguards attending such conversion. The local authorities frankly admit that under existing laws they are powerless to remedy the situation in which thousands of workers in these factories are placed in deadly peril of their lives. The great majority of buildings occupied as factories are literally deathtraps in case of fire.
> There are several thousands of such factory workers in New York City whose welfare in this important matter is in need of prompt, intelligent, and effective legislation. I most earnestly urge you to bring the matter to the attention of the Legislature without delay.

A similar letter from R. Fulton Cutting, President of the Citizens' Union, was also read. Speeches on the same subject were made by Joseph S. Auerbach and Charles H. Keyes, Executive Secretary of the Committee on Safety.

Among those in the delegation before the Governor to-day were C. Grant La Farge, President of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects; William M. Kendall of McKim, Mead & White; the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of the Ascension; Arnold W. Brunner, past President of the American Institute of Architects; Reginald P. Bolton, consulting engineer; Robert Grier Cooke, President of the Fifth Avenue Association; George T. Mortimer, President of the United States Realty Company, and H. J. F. Porter.

The resolution which the associations ask the Legislature to pass provides for the appointment of a committee composed of two Senators, three Assemblymen, and four persons to be named by the Governor. This committee is to be empowered to examine into existing conditions in factories, the laws and ordinances referring to factory buildings, and to conduct such other lines of inquiry as will lead to legislation which will wipe out the existing peril to the lives and health of factory operatives and others occupying loft buildings.

The Governor promised his visitors to give the matter careful consideration.

Gov. Dix assured the delegation of his interest in the question of the protection for factory employes in New York City. He regretted that an inquiry such as planned would necessitate a delay until next year in obtaining desired legislation. The Governor suggested the advisability of clothing the State Commissioner of Labor with power to compel safer methods in the construction of buildings and in the establishment of factories giving more inspectors to enforce the law. He added that he would gladly aid the delegation in every way possible to bring about the results it hoped to attain.

"It seems in the make-up of the world," the Governor added, "that human life must be sacrificed to bring about reform. I regret that it occurred in this State and under the operation of any of our laws, but now that it has occurred I think it is our duty to remedy these conditions at once."

President pro tem. Wagner of the Senate and Majority Leader Smith in the Assembly introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a legislative investigating committee clothed with the powers suggested by the Governor's callers. A report is to be made on or before Feb. 15 and an appropriation of $10,000 is made to meet the expenses of the committee.

Capt. C. T. Truitt Drowned.

NORFOLK, Va., May 8.—Capt. C. T. Truitt of the barge Maryland, formerly the General Slocum of New York, widely known because of the fire which cost so many lives, was drowned yesterday morning when he attempted to step from the barge to a pier in the Elizabeth River. Capt. Truitt had only been in command of the Maryland about two weeks.

SAYS STEEL TRUST GRIPS ALL RAILROADS

Alpha Cement Company Charges That Rate Discrimination Is Due to Its Influence.

MAKES B. & O. DEFENDANT

In Complaint to Commission—Other Roads Also Named—Alleged Favors to Steel Corporation Subsidiary.

The charge was made yesterday before Special Examiner A. R. Mackley of the Inter-State Commerce Commission that the United States Steel Corporation practically dominates the railroads of the country and that, because of its powerful influence in the railroad Directorates, it has enabled its subsidiary, the Universal Portland Cement Company, to obtain freight rates far lower than its chief competitor, the Alpha Portland Cement Company of Manheim, West Va.

It is expected that the evidence in this case will be turned over to the House of Representatives, which has voted for a special committee to investigate the so-called Steel Trust.

The complaint of the Alpha Company, while directly charging the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad with discrimination in freight rates, involves some 160 defendants, including most of the railways of the country over which the Alpha company ships its cement.

A dozen or more railroad lawyers were on hand in Room 315 of the Custom House when the hearing started yesterday.

"The United States Steel Corporation practically dominates the railways of the country," said Louis H. Porter, in opening the cement company's case, "and its tremendous influence has enabled the Universal Portland Cement Company of Pittsburg, which is owned entirely by the Steel Corporation, to obtain more favorable freight rates than can be obtained by its chief competitor and rival, the Alpha Portland Cement Company. We charge unjust discrimination in freight rates, and back of it all is the attempt to drive the Alpha Company out of business, for that would be the logical outcome unless both companies be placed on a basis of equality in freight rates."

Complaint Against the B. & O.

President F. H. Gerstell of the Alpha Company was the first witness. He told the examiner that the discrimination in rates heavily affected the cost of raw material to his company.

"Favored rates have resulted in increasing the production of the Universal Company at an enormous rate since 1900," said Mr. Gerstell, "but the Alpha Company has made little progress in the same period. In 1900 the chief opposition which all cement companies had to face was from the imported product. Low prices on the domestic product in the last ten years have gradually taken the market from the importers and closed the doors to the foreign product."

Owing to the favored freight rate, said Mr. Gerstell, it was impossible for his company to meet the prices quoted by the Universal except at a loss. He said he had received a promise from the Baltimore & Ohio officials that "a fair rate" would be given to the Alpha Company.

"Instead of raising the rate of the Universal Company to equalize the rate we paid," he said, "the rate was lowered for the Universal so that the discrimination against us was larger than before."

"Was this freight schedule of reduced rates for your rival issued at about the time President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio was making his eloquent address before the Inter-State Commerce Commission, asking for permission to increase railway freight rates?" asked Mr. Porter.

Mr. Gerstell said he was not certain of the dates.

Influences Fifteen Billions Capital.

One of Mr. Gerstell's statisticians succeeded him as a witness and told the examiner that the total capital represented by the twenty-four or more concerns in which the United States Steel Corporation Directors are interested amounts to $15,000,000,000. In most of these concerns, he said, some member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. is interested.

Charles F. Sutherland, General Freight Agent of the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad, which hauls daily ten carloads of the Apha Company's product in West Virginia, took the stand in support of the company's complaint. His testimony seemed to come as a surprise to the group of railroad lawyers representing the defense.

"I think the influence of the United States Steel Corporation had much to do with fixing the rates which favored the Universal Company," said Mr. Sutherland.

Then it came out that the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad, which was built by the late Senator Stephen B. Elkins, is fighting for existence against the Baltimore & Ohio. The B. & O., explained Mr. Sutherland, has the Morgantown & Kingwood Road "bottled up." Each end of the small road connects with the B. & O. lines, and the Morgantown & Kingwood is obliged to pay whatever connecting charges that may be imposed. It is for this reason that the Morgantown & Kingwood officials have joined forces with its shippers in the complaint against the B. & O. and other railroads involved in the complaint.

Mr. Sutherland said he had tried repeatedly to induce the B. & O. officials to give the Elkins line a lower rate for the benefit of its shippers, but received little satisfaction. He explained that his road has to deliver its freight for the north and east to the main line of the B. & O. at the M. & K. junction near Manheim, and the western freight at the B. & O. branch line at Morgantown, West Va. Those who are now in control of the Morgantown & Kingwood, said Mr. Sutherland, plan to fight their way out of their dilemma by building connecting lines to the Vanderbilt roads.

How the Rates Compare.

M. Coogan, Jr., Traffic Manager of the Alpha Company, succeeded Mr. Sutherland as a witness. He said that General Manager Gallaher of the Baltimore & Ohio had once said to an official of the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad that the Alpha Company had no right to intrude in the Pittsburg territory with shipments of its cement, but should confine its shipments to the South and West over the lines of the Baltimore & Ohio.

"In October of 1909 I went to General Freight Agent Bell of the Baltitmore & Ohio, also Mr. Gallaher and Mr. Askew of the same road, to see about having them put into effect for us some rates in the Virginia territory that were in effect for the Universal," said Mr. Coogan. "Mr. Gallaher told me there were many inaccuracies in the rates which entitled Manheim to considerable reductions, but asked us to hold off a while. We let the matter run along until June of 1910, and then took the matter up again.

"What was our surprise to find in August last that they had filed a new tariff which showed a reduction for the Universal in the classification territory. We asked for the same reduction. Mr. Gallaher said he was not in a position to do anything. I also saw the Morgantown & Kingwood officials. They told me they were willing to give any reduction which was sanctioned by the Baltimore & Ohio. Later I was informed by the Morgantown & Kingwood that the Baltimore & Ohio had turned them down on any revision of the rates."

Mr. Coogan produced a bulk sheaf of statistics, compiled from railroad tariff schedules, purporting to show that the Universal Company was being favored in the matter of rates. A sample of the comparisons follows:

	Manheim Mileage Rates.		Universal Mileage Rates.
	Miles.	Ton.	Miles.	Ton.
Georgia, Ind......	430	$3.07	461	$2.20
Washington, Ind..	498	3.07	499	2.20
Vincennes, Ind....	516	3.07	517	2.20
Lawrenceville, Ind.	526	3.07	527	2.30
Av. distance.....	500	....	501	....
Av. rate........	..	3.07	..	2.22

Mr. Coogan testified that the Alpha Company had to pay 40 cents more a ton than its rival on shipments from Parkersburg, West Va., into the Athens territory, a thirty-mile haul. He said he called this to the attention of the railroad officials repeatedly, but was always put off with promises which were never fulfilled. He called the examiner's attention to another case in which the tariffs showed the Alpha had to pay 65 cents a ton more for shipments than its rival—the Universal. He explained that he and his fellow officials could get no redress, and that they had turned to the Inter-State Commerce Commission as a last resort.

The Alpha Company's lawyers asked the examiner if they might expect a decision before next Fall, but Mr. Mackley told them he could not guarantee that. The lawyers said the life of the Alpha Company might depend upon an early decision, as it was struggling against heavy odds.

Archibald Cox is associated with Mr. Porter for the complainants. William A. Parker heads the group of lawyers for the defense.

The hearing will be resumed this morning.

FIGHT FOR MEYER CHILD.

Husband Who Was Denounced in Wife's Will Demands Custody of Daughter.

Leopold A. Meyer, a waist manufacturer, who recently asked the Surrogates' Court to strike from his wife's will certain passages referring to him which he characterized as libellous and to set aside a clause bequeathing their daughter to the wife's parents, applied yesterday to the Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus for the girl, now 22 months old, who is in the custody of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robitzek. Justice Hendrick reserved decision.

Meyer told the court that he was tricked into signing a separation agreement giving his wife the custody of the child in October, 1910. The reason he and his wife separated, he says, was that she became ill with tuberculosis shortly after the birth of their child, and her physician suggested that first she go to her parents' home in the Bronx and later to the Catskills, where she died.

Mr. and Mrs. Robitzek told the court that their daughter separated from Meyer because of his "cruel and inhuman" treatment. After his wife's removal to their home, they said, he had visited her and the child only twice, and on each occasion deducted his carfare from the $20 a week allowance he made for their support. Their lawyer explained that the reason Mrs. Meyer provided in her will that her parents should have the custody of her body, was that Meyer had threatened to burn it to show his contempt for her parents. He also said that Meyer was disappointed because his wife had no dowry, and frequently asserted that he could have married a girl with $25,000. Meyer denied these allegations.

City Saves on Horseshoeing.

A saving of $9,000 for the first quarter of 1911 in the cost of horseshoeing was announced by Fire Commissioner Waldo yesterday. This will amount to over $40,000 for the year. This large amount of saving in the cost of horseshoeing was brought about by Commissioner Waldo, who installed a system of portable horseshoeing shops in January, having become tired of paying any price the city blacksmiths wished to charge for shoeing the department horses.

Artesian Wells to Check Water Famine

To check a possible water famine, the Board of Aldermen at Mount Vernon at a special meeting last night decided to sink four artesian wells in Vernon Heights. The wells will be of eight-inch bore and will cost, including a pumping station, approximately $4,000. The four wells will furnish about 1,000,000 gallons of water daily.

NEW YORK TALKS TO DENVER BY 'PHONE

While Messages Are Telegraphed Over the Same Wires Without Interference.

VOICES CLEAR AT 2,000 MILES

New System of "Phantoming" Makes This Possible—Mayors of Chicago, Omaha, and Denver Converse.

Telephone connection between New York and Denver, a distance of 2,011 miles, without recourse to relay stations, was opened for commercial use last night by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. By the perfection of what is called the loaded phantom circuit, three persons can talk to Chicago and a fourth to Denver over two sets of wires, and, simultaneously, eight separate telegraphic messages can be sent over the same wires to Chicago and two others to Denver, and all without interference.

A demonstration was given of this new system in the executive chambers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at 15 Dey Street last night, and while Mayor Robert W. Speer of Denver, Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago, and Mayor James C. Dahlman of Omaha were having a three-cornered conversation, ten telegraphic messages were passing over the wires.

In the rooms of the telephone company were most of the officials, including N. C. Kingsbury, the Vice President, and J. J. Cartsy, Chief Engineer. The President of the company, Theodore N. Vail, is aboard the steamship Adriatic bound for New York, and a wireless message was sent to him announcing the success of the venture.

In general, according to the explanation given by Chief Engineer Carty, the success of the experiment is entirely due to the perfection of the "phantoming" of loaded circuits and the successful loading of large wires.

"We have two separate parallel metallic circuits between here and Chicago," he said. "These have been in use for a long time, of course. Now these circuits are connected at our New York switchboard and also at our Chicago switchboard by the process called 'phantoming.' A phantom circuit simply means a superimposed circuit on two metallic circuits already in use. By this connection we can have three communications to Chicago over the two sets of parallel wires plus the phantom circuit.

"From Chicago to Omaha we have stretched a single large wire, but from Omaha to Denver we have a second system of two parallel wires and they are connected by the phantom process, just as the two sets of wires between New York and Chicago are connected. It is plain to see, therefore, that the wire connecting the parallel circuits in Denver makes a circuit all the way from New York to Denver.

"There is nothing new about this theory of long distance connections. The difficulty arises from the fact that where you have a long line of wire you are apt to have much leakage of current and a great many sources of losses which are almost impossible to detect.

"The first thing to overcome was the problem of making the so-called Pupin coil, an adaptation to reinforce a current of a given intensity applicable to No. 8 copper wire, the largest type of wire used in the construction of telephones. We found it was impossible to apply the Pupin coil on account of the great losses that occurred all along the line.

"Consequently we had to climb every single one of the 87,000 telephone poles between here and Denver and change the 285,000 insulators from glass to porcelain. This, we found, had been responsible for most of the leakage. We now found that we could use the phantom circuit from here to Denver, but we were still unable to use the Pupin coils in it.

"Our experts inspected the whole line again and discovered that rain did a great deal of damage, water being a good conductor, and we stopped more leaks by insulation of all the wettest places. Then we discovered that we could use the phantom circuit by placing a coil at intervals of eight miles. This is the present arrangement of the coils, and that arrangement will probably suffice for all time to come."

When asked what the cost of the completed system was, he said: "That's the most wonderful part about it, for we have set up this device very cheaply, only $100,000. But that was because we adapted all the wires which we already had in use. A new plant, equipped with a new set of wires from here to Denver, I figured out, would cost just $1,600,000. It would have been commercially impossible, therefore, to talk to Denver over the telephone, if all this money had to be expended on one plant. Now we can use all the old wires for all the old purposes and get the extra efficiency out of them by the simple expenditure of inspecting of leaks and the adding of the Pupin coils."

Having finished this technical explanation, the Chief Engineer asked the reporter for THE TIMES whether he would not like to talk to Denver and get a practical illustration of the method. The reporter admitted his willingness and soon after the telephone bell rang.

"This is Chief Engineer John S. Toomey of the Denver division," said the voice in Denver, clear and distinct. All that he said was immediately transferred by telegraph over two separate wires from Denver and handed to the reporter when the conversation was ended.

The reporter next conversed with a representative of The Denver News. "What is the news in Denver?" he asked.

"The town is all excited about the visit of Gov. Wilson," came the reply. "He talked last night to 12,000 men in our large auditorium, and to-night he is addressing 500 men in the Chamber of Commerce on the commission form of government. The people of Denver think highly of him and are booming him for the Presidency?"

"What time is it by your watch?" the reporter asked, looking at his own watch, which gave the time as 10:14 P. M.

"It's just five minutes after 8," came the distinct reply.

An attempt was made to get Gov. Wilson on the telephone. A good connection was furnished with the Brown Palace Hotel, where he is registered, but it was said there that the Governor had already left for the dinner and would not return to the hotel until very late.

When asked to what commercial use the new system would be put, Mr. Kingsbury said that the success of the experiment was all that was wanted preparatory to the extension of the system all over the United States. He expressed himself as hopeful that the system would be immediately extended by means of the same process, all the way to the coast, and with equal efficiency as to results.

The cost of telephoning to Denver, he said, would be $11.25 for each three minutes, which is the rate heretofore prevailing in the relay plan, being computed on the basis of mileage. He said that anybody within a radius of twenty miles from City Hall would be able to telephone to Denver from his house telephone. At the same time, he admitted, owing to the small size of the ordinary city telephone wires encased in the cables under the street, the service might not prove satisfactory. The booths in the central office at 15 Dey Street, he said, would be best for clear messages.

Authoritative Parisian Modes in Summer Millinery
Will Be Presented Today

This presentation has been eagerly awaited by the well-dressed women of New York, as they realize our leadership in Millinery.

Although the dominating note is simplicity, it has been so variously interpreted by the famous modistes that there is certainly a diversity of modes for this Summer.

That Georgette favors the high pyramid style is quite evident. Germaine and other artists seem to prefer the drooping picturesque effects and quaint bonnets. But then, too, there are extremes—some hats turn up directly in the back.

Flowers are in new and marvelous color-harmonies—as an illustration. Chinese lilies of an exquisite shade of porcelain blue are intermingled with roses of rich pink and soft red. Delicate crepe roses and foliage, black satin flowers and luscious silk grapes give other new notes.

Exquisite aigrettes are in towering pyramids, and they are sometimes combined with natural marabou. Ostrich in all its regal loveliness is here, too.

Besides the original Paris models there is a large and noteworthy collection of reproductions and adaptations from our own workrooms.

ARBITRATORS SETTLE STRIKE

Machinists Win the 8-Hour Day from the C. F. Splitdorf Co.

A settlement between the machinists employed by the C. F. Splitdorf Company, manufacturers of magnetos and automobile supplies, Walton Avenue and 138th Street, who went on strike for the eight-hour workday, with other machinists in New York and vicinity, was effected yesterday through the efforts of the officers of the State Board of Arbitration. Under the terms of settlement the 1,000 machinists who went on strike against this firm return to work to-day, the eight-hour workday to go into effect in the shops of the company on June 1. All the employes, 1,500 in number, including toolmakers, special mechanics, and brass workers, will be put on the eight-hour workday basis on June 1.

It was stated that W. C. Rogers and Thomas McManus of the State Board are trying to bring about a conference with other large firms with a view to settlement. All the firms which have settled or with which negotiations are pending are independent concerns. None of the firms in the New York and New Jersey Metal Trades Association, which as a body is fighting the eight-hour demand, has made settlement or conferred with representatives of the strikers.

HELD FOR KIDNAPPING GIRL.

Dr. Stetson and Isaac Marks Charged with Carrying Her Off in an Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 8.—The kidnapping of sixteen-year-old Lottie Logan by two men in an automobile was followed this afternoon by the arrest of Dr. Charles A. Stetson and Isaac Marks, both of Lynn. It is charged by the police that Marks was in love with the girl, and that the physician was his accomplice.

The kidnapping took place on the street a week ago. The girl was hidden in Boston, and detectives were hired to search for her. They found her and took her home.

BIG GAME HUNTER RETURNS.

Col. Caswell Home with Stories of Adventure and Peril in Africa.

Col. John Caswell, Chief of Ordnance of the General Staff, Massachusetts National Guard, arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Celtic. He was on a hunting trip covering the ground shot over by Col. Roosevelt. He brings back with him many stories of adventure. One encounter came near costing him his life.

With eighty-three natives he was beating up a trail one day when a cub cheetah was started from the brush. The Colonel was without a weapon, his gun being with his gun-bearer. As the cheetah bounded into the open, its mother, a powerful specimen, sprang upon the hunter and caught him by the leg. He shouted for help and his gun-bearer handed him the gun. The native caught the animal by the tail, and as he pulled it around the Colonel killed the beast. Col. Caswell brings home twenty-nine heads for the Agassiz Museum at Harvard.

WORLD-WIDE MUSICAL UNION.

American Federation Seeks to Unite Locals in All Countries.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 8.—The union of all musicians into a world-wide organization is one of the principal subjects before the sixteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians, which opened its sessions here to-day. More than 500 locals of the United States and Canada were represented. Joseph B. Williams of Manchester, England, delegate from England, also represents the International Musicians' Association, whose membership embraces every civilized country.

Probably the most important step in which the union musicians of this country are interested is the protection of American musicians in competition with low-salaried foreigners.

RECORD WHITE SALE
NOW IN PROGRESS

REMARKABLE INAUGURATION.

We asked you to wait....You waited.

You have now seen what you waited for. You have found that waiting profitable.

All the indications of your satisfaction were apparent yesterday. From early morn to mellow afternoon the New York woman WHO KNOWS was in her element.

It is the fashion to claim big attendances and record sales—but we PROVE it.

Never in the history of Macy's, where all records are broken with steady regularity, was there a more triumphant sucess.

The strongest arguments we could put forward to customers were less potent than their own comparisons made with mere "ordinary" White Sales all over the City.

Whatever may be the experience elsewhere, we know that the woman of to-day identifies QUALITY and appreciates it.

With our experienced Macy shopper, not all cambric and nainsook are of one kind. We have educated the public to the difference between the durable and the flimsy.

Our policy in rigidly rejecting the inferior qualities which were thrown on the market to meet certain demands has now met with its reward.

There are plenty of Big Values left,
Because—Big Values were all that we had to begin with.
Macy's has set another new standard.

INCENDIARY FIRES SET IN DRY FORESTS

Suspect Arrested Near Milford, N. H., After 1,200 Acres of Heavy Woodland Are Burned.

TWO FIREFIGHTERS DEAD

One Man Fatally Burned by Drinking Sulphuric Acid Used in Fire Extinguishers—New York State Losses.

BOSTON, May 8.—A tract of between 800 and 1,200 acres of heavy woodland at Milford, N. H., was destroyed to-day. The loss is estimated to exceed $20,000. This fire bore every evidence of having been incendiary, and after an investigation the authorities arrested Albert Nickerson on suspicion of having caused the blaze. Nickerson formerly worked for a man whose woodland was destroyed by the fire, and is alleged to have had trouble with his employer.

So far as is known to-day only two persons lost their lives in combating the flames. An unknown French-Canadian woodchopper was burned to death near South Kingstown, R. I., and the badly burned body of a man was found in a fire-swept track of woodland near Marlboro, Mass., and was identified as that of Albert Eldert of Winthrop, who had been employed since last November on the country estate of Dr. Walter J. Johnstone of Boston.

An accident that may result fatally occurred in connection with the forest fire near Biddeford, Me. Edward Boucher, one of the squad of 100 volunteer firemen, is in the hospital in a critical condition as a result of drinking sulphuric acid from a jug which he thought contained water. The sulphuric acid was intended to be used in charging the hand extinguishers which the firemen were using.

In various sections of Maine, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island tired bands of firefighters were able to-day to relax their labors, secure in the belief that they had succeeded in bringing under control the flames that had destroyed thousands of acres of valuable lands, and, in some cases, houses and farm buildings.

While no dwellings were burned at Sanford, Me., the loss to timberland is estimated at $10,000, and similar figures are set on the damage done at Paxton and Uxbridge.

Several scattered forest fires were reported burning in Western Massachusetts to-day, one near Russell having devastated about 100 acres. Three fires were burning at one time in the Berkshire Hills.

Several fires were also reported from New Hampshire. Near Bow 900 acres were burned over, causing a loss estimated at $18,000.

SARATOGA, N. Y., May 8.—A forest fire which has been sweeping over a tract of woods south of this village, near the property of the State Mineral Spring Reservation, has assumed such serious proportions that the Fire Department of this village was called upon this morning for aid.

Several farmhouses are threatened, and a force of farmers has been at work all night in an effort to check the flames. Two buildings and hundreds of cords of wood have been destroyed.

Latest reports stated that the buildings of the branch of the State Forestry Department recently started a the Geysers were threatened.

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 8.—Forest fires which raged last night on Meads and Overlook Mountains, in the Catskills, threatened destruction of the famous Overlook Mountain House and Meads Hotel. Fire fighters directed by State officials back-fired until this morning, when both hotels were considered out of danger.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 8.—For nine miles a forest of fire swept the peninsula lying between the Magothy River and Chesapeake Bay Saturday night, all Sunday, and this morning, when rain set in. More than 5,000 acres of woodland and fields have been burned over, half a dozen homes destroyed, a score of barns, outbuildings, and wharves are gone. The loss will reach $70,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., May 8.—Satan's Kingdom in Nepaug was the hottest place on the map to-day, but 250 firefighters who were brought in automobiles from New Hartford, Burlington, and Collinsville believe they hold the master hand over the flames, which have swept nearly 5,000 acres and endangered more than two score farm dwellings and other buildings.

Notified about noon that the fire was advancing on Satan's Kingdom, farmers there built back fires and thus saved their homes and stock. Schools were dismissed, the teachers fearing to keep the children. Brisk winds swept the flames across roadways. Hundreds of acres of valuable sprout lands were ruined, and the loss will be great.

LIGHT RAINFALL DOWN EAST.

Warning Sounded in New England, Where Flow of Rivers Is Decreasing.

BOSTON, May 8.—A general cry for water is expected throughout New England during the coming months by X. H. Goodnough, Chief Engineer of the Massachusetts State Board of Health.

Mr. Goodnough points out that the decrease in the rainfall throughout the eastern part of the country during the past few years, supplemented by the light fall during the past Winter and the present Spring, brings a condition that is precarious to the cities and towns that depend upon small sources for their supply.

The supply for the metropolitan district is ample for twelve months or more, according to Mr. Goodnough, but other cities in Massachusetts are not so fortunate. The Nashua River is cited as an illustration where the flow has been steadily decreasing each year since 1907, and during the past Winter, when the river was at the flood, there was a decrease even from the dry years of 1908 and 1909 of nine-fourteenths.

Mr. Goodnough adds that it is possible that heavy rains may yet save the situation, but wet Summers are unusual, and the warning that has already been sounded in New York, may be followed by one in New England.

NEW YORK FORESTS IN PERIL.

Tammany Opposition Said to Have Defeated Bill for Fire Funds.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 8.—Failure of the Senate Finance Committee to take action on a bill which virtually is an emergency measure for the appropriation of $50,000 to provide for fire protection in the forest preserve has endangered the forests and timber tracts in the Adirondacks and the Catskills, where forest fires are reported daily.

The State authorities say they have been able to employ only eighteen men in twelve counties, the Winter force of fire patrolmen. Even these men have not been paid for the last two months, owing to lack of funds.

"We should put on sixty more men at once," Supt. Pettis of the State Foestry Department said to-day. "We are constantly getting reports of fires from the north and from the Catskills, but we have been more fortunate than Maine and some States in the Northwest. Not one of our lookout stations on the mountains has been equipped this year, and our escape from serious fire has been fortunate."

A bill appropriating $50,000 for an additional fire fighting force in the State's forests has been passed by the Assembly, and it is awaiting the action of the Senate Finance Committee. The committeemen say they are waiting for details as to the appropriation. It is explained by the Forest, Fish and Game Department that $40,000 would be required for salaries of patrolmen and the equipment of the lookout stations. This would leave $10,000 to prepare for any emergency that may arise.

Thomas Mott Osborne, the foe of Tammany and Charles F. Murphy, is at the head of the Forest, Fish and Game Department. To that fact some attribute the failure of the Legislature to respond to an appeal for funds to place the forests beyond danger of fire.

In the Senate to-night Senator Roosevelt, insurgent leader and Chairman of the Forest, Fish, and Game Committee, asked if the Finance Committee was ready to report the bill making an appropriation for fire protection in the State preserve.

Senator Frawley, Chairman of the Finance Committee, said he had sent for information as to the need of the appropropriation, but that the Forest, Fish, and Game Commission had not responded until to-night. He added that the matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the committee.

"This bill was passed April 18 in the Assembly on the representation that it was needed at once to prevent forest fires," Senator Roosevelt said. "The department asked the committee to act at once on the bill on April 20. Since that time the Secretary of the department has been present every day so that the Senator could get the information he desired."

"I have not been in the Forest, Fish and Game Department," Senator Frawley declared, "and I don't intend to go there."

MME. ERTZ UNFORTUNATE.

Loses Her Piano and May Have to Pay Court Costs Now.

Mme. Wilhelmine Treviris Ertz, head of the Lamperti School of Singing, at 68 West Fifty-eighth Street, who has given vocal lessons to many prominent singers in this country, Italy, France, Germany, and England, was represented by counsel before Justice Wells, in the Ninth District Municipal Court, yesterday, in an action in replevin brought by Sidney Abenheim of 26 West Thirty-sixth Street, to recover a piano belonging to him, but which had been given to her by a storage warehouse firm in lieu of a piano of her own. Her piano, she was informed, had somehow disappeared. At the request of her counsel, James J. Fitzgerald, the case was postponed until to-day to enable him to file an answer to show why Mme. Ertz should not, in addition to the other difficulties that have been heaped upon her by the failure of the warehouse company, pay also the costs of the action.

According to Mme. Ertz, she stored her piano, which had cost her more than $300, in the warehouse of John Banks Sons, in East Seventy-sixth Street, in July, 1906. The firm has since gone into bankruptcy. She says she paid $147 storage charges from time to time, without even checking up accounts to find whether or not she was paying too much. Her last payment was $40. But when she wanted to take the piano out of storage, she says, she was told that it was not to be found. The warehouse people could not explain its disappearance, but assured her that they would give her another piano instead.

They sent her one, she said, which was so small that her pupils refused to sing to its tunes, and she asked for another. When she got that, it cost her $10 more for repairs and tuning. Finally, just as she was beginning to get along with the piano, Mr. Abenheim returned from Europe and discovered that its was his piano that the storage firm had given Mme. Ertz, and he straightway made demand for it upon her. When Marshal Ike Van Leer served the writ in the action in replevin upon her on April 28, she told him she would appear in court on the day on which it was returnable. She did not know that the Marshal or any one else had a right to remove the piano before then, however, and when he tried to do so, she locked him in her room and went out to summon the police. But the Marshal got the piano despite Mme. Ertz's remonstrances. Now, in addition to the loss of her piano and the difficulty of obtaining redress from the bankrupt warehouse firm, she faces the possibility of paying costs of the action in court, unless the plaintiff agrees to her counsel's suggestion and pays them himself.

Mme. Ertz was a pupil of the famous Francesco Lamperti, in Milan, and in former years traveled extensively through Europe, singing in grand opera and concerts in the chief capitals. She speaks and writes English, German, French, and Italian fluently.

FIREBUG IN ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL

Three Attempts to Burn It Foiled—Children March Out Safely.

At 5 o'clock Monday afternoon a charred basket that had contained waste paper, was found in a closet on the fourth floor. At 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning waste paper under the stairs on the first floor was found burning, but was extinguished without trouble. In the afternoon another attempt was made in the library.

Detectives believe they were the work of some pupil who had been reprimanded and attempted to have revenge. Father McQuirk, rector of St. Paul's, does not share this view, and the police say he has offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the one who started the blazes.

The third attempt, which was the most serious, was made soon after the classes had convened for the afternoon session. Sister Mary Grace, the Principal, was going through the hallway on the second floor, when she noticed smoke coming from the library, and found a pile of books afire. She sounded an emergency fire signal, and in two minutes all the children were in the street.

Detectives were placed on the case by Capt. Walsh of the East 126th Street Police Station, and the Fire Marshal will make an investigation. The damage in each case was slight.

LIAR, SAYS BURNS, ANSWERING GOMPERS

HASN'T SEEN ROOSEVELT

But Thinks He Is the Man Who Could Settle All Industrial Disputes—Off for Los Angeles.

William J. Burns, who came to New York on Saturday in the interest of his case against the McNamaras, accused of dynamiting the Los Angeles Times Building, received a telegram late yesterday afternoon on the strength of which he decided immediately to start for Los Angeles. He said that the trip was in connection with the dynamiting case and that he would go on a late train at night. He was in good humor when seen in his room at the Hotel Belmont, that is, until he read a statement which Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, had given out earlier in the day against him and his methods.

The dispatch was from Washington, and the detective, after a silent perusal, in which he smiled cynically several times, read it aloud to two of his operatives who had come to confer with him on a case. This is the statement:

> If William J. Burns has said that I am satisfied that the men indicted are guilty, as charged, or that there was not a "frame-up" or plot responsible for their arrests, he lies as he has lied in everything else connected with the case.
>
> I have investigated the entire case, and I am more convinced than ever that there is a frame-up and a plot behind their arrests. Burns has lied through the entire case.

"What do you think of that?" he said, knitting his brow and stroking a silk hat which lay on the bureau. "I know what I think about it.

"I hate to get into any controversy," he quickly added, "but I must make my position clear."

Therewith he took off his coat, showing his broad shoulders, and he walked back and forth in the narrow room, talking incessantly, putting emphasis on the name of Gompers whenever he used it.

"I want to make clear to you the circumstances in the case," he began. "When I arrested my prisoners two men of prominence in the labor world acted in two very different ways. John Mitchell said that he would abide by the trial and that he hoped the men would be proved innocent. The other was Gompers. He flew into print immediately and at once charged a frame-up, without waiting for any evidence against the men. That brands him not only as an ass but as a liar.

"The people who are prejudiced against me don't seem to be able to understand that this is not a fight against the labor unions but a fight against individuals who are law breakers. I was employed by the Mayor of Los Angeles, and as my client I am personally responsible to him for all that I do. If the man guilty of blowing up the Los Angeles Times Building should have turned out to be the biggest banker in the country my delight would have been none the less keen had I apprehended him in such a murderous crime. Criminals all look alike to me.

"When I had all my evidence in hand one of the wealthiest men in the United States—I will not give his name—said to me, 'Burns, I think you ought to tell Gompers about this and avoid a clash with the labor unions.' I told that man then and there that I didn't intend to do anything of the kind. Now, wouldn't that have been an assinine thing to do? I told him that the news in my possession was only meant for one set of ears and that was the police department. Of course we would have avoided all this unpleasantness, but it wouldn't have been fair to my client, the Mayor of Los Angeles.

"I wish you reporters would ask me about things more pleasant," he suddenly said, the transition being voluntary.

"Have you seen Roosevelt about your case?" one of the reporters asked him.

"No, I have not," he replied, "but I'd give a whole lot for his opinion. If you can say anything about my appreciation of that man, please do so. In my opinion he has done more to uplift the cause of labor and to give it a square deal than any other man alive. When that man criticises labor institutions or says something in favor of them I accept it for truth, for he knows what he is talking about and he has a right to criticise."

"Do you think he will 'come back'?" some one else asked.

"That he certainly will—if he tries. I think it is up to him to try. We are approaching the time when we can expect serious trouble in our industrial world and there is no man like Roosevelt when it comes to a proper settlement of differences. If you can bring about a condition of fear and respect of law which no criminal is powerful enough to crash through, then all this talk about 'crime waves' will cease. I conscientiously believe that Roosevelt was born to do a work which still lies before him, that is, to aid in the suppression of such murderous work as that which I have been giving my attention to for the last few months. He can do it."

"From your study of crime all over the country, what can you say of the general conditions of criminality?" was the next question.

"Generally speaking," he replied, "I think the country is more inclined to be moral than ever before."

The detective ridiculed the "crime wave" theory, saying that it was about as illogical as the theory of "kidnapping dynamiters."

"Will you stop over in Columbus, Ohio?" he was asked.

"I think not," he replied, "unless it would be to see my brother, who has a tailoring establishment near the State House. It's my sixth trip across the continent on account of this case, having traveled about 20,000 miles. And let me add that every mile has brought me nearer the goal. I'll leave this case for the Judge and jury to decide, and if Gompers or any one else will be able to see any 'frame-up' after my testimony is aired, I'll give him this opera hat."

Some one remarked that an opera hat was a rather strange and misleading sign of a detective's headquarters.

"Not at all," said the detective, having regained by this time his usual good humor. "Didn't you ever see Sherlock Holmes in a high hat?"

WASHINGTON, May 8.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to-day in a telegram to J. J. McNamara, in the Los Angeles jail, vigorously denied a statement attributed to Detective Burns that Gompers, after his recent investigation at Indianapolis, was satisfied that the charges were not a "frame-up."

"We all feel confident of your and your brother's innocence," added the Gompers's message to McNamara, "and will do everything lawful within our power to help in its establishment before the courts."

SERVANTS GET BEQUESTS.

Niels Poulson Made Generous Provision for Them and Favorite Employes.

Favorite employes and servants, as well as charities, benefit by the will of Niels Poulson, which was filed yesterday for probate in the Surrogates' office. A large share of his estate will also go to further the educational work he was interested in, the American-Scandinavian Society Foundation receiving the entire residuary estate.

Nickolie Christensen, housekeeper of the Shore Road mansion for many years, receives $50,000, together with the contents and furnishings of the house. Nina Olsen, a servant, and Karl Korber, the gardener of the estate, receive $5,000 each. Anna E. Brush, his secretary, receives $20,000. Albert E. West and Frederick Nicholsen, both connected with the Hecla Iron Works, of which Mr. Poulson was President, receive respectively $10,000 and $5,000. Victor J. Stilling, another employe of the iron works, receives $5,000.

William N. Dykman, one of the best-known lawyers of Brooklyn and a close friend of the testator, receives the fine home on the Shore Road at Eighty-eighth Street, which is valued at about $200,000.

Two of Mr. Poulson's half brothers, Jorgen and Anton Rasmussen of Horsens, Denmark, receive $25,000 each. Mrs. Niels Gangsted of Copenhagen, a near relative, receives $10,000. Matilda Madles, formerly Sister Superior of the Norwegian Hospital, gets a legacy of $10,000. Charitable bequests include $10,000 to the Brooklyn Children's Aid Society, $10,000 to St. John's Guild, $10,000 to the Danish Alderdoms Hiem, and $10,000 to the Bay Ridge Hospital and Training School for Nurses.

The will is dated Aug. 20, 1909, and there is a brief codicil added on April 15, 1911, which changes the name of the American-Scandinavian Society to the Foundation, the title under which the organization was later incorporated to carry on the work. Mr. Poulson was one of the founders of the society. The executors named are William N. Dykman, [illegible] S. Bellevue, and Frederick W. Smith.

HYDE'S SUCCESSOR INSTALLED IN OFFICE

But Moore's Bond Is Held Up and There's a Question Whether the City Has Two Chamberlains.

LEGAL POINT TO BE DECIDED

Clerical Force Gives the Retiring Official a Loving Cup and Letter Full of Kind Words.

Charles H. Hyde turned over the office of City Chamberlain to his successor, Robert R. Moore, yesterday. The ceremony was simple, the latter merely giving the ex-Chamberlain a receipt for the city's cash on hand, $47,588,960.06.

The new Chamberlain's bond has been held up by the Controller, however, and it will be two or three days before it will be definitely decided whether the city has two Chamberlain's or one, and whether the one is Mr. Hyde or Mr. Moore. The $300,000 bond required by law was filed with the Controller by Mr. Moore originally with only one surety, the National Surety Company. The charter requires the bond to be signed by "not less than four sufficient sureties."

The matter was turned over to Deputy Chamberlain Walsh, and he obtained the additional signatures on the bond of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, the Title Guarantee and Surety Company of Scranton, and the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company. They signed for various parts of the $300,000. The Controller believes, however, that all the sureties should sign for the whole amount, and referred the matter to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion. Mr. Hyde's bond continues until the question is settled.

While Mr. Moore was with Mr. Hyde taking over the office, the clerical force, headed by Mr. Walsh, waited upon the latter and presented him with a loving cup and this embossed letter:

> To Charles H. Hyde, Esq.:
>
> Your retirement from the office of Chamberlain of the City of New York is, to us, the members of your official staff, a cause of deepest regret, and in taking this means of testifying to the esteem in which you are held, we desire to assure you of our fullest confidence and highest respect.
>
> That strength and health be given to you to see many years of happiness and prosperity is our earnest prayer.

Mr. Walsh made a short speech in which he said that the office force was confident that Mr. Hyde would be "vindicated" at his trial, and the ex-Chamberlain replied by saying that he appreciated the expression of good will and assured them that their confidence in him would not be misplaced.

Mayor Begins Water Works Inspection

Mayor Gaynor started yesterday on a three days' tour of the Catskill water works, with Water Commissioner Thompson and President Strauss and Chief Engineer Smith of the Board of Water Supply. They took a West Shore Railroad train to West Point, to begin their inspection with the siphon tunnel under the Hudson at Storm King Mountain. From there they will go by automobile over the entire work, returning to the city to-morrow afternoon.

RAILWAY SCARE IN FLUSHING.

Report That the Long Island Would Shift Route Away from the Village.

The village of Flushing, L. I., was disturbed yesterday by a rumor that the Long Island Railroad might shift its route to the old A. T. Stewart railroad, thus sidetracking Flushing. Following the opening of the East River tunnels, the company announced that it would not electrify the North Shore Division, one branch of which runs to Port Washington and the other to Whitestone Landing, until the road was double tracked and the grade crossings eliminated. This would necessitate the elevation of the tracks through Flushing.

After the plans had been accepted, the company let it be known that it did not intend paying fancy prices for the land necessary to make the proposed improvement. Real estate men it employed put a value of $1 a running foot on the land needed. This was considered entirely too low by the property owners, some of whom asked $10 a running foot.

It is said that officers of the Long Island Company have been seen inspecting the old Stewart right of way, which runs about half a mile north of Flushing Village. The company owns nearly all this right of way, and it is said that the $1,100,000 which it was proposed to spend on the improvements in Flushing would build and equip this discarded line, which would skip Flushing Village and its outlying stations, but would give the company connection with stations along the Whitestone and Port Washington branches, and at the same time give a route along the Sound shore for future freight traffic.

LOOKS CLEAR FOR KOENIG.

"Old Guard" Unable to Get a Candidate for County Committee Presidency.

The insurgent "Old Guard" leaders in the Republican County Committee were busily engaged yesterday and last night in trying to get some one to be their candidate for the Presidency in opposition to Samuel S. Koenig. They had it all planned to put up ex-Attorney General Mayer, but he refused absolutely to be a party to a fight in the organization. Job E. Hedges gave the same answer. Last night they were making overtures to Vice President Woodward with little success. He is personally pledged to Mr. Koenig.

The Koenig backers are confident that he will be elected easily at the special meeting of the committee to-night, and that the "Old Guard" will make it unanimous.

Game called on account of rain.

First base on errors—Boston, 2; New York, 1. Sacrifice hits—L. Gardner, Speaker, Lewis, Engle. Stolen base—Chase. Left on bases—Boston, 10; New York, 4. Bases on balls—Off Caldwell, 5; off Wood, 2. Struck out—By Caldwell, 3; by Wood, 2. Hit by pitcher—By Wood, (Daniels.) Passed ball—Blair. Umpires—Messrs. Egan and Evans. Time of game—One hour and twenty-three minutes.

Joe Wood, the young Red Sox pitcher, was as hard as seasoned hickory on the Hilltop yesterday, and with atmospheric conditions in favor of his speedy shoots, the Yankees were whitewashed in a six-inning game by a score of 4 to 0. That makes three out of four games the Bostons have taken, and the parting disaster sends Hal Chase and his team out to meet the Detroits enveloped in gloom. Ray Caldwell pitched for the Yankees yesterday, and wasn't very effective. It's a feather in his bonnet, though, that he was the only man to get a hit.

It was drizzling when the game started and the wet came thicker as the combat progressed. With it, came darkness, and the Yankees would have needed a tiara of Tungsten lamps to see the ball that Wood burned over. In the gathering, ghostly gloom that settled over the tragedy, it would have taken a plank a foot wide to lumber the sphere. It was difficult to see the outfielders from the grand stand. Shadowy figures creeping through the lawn indicated the infielders.

'Twas on such a night as this that poor little Gladys was driven from home by her angry father. No weather for good folk to be at large; danger lurked in the deep purple shadows.

Put on your oilskins and rubber boots, stalk the storm deck and watch the game. Hooper beat out a bunt that spun like a top. Larry Gardner sacrificed him to second, Speaker shot a high fly up into the rainclouds, and Birdie Cree caught it with a splash. Lewis walked. Hack Engle pumped a high fly over near the right field stands. Nobody could get a ball like this but Chase. He ran like a deer and grabbed it close up to the barricade. Hartzell and Daniels, both wiltered at first, and Chase was safe, when Williams muffed Yerkes's throw.

Chase stole second and was ready to score on Cree's hit. Did Cree hit? He did not.

Boston got two men on in the second inning on a pass and a slashing hit which Chase scooped up, but Caldwell lost the man at first base. Nothing momentous happened. The best the Yankees got in the second was a free trip for Roach, who stood at first for so long that the rain soaked him. Larry Gardner opened the third inning with a hit to centre, Speaker sacrificing him to second. Lewis went out at first base, Engle walked, and Yerkes hit to centre, scoring Larry Gardner.

Yanks had a good chance in the third inning. Wood tossed Caldwell out at first base, Hartzell walked, and Daniels was hit in the back. Chase forced Daniels at second base, and shortly afterward Hartzell tried to come home, and was nailed by Nunamaker. The fourth inning is important because Boston didn't score, putting it off until the next inning.

The rain was falling fast now. The ball was slippery and mother earth likewise. It was as light as high noon in a coal mine. Speaker drew a pass. Chase fielded Lewis's sacrifice, but threw wide to first base. Engle sacrificed and Yerkes walked. S. R. O. sign on the cushions. Williams slapped a grounder along the first base line, and Chase let it go through him. Marvelous error—must have been darkness, for Hal never misses 'em. Speaker and Lewis scored.

Lighthouse keeper, flash your beacon of safety, the Yankee barge is headed for the rocks. Policeman, remove those rocks.

Nunamaker shot a bounder through second base high out of Earl Gardner's reach, and Yerkes scored. Looks like the Glidden tour passing a given point. Hurah! Wood struck out. Hooper walked. Larry Gardner faced Caldwell, the ninth man in that inning. Larry was squelched, Caldwell to Chase, with a slippery ball.

The game went along for another inning, but no one saw it on account of the raging tempest and the darkness. By the way, in the eight years of the American League, New York and Boston have split even in their games up to yesterday. Now Boston is one to the good.

In far-off Detroit, a Bengal crouches hungrily. Let him starve, Yankees.

Rochester Opens Season at Home with Victory Over Jersey City.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 8.—Rochester signalized the opening of the Eastern League season on the home grounds to-day by defeating Jersey City, 6 runs to 4. More than 16,000 fans witnessed the contest, a parade miles long preceding the game. Frill pitched for the visitors and put up a better article of curves than Hughes, but his team mates made costly errors that figured in the run getting. Rochester won in the fifth inning, when doubles by Mitchell and Batch, aided by errors by Dolan and Fullerton, netted four runs. The Jersey men had a batting rally in the ninth inning, and got three men over the plate on a single by Wells and two-baggers by Tonneman and Ryan, but were unable to overcome the hustlers' lead. Newark Wins from Montreal.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 8.—Newark, through Parkin's effective pitching with men on bases, won the opening game from the Royals here to-day. The Newarker had to pitch himself out of four tight innings. Timely wallops by Dalton and Kelly, each after two were out, sent the first two runs over. Cady's lift over the left field fence scored the third. Hits by Holly and Dubuc in the ninth scored Montreal's only run. Score:

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 8.—Tenney's boys had one of their sunny sessions to-day and won an impressive uphill victory from the McGraw Giants with a score of 5 to 4. A record-breaking home run by Scotty Ingerton—"Home Run" Scotty—and a pair of two-baggers were the militant factors in the win, although Jeff Pfeiffer's gameness after a tumultuous first chapter is worthy of more than passing comment. It was a surprising sort of a victory because it was won after the "Hopes" had literally kicked themselves to pieces.

They had everything to hope for in the seventh inning, with the score 4 to 3 and the erratic Mr. Raymond pegging against them. In that round Sweeney and Herzog both managed to put up an argument that was too strong for even old Jack Doyle, and drew an exile. Spratt and Butler took their places. In the next round Ingerton and Miller each delivered a double after Tenney's single had pried the lid off, and the game was practically over.

Ingerton, having hit a couple of circuit drives on Saturday, recorded his usual clout in a way that will be remembered for some time. The ball went into the left field section of the centre field bleachers, and it was the first ever hit into those stands. Beals Becker has twice negotiated the right field seats, but the other side of the flagpole has remained a clean mark for hard-hitting clubbers of the entire league.

For the first three rounds the Bostons were decidedly not in it. The enemy was taking chances and making runs and nonchalantly pushing Pfeiffer's slants over, and the game looked like it was finished. In the first inning Devore opened with a single and stole second base, and Doyle got a two-bagger in right field. The hit sent Devore no further than third base, and it looked as if Sweeney might reach it, and Josh had to stick close. He scored on Herzog's sacrifice fly to Goode, and Murray rapped a single that brought Doyle in. He stole and counted on Merkle's safe drive to left field. Then Bridwell walked and Devlin hit to Clarke, who made a one-hand try to get the ball, which looked like a cinch anyway, and missed. This let Merkle in with the fourth and last run of the round, and, for that matter, the last Giant run of the contest.

The Hopes did not see first base in the first three innings. In the third Clarke was first up and hit for one base. Tenney pushed him along on an infield out and Herzog sent him to third on a rap to right field. Then Ingerton cleared the cushions with his home run and the game was about an even thing.

In the eighth inning the real trouble came with two down. Tenney singled with one out, but he was forced by Butler. Ingerton bounced the ball offf the left field fence for two bases, and Miller planted one on the same boards just out of Murray's reach for two more, this being good for two runs. Murray made a good try for the ball, but it got away from him. Goode flied out to Miller for the closing of the stanza.

The Giants made a great attempt at tieing the score in the ninth inning, and had it not been for some careless coaching by Wiltse might have done it. Snodgrass expired on a high one to Goode, but Murray walked. Butler booted Merkle's grounder and Bridwell singled to right. It was a short hit, and Miller was playing in close. Wiltse should have held Murray at third base, but he sent him the rest of the way, with the result that he was caught standing up. There was a terrific collision when he met Rariden in the base line, and the plucky Boston catcher, although he held the ball, emerged from the mix-up with some loose teeth and a badly cut mouth. As Becker, batting for Devlin, could do no better than fly out to Clarke the rally was worth nothing at all.

Brooklyn Shut Out by Phillies.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 8.—Brooklyn was shut out here to-day, 5 to 0. Alexander held the visitors to three hits and fanned nine batsmen, Wheat being a victim three times. Score:

Pirates Win on Bunched Hits.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 8.—Pittsburg today defeated St. Louis by bunching four hits in the third inning and getting big hits in the fourth and sixth innings. St. Louis made a good start by getting two three-baggers in the first inning, scoring 2 runs. After that not one of its players got as far as third base. Both young pitchers were at their best. AUTO RACE SCHEDULE.

Representatives Meet in Detroit To-day to Decide the Circuit.

Automobile promoters and manufacturers are eagerly awaiting the announcement of the belated schedule of Grand Circuit racing dates. Samuel Butler, Chairman of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, is now in Detroit, and to-day will meet the representative of the Manufacturers' Contest Association for the purpose of deciding the season's auto racing. At a recent meeting held in this city the two associations reached an agreement, and the official announcement of the plans is expected to-day or to-morrow.

In view of the many glowing statements of the Managing Director of the circuit, the announcement of the abandonment of the special train and its spectacular features, and the curtailment of several of the original plans, was received with surprise. It is expected that in the announcement the formal explanation of the change in plans will be made. This will include the abandonment of the special train. It is known that several prominent members of the Manufacturers' Association objected to signing contracts for the circuit unless the total cost of the big racing campaign was definitely announced. This the Managing Director was unable to do, and the approximate cost failed to satisfy the racing element of the Manufacturers' Association.

These facts were placed before the representatives of the American Automobile Association last week, and, failing to receive satisfactory assurances, the manufacturers declined to support the special train. Chairman Butler at the time was with the Glidden pathfinders, and final arrangements for the season's racing were postponed until to-day.

It is certain that the 500-mile international sweepstakes at the Indianapolis Speedway Memorial Day will be the first event in the Grand Circuit racing campaign. The road and track events will keep the racing pilots busy for the remainder of the season. There are many conflicting dates in the present tentative schedule, and the representatives of the two associations are likely to experience considerable difficulty in assigning dates that will suit everybody.

In the vicinity of New York the outlook for racing is not of the brightest. With the Motor Racing Association out of the game, the racing will be in the hands of private promoters. Brighton Beach will probably be the only track used in the metropolitan district. A twenty-four-hour race and two or three one-day affairs will probably be the extent of racing here, especially as the American Automobile Association will refuse sanctions for road racing unless the courses are policed by the military.

CARS FOR ORPHANS' DAY.

Offers of Vehicles for Parade Indicates Interest in Charity.

The Orphans' Automobile Day Committee of New York reports that the returns of cars and commercial vehicles offered for June 7 indicate a greater interest in this charity than ever before during each of the past six years, when the lives of these unfortunates have been given one glad day.

While last year some 3,200 children were taken, over 4,000 applications have been received so far this year, with institutions yet to be heard from which will doubtless make the total at least 5,000. The committee does not wish to disappoint a single child, and even the smallest contribution is acceptable, as each 50 cents means one orphan made happy.

Offers of cars and commercial vehicles have been received at headquarters as follows: Mitchell, Overland, Carhartt, Hudson, Inter-State, Little Giant truck, Pierce-Arrow, Bussing, Alco, Stoddard-Dayton, White, Remington truck, Middleby, Franklin, Sampson truck, Reo, Aries truck, Cartercar, Panhard, Stearns, Lozier, and De Dion, and sight-seeing wagons by David Bruce-Brown, Ralph De Palma, and Louis Disbrow. The next meeting will be held at the association headquarters to-morrow at 2 o'clock.

Three I League Trouble Ends.

CHICAGO, May 8.—What is regarded as a final settlement of the disturbances in the Three I Baseball League came to-day, when the Quincy Baseball Club dismissed the injunction suit brought to give it standing in the league, and bought the franchise of the Bloomington club. President Al Tearney announced the changes and declared that playing would begin Wednesday.

Quincy paid $3,500 for the Bloomington franchise, but nearly all of this will be returned by an assessment of $300 on each club in the league and by the awarding of four Bloomington players without purchase.

A resolution was unanimously adopted that the league bring all its business to an end and disband at the end of the 1911 season. The decision to disband the league is the result of a suggestion of the National Commission, which has promised a redistricting of the circuit next season.

Cleveland Club to Play Sunday Games.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 8.—The bill allowing Sunday baseball in Ohio at the option of City Councils having become a law, the Cleveland club is planning to play Sunday games, and the first contest will probably be next Sunday with the New York team. President Summers to-day asked the city authorities to take what action was necessary. It is understood the City Council favors the Sunday games, but may pass an ordinance demanding a license fee for all games where admission is charged. The fee would not be very large, however. The local club owners are erecting additional ticket windows and exits. It is figured Sunday ball will bring 25,000 people to every game.

New Orleans Wants Manush.

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—Manager Frank of the New Orleans Southern League Club, telegraphed to-day a protest to the different major league clubs against the release of third baseman Frank Manush to Jersey City by the New York Nationals. Manager Frank says Manush was drafted from New Orleans by the Giants and according to the rules he was entitled to the player's service when released.

Japanese Nine See Big League Game.

CHICAGO, May 8.—The Waseda University baseball nine of Tokio, which is making a tour of the United States, yesterday saw their first game between two big league clubs. They were guests at the West Side grounds, where the Cubs and St. Louis played. After Omuro, one of the Japanese pitchers, had watched Richie of the Cubs throw a few balls he remarked, "I wish I had some of that pep!"

Johnny Evers Has Nervous Prostration.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Johnny Evers, second baseman of the Cubs, did not go with the team to New York to-day on account of sickness. He is suffering from nervous prostration, and it is said that he will not be able to take part in the series with New York which begins to-morrow.

TRAINING OFFICERS TO FLY AEROPLANES

Glenn H. Curtiss Says Military Machines Are of Practical Utility for Manoeuvres.

Glenn H. Curtiss arrived in New York yesterday and will spend a few days in the city. It was Mr. Curtiss's first visit since the Belmont Park aviation meet last October. Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss and J. A. D. McCurdy were at the White Star Line pier yesterday to greet Dr. Alexander Graham Bell on his return from a trip around the world. Mr. Curtiss spent the Winter at San Diego, Cal., training army and navy officers to fly and developing his hydro-aeroplane. Mr. Curtiss is very enthusiastic about his military work at San Diego and the outlook for aviation. In discussing the science Mr. Curtiss said:

The interest in aviation this Spring is much greater than I thought it would be and I think the activity throughout the country argues well for the increased faith in the practicability of the aeroplane. There is a strong movement toward practical aviation; that is, machines that will carry passengers and make long cross-country flights. There is also considerable rivalry to produce the fastest machines. This is the natural trend of the development of the aeroplane. The possibilities for speed are almost unlimited and we shall see some remarkable records before the Summer is over.

As far as the practical or transportation side of the aeroplane is concerned, that will be slower of realization, though of course, it is sure to come. I don't look for a radical development in this direction. Of course, aeroplanes will soon be used to transport one or more passengers on long flights, but as to establishing regular aerial transportation routes for the carrying of several passengers, I don't believe we shall see it for some time to come.

The field that is now open to the aeroplane and the one offering the greatest practical utility is the military. It has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the War and Navy Departments that the aeroplane is a most useful arm of the military service and the interest being shown in both branches of the service leads me to believe that the Government will take the lead in aviation in this country, just as the French Government has taken the lead in Europe. The interest displayed by Washington officialdom was evidence of this.

The hydro-aeroplane is an important step in advance. It opens up a new field, and, I believe, will do much toward popularizing aviation among those persons who have time and money to devote to a machine that holds wonderful possibilities as a pleasure vehicle. As for the military value of the hydro-aeroplane, I think it is very great. It was absolutely necessary for the navy to have a machine that could alight alongside and be hoisted aboard a vessel and that could be dropped overboard to take its start from the water.

The army and navy officers who were sent to San Diego were all apt pupils. The three army officers are now at the manouever camp at San Antonio, Texas, where they are flying the military machine we recently sold to the Government.

Strong aero clubs are forming all over the country, the interest in flying is becoming more general and practical, and less that of pure curiosity, which is a good indication that we shall have a broad and lasting development from now on. The manufacture of aeroplanes is to become an important industry in this country, because the vehicle of the air is here to stay and will become a most potent factor in our commercial and social life.

Aviation Meet at Yale Field.

Expert aviators will compete at the meet to be held at Yale Field, New Haven, Conn., May 19 and 20, under the auspices of the Yale Aero Club. A contract has been entered into with the Curtiss Company, and Glenn H. Curtiss has promised to take part in the meet. J. A. D. McCurdy and Earle L. Ovington will also compete. This will be the first attempt of a college club to hold an aviation meet, as the Harvard meet in Boston last year was really a city affair.

Columbia Freshmen Beat Schoolboys.

The Columbia freshmen overhauled the High School of Commerce track team in a dual meet on South Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 84 to 15. The schoolboys were able to score only one first in the entire contest, and figured poorly in all the other events. The summaries:

100-Yard Dash.—Won by H. J. Masson, Columbia; F. McDonald, Columbia, second; W. Meslon, Commerce, third. Time—0:10 3-5.

220-Yard Dash.—Won by H. J. Masson, Columbia; F. McDonald, Columbia, second; W. F. Foster, Columbia, third. Time—0:[illegible] 1-5.

440-Yard Run.—Won by W. F. Foster, Columbia; N. Renno, Commerce, second; D. Tenney, Columbia, third. Time—0:54 4-5.

Half-Mile Run.—Won by L. Jason, Columbia; J. E. McGolrick, Columbia, second; F. McDonald, Columbia, third. Time—2:14 2-5.

One Mile Run.—Won by E. B. Slade, Columbia; F. McDonald, Columbia, second; J. E. McGolrick, Columbia, third. Time—5:04 3-5.

120-Yard High Hurdles.—Won by D. Tenney, Columbia; W. W. Colquhoun, Columbia second; W. H. Tow, Commerce, third. Time—0:18 2-5.

220-Yard Low Hurdles.—Won by H. C. D. Dickenson, Columbia; H. Landaman, Commerce, second; H. Van Baalen, Commerce, third. Time—0:31.

Pole Vault.—Won by H. C. D. Dickinson, Columbia, with a vault of 8 feet; H. T. Weiskotten, Columbia, second, with a vault of 7 feet 9 inches; L. J. Clapp, Commerce, third, with 7 feet.

High Jump.—Tie for first place between H. J. Masson and H. T. Weiskotten, Columbia, at 5 feet ¼ inch; H. C. D. Dickinson, Columbia, third, with 5 feet.

Broad Jump.—Won by D. Tenney, Columbia, with a jump of 19 feet; H. C. D. Dickinson, Columbia, second, with 18 feet 9½ inches; H. T. Weiskotten, Columbia, third, with 17 feet 1½ inches.

Shot Put.—Won by I. Cohen, Commerce, with a put of 38 feet 4 inches; H. W. Reilly, Columbia, second, with 38 feet 3½ inches; H. W. Reilly, Commerce, with 36 feet, third.

Princeton Eleven's Field Coaches.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 8.—Logan Cunningham, coach of the Princeton Freshman eleven last Fall, and A. MacGregor, tackle on last Fall's 'Varsity football team, were to-day appointed field coaches of next year's football team. These men, with Capt. Hart, will have charge of actual field coaching, but will be under the supervision of a graduate advisory committee, composed of W. W. Roper, Chairman; Knox Taylor, '93; Langdon Lea, '96; W. C. Booth, 1900, and W. L. Foulk, '05.

DIAZ AND MADERO.

A manifesto is not a resignation, yet it is clear that there can be no beginning of peace in Mexico until DIAZ definitely resigns. He promises to resign when, according to the dictates of his own conscience, his resignation will not be followed by anarchy. That leaves him the sole judge of the time of his resignation. The dictates of the old man's conscience, his powers of observation and perception, must be singularly at fault if he does not know that present conditions in Mexico are practically those of anarchy; if his advisers are courageous enough to tell him the truth, he must know that practically the whole country demands his resignation. Nothing but his retirement will satisfy his people in revolt, yet he goes no further than to say that he will retire when he feels assured that a Government will be set up to succeed his own.

While the manifesto is inconclusive as to peace, inconclusive as to MADERO and the insurrection, it is fairly conclusive as to DIAZ himself. A man in the fullness of his power and his self-confidence does not talk about resigning. Evidently Mexico's President has been brought by the dreadful stress of circumstances into a resigning frame of mind, but he is not quite ready to fix the date. He would have shown himself more sensible and much more patriotic had he made some definite promise or put forth some practical plan for coming to an understanding as to the succession. Then his phrase about the dictates of his conscience would have had a clearer meaning. MADERO did propose DE LA BARRA as acting President until an election could be held. DIAZ seems committed to a policy of drifting.

The eyes of all observers will now be turned to MADERO. Much depends on how he views the Diaz manifesto. MADERO seems to be earnest and sincere in his desire for peace. He and his friends have, it appears, congratulated DIAZ upon his expression of willingness to resign. It remains to be seen what measures they will or can take to elicit or extort from the President some more definite assurance. The situation has been visibly improved by the armistice, by the negotiations, by the offer of MADERO, and by the manifesto of DIAZ, unsatisfactory as it is. Both sides, and that means the whole Mexican people, evidently want peace. The desire being present, it ought not to be difficult to find the way.

Every break in the clouds that overhang Mexico, every sign of a disposition to come to terms, every portent of a peaceful arrangement will be hailed with joy by the Government and the people of the United States. It is painful to us to see the Mexicans at each other's throats, and we dread nothing so much as the creation of conditions which would require us to interfere. If they dislike the idea of intervention as much as we do, their aversion to it will powerfully influence them to the making of concessions that will lead to a settlement. When both MADERO and DIAZ are talking of resignation, it is clear that they are on the right road. The chief need now is that the negotiations shall take a practical turn leading to a meeting of minds as to the choice of an immediate successor to DIAZ, who, while awaiting a formal election, shall be able to maintain order.

THE WRATH OF CANNON.

When the righteous indignation of ex-Speaker CANNON is aroused he spares no one to whom it is logically to be addressed. We are not surprised that President TAFT now comes in for his share of denunciation. Mr. CANNON has noted for some time that the President was wandering from the strict path of protectionism and keeping company with those dangerous and evil-minded persons, the consumers of tariff-taxed goods. Their influence on Mr. TAFT has been only too plain. It has not only led him to suspect the sanctity of the Payne-Aldrich law, but, through the reciprocity agreement with Canada, actually to interfere with the beneficence of that holy measure.

So Mr. CANNON does not withhold his wrath from Mr. TAFT. Especially he points out that the President is engaged in a plot with the newspaper men to commit the unforgivable offense of getting cheaper paper. What the ex-Speaker intends to do about it; what, indeed, he or his kind can do about it, we don't know. The House, freed from the domination of Mr. CANNON and his party, has joined the President and the newspapers; the Senate bids fair to follow in the steps of the House; the American people, so far as any one can tell from the recent votes, stand behind the President. Mr. CANNON is all alone in his bad temper and his bad language, apparently reduced to such comfort as he can get from the barren echoes of his weary old voice.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

The mood of the Dowager Queen of England compels sympathy, yet the whole world must feel that her determination to absent herself from the ceremony of coronation in Westminster Abbey next month is mistaken. The charming Danish bride of 1863 has become an ill-tempered, implacable old woman. One thinks of SHAKESPEARE's awful Queen Margaret, only to dismiss the thought immediately, of course, but there have been few Dowager Queens of England who have been forceful and picturesque figures. HENRY V. left a beautiful young widow who sorely tried her amiable son, the sixth HENRY, by marrying a Welsh warrior and founding the Tudor dynasty. King GEORGE V. has had no such trouble as that with his mother, but he must feel, as an ever dutiful son, that his surviving parent ought to want to see him crowned. It is an honor few mothers would forego for any reason.

At her coronation, nine years ago, jointly with King EDWARD, Queen ALEXANDRA was the most charming and graceful figure. Already old in years, she bore the aspect of youth, and the robes of royalty sat well upon her. Now she would be compelled to take the seat her daughter-in-law, the present Queen, then occupied, in the very front of the royal box, to be sure, but having no part in the ceremony except as spectator; no visible, formal part, though she would still represent royalty, and sit there as the widow of a King accounted great among modern Kings, the mother of a King and of other Kings to come. It seems that she should desire to represent EDWARD's royalty, his very person, at the ceremony, to be the living agent of the illustrious dead.

But she is one of those unfortunate persons who are not to be reconciled to the mutability of human affairs. She waited many long years for her share of sovereignty, and it passed briefly. What private cause she may have for disaffection the world can never know. It cannot concern that most exemplary of monarchs who is about to submit himself, in spite of his modest disposition and his simple tastes, to the ordeal of a long and splendid mediaeval ceremony. Whatever the cause of her disquiet may be, however, a large share of the world's sympathy will go with ALEXANDRA. Few distinguished women of her time have earned so much respect and admiration.

THE OUNCE OF PREVENTION.

The report of the Wainwright Commission on the causes and prevention of accidents in industrial pursuits is a document as important as the one on employers' liability. It is plain that if the cause of any one class of serious accidents can be removed in any one considerable industry, it will be far better for all concerned than that compensation for injuries from such accidents should be provided for. Indeed, the chief merit of the plan for imposing responsibility on employers is the effect which it would have in inducing them to avoid in all practicable ways the occurrence of accidents.

The Commission describes in general terms and heartily approves the principle applied in Germany, already discussed in its first report. Broadly speaking, all employers in each trade are required to join in a trade insurance association which must pay compensation of two-thirds wages during incapacity in that trade. The solvency of these associations is guaranteed by the Government; the assessments for their expenditures are levied by the Government in proportion to the amount paid out for the accidents of each employer. Rules are made by the associations for their members, and, on the approval of the Government, these have the force of law. Their application is supervised by a body of experts retained by the associations. Apparently there are only some 300 of these in all Germany, but they suffice for the adequate supervision of about four-fifths of all wage earners in Germany, exclusive of farm laborers.

There can be no question of the soundness of this principle, especially if it is applied in such fashion as will impose a reasonable share of the loss from accidents upon the workmen themselves, whose carelessness as to their own conduct and that of their fellow-workmen is often a serious element in the injuries from accident. The Commission does not recommend its present adoption in this State, partly because public opinion, though advancing, is not yet ready for it, and partly because of the Constitutional restrictions recently announced by the Court of Appeals. It contents itself with the recommendation of a larger force of better trained Inspectors in the Labor Department, in order that its work may be extended to industries not now covered, and made more efficient and more educative, and with the suggestion that the rules for shopwork be more fully formulated and standardized, so that less will be left to the discretion of the Inspectors. These are very modest proposals, but if carried out intelligently and in the right spirit they can do much. The Commission recognizes cordially the general advance in sentiment and conviction among manufacturers and employers of labor, especially in the larger establishments, favorable to the best system of avoiding accidents. The purpose of the Commission is to foster, guide, and extend this feeling and to rally it to the support of any action the Government may decide upon.

The Commission makes a special recommendation as to prevention of loss by fire. It would give to the Commissioner of Labor the power to enforce the measures of safety enumerated in the law by forbidding the use of a building in which they are, after proper notice, neglected or refused. These include means for the announcement of fire, for its prompt putting out, for free passage of employés to means of exit, for adequate means of escape, and for systematic fire drills. Obviously this would involve two things of the utmost importance; first, that the Commissioner of Labor should be a thoroughly equipped and trustworthy officer, and second, that he should have an ample force of capable and honest subordinates, wholly free from political or class influence. These conditions are not easy to fulfill. But the work is of such importance and the responsibility is so great and so sharply defined that public opinion would have much effect.

GREAVES AND WHISTLER.

The distinguished New York painters who were acquainted with WHISTLER and declare they never heard of WALTER GREAVES, whose Whistler-like pictures have just made a sensation in London, would do well to read up a bit. There is nothing like a little reading, now and then, to enlarge one's information. The index of the authorized biography of WHISTLER, written by ELIZABETH R. and JOSEPH PENNELL, notes references to WALTER and HARRY GREAVES and their sister on many pages. Grateful acknowledgment is made in its preface to assistance received from these persons. WALTER GREAVES was studio assistant and pupil of WHISTLER for many years. One of WHISTLER's famous etchings is a portrait of Miss KITTY GREAVES.

WALTER GREAVES has long been known as an etcher. He says that he promised WHISTLER not to exhibit any paintings during his master's lifetime. A large number of his paintings have now been placed on exhibition, and many have been sold for good prices. Dr. HUMPHRY WARD has written about him, for The London Times, and a hysterical critic has raised the question whether he may not have been the master rather than the pupil of WHISTLER.

This sort of talk is nonsense, of course. It serves, however, to give temporary vogue to the artist, and in the case of WALTER GREAVES the little spell of popularity that has come to him at the age of threescore and ten seems well deserved. He was associated with WHISTLER half a century and learned much from him. Probably he has a fair share of natural talent.

WHISTLER was not a hypnotist or a mediaeval Baron. He could not compel GREAVES by psychic power or physical force to do what GREAVES did not want to do. Probably WHISTLER never realized the extent of his old associate's skill. But it is quite clear that GREAVES has lacked initiative, energy, and ambition. Fame has been thrust upon him in his old age, and his clever paintings in the Whistler manner are now the favorite subject of art gossip in London. It is an interesting matter, but not very important.

WASTE NOT, WANT NOT.

The striking fact about the threatened shortage of water in this borough is the demonstration that it is unnecessary. If we continually increase our population and also the average consumption there looms ahead the time when the $160,000,000 aqueduct will not suffice for our wants, even though it should empty all the lakes of the Catskills through our house pipes. This is demonstrably a waste of water, but it is no less a waste of dollars and of municipal resources. If a daily consumption here of fourfold the quantity of water wanted or used elsewhere brought its worth or its cost to the city we should be drowned in the golden flood.

It would be difficult to imagine anything more stimulating to waste than the imposition of a fixed price, without any check on the quantity taken for the price. The ordinary consumers' charge is calculated with reference to the width and height of the building, with perfunctory checks upon the fixtures of the building, or the number of consumers cared for under the bills rendered. It is a fair presumption that a house-to-house inspection of fixtures would result either in a check to waste or in an increase of revenues, or probably both.

The basis of this presumption is the experience of over 300 American cities, published in the latest issue of Public Service. Many of them also were threatened with water famine. Others were threatened with bankruptcy through leaks of dollars. They succeeded in demonstrating that less water could be made to produce greater satisfaction, and also more dollars. In many cases the growth of population was outstripped by the amount of water made available, without increase of facilities. In Lincoln, Neb., a deficit of $16,000 was converted into a profit of $22,000. In Cleveland, Ohio, 18,000,000 fewer gallons supplied 84 per cent. more consumers. It is useless to multiply instances in an absolutely consistent experience of 326 cities demonstrating that a water rate proportioned to quantity applied reduces the consumption and improves the service. The largest quantity consumed in any city where so many as one-quarter of the taps are metered is 182 gallons per capita. Where three-quarters of the taps are metered the quantity used is reduced in some cases to thirty-three gallons. There is a quantity below which it is undesirable to reduce consumption. Also there is a quantity above which consumption is wanton waste, rather than any aid to cleanliness. It is easy enough to decide into which class New York falls.

VERDICTS IN BUSINESS DISPUTES.

The services of the new Committee on Arbitration of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Mr. CHARLES L. BERNHEIMER is Chairman, are at the disposal not only of members of the Chamber but of all merchants.

We are informed by Chairman BERNHEIMER that firms in dispute over business matters may submit their cases, to his committee for speedy settlement in business fashion—the average time for a case is two days and the costs are nominal—thus avoiding expensive, protracted, and harassing litigation. The settling of disputes in domestic cases is but part of the work which the Board of Fifty, from which arbitrators may be chosen, will undertake. A merchant in Calcutta and one in Mexico may bring their disputes to the Chamber of Commerce, and, if submitted in good faith, with full expectancy of a just and speedy decision.

The plan of arbitration we have already outlined in these columns. It is based on New York's Code of Civil Procedure, which contains a very workable statute on arbitration by business men of commercial disputes.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Demonstration That Made an Impression.

Just how much Saturday's parade did toward hastening the ultimate extension, now apparently inevitable, of the electoral franchise to women, is, of course, a question to which no definite answer can be given. Judging, however, from the comment one hears on the demonstration, it did do something, if only in the way of giving no small number of their antagonists the first convincing reason for taking the suffrage movement with something of the seriousness which was shown by the women who marched.

Before the parade there was a good deal of talk to the effect that it was either ridiculous or shocking, or both, for women to display themselves on the public streets, but those who watched these paraders and noted their quality and demeanor, found little cause for laughter or scorn, and though there was a little badinage from the crowds on the sidewalks, there seem to have been no manifestation at all of anything like hostility. The really trying jokes were directed at the men in the line, and even their experience, while trying, was not a painful one.

Indeed, the behavior of the spectators might have led an uninstructed observer to suppose that the women were celebrating a victory, instead of manoeuvring for a decisive battle still to come, and that the crowds, if not particularly rejoiced by the success attained, at least were well enough content with the outcome and certainly were not alarmed by it. The "cause" may or may not have profited by the complete absence of anything like persecution—the failure to win any of the laurels of martyrdom. Had the paraders been insulted or abused their grievance might have been worth something to them, but far more valuable, probably, is the evidence which they offered that a considerable part of the New York public is with them to the extent of wishing them well, and that the rest of it is willing to allow the course of events to proceed without any significant attempt at interference.

Strictly speaking, the parade was not in itself an argument for woman suffrage, but the efficiency with which the affair was managed, its size and dignity—these were, in a way, arguments of considerable force. The well-remembered sound-money parade was a demonstration in many ways analogous to this one, and neither the friends nor the foes of silver thought that was futile.

Bibliophily Offers a New Mystery.

Those of us for whom the things done and the prices paid by the collectors of old books and manuscripts are full of mystery have, of course, no right to condemn, and little to criticise, the ethics of a cult admittedly beyond our comprehension. Our Philistine ignorance, however, is not of the kind that refuses to learn, and some of us are particularly eager to know just why the eminent dealer in ancient literature, Dr. L. A. BAER, felt obliged, before and during the first Hoe sale, to keep within a very narrow circle of intimate friends his suspicions as to the authenticity of certain "pieces," but felt free to give those suspicions the very widest publicity as soon as the treasures whose values he doubted had been sold.

"It is not usual," says Dr. BAER, in an apparent attempt to shed light on this point, "it is not usual to say anything about manuscripts and bindings in a salesroom." Anything adverse, he presumably means. But in unusual circumstances the usual would not seem to have the compulsive force of a moral obligation. If Dr. BAER didn't want to make a scene before the assembled bidders by a more or less passionate denunciation of the Henry III. binding and the Ovid manuscript, there was nothing, at least that we can see, to prevent him from going quietly to the executors of the Hoe estate and telling them that, and why, he thought the claims of their catalogue in these two cases were erroneous. As a recognized expert, he would have been heard with respect, and withdrawal of the two "pieces," if deemed necessary, would have helped the sale rather than injured it, when fully explained, as it doubtless would have been.

The only explanation of Dr. BAER's failure to follow this course that occurs to an uninitiate student of the momentous problem is fear on his part that he might seem to be trying to depress the price of something he wanted to buy. But that is hardly a tenable theory, and on examination it must be rejected as unworthy of all concerned. One must assume from Dr. BAER's original scrupulosity not to violate the usual, that what he finally did comes under that category. If so, it must be all right. Nevertheless, his revelations or accusations do seem strangely belated, according to the standards of ordinary life, and the consequences of them will probably be observed with more of interest than of pleasure as the passage of time brings them to light.

New York Really Is Growing.

According to the statistics for March, issued by the State Health Department, the births in this city exceeded the deaths by 4,617, but in the other cities of the State the excess of births over deaths was only 313, while in the rural districts there were 470 more deaths than births.

The conclusion that therefore the State outside of New York City lost 157 from its total native population hardly follows, for the foreign-born are not all collected here, but the loss of the 157 is actual, and of course significant in view of recent discussions.

Statistics are deceptive things, however, and in this case they can hardly mean what they seem to mean. Many deaths and some births take place in this city that really should count for other cities or the country, in and out of the State. Urban health conditions are on the whole probably better than rural, though the contrary impression is the common one.

The figures show the effects of a large immigrant population and of the rush to the cities, and especially to this city, which has been so much deplored.

UNENFRANCHISED WOMEN.

Recounts Their Experiences with New York's Legislatures.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Miss Alice Hill Chittenden says that in New York a married woman to-day controls her own earnings and has the joint guardianship of her children, while in Idaho this is not the case. Miss Chittenden adds:

> The women have been voting in Idaho since 1896, but they do not seem to have done as well for themselves with the ballot as the men of New York have done for the women of this State.

In New York men had voted for 239 years before they gave a married woman the right to her own earnings, and much longer before they finally gave a mother joint guardianship of her children. If in Idaho men and women vote together for 239 years before similar action is taken, it will then be fair to conclude that equal suffrage is no speedier a tool for the correction of inequalities in the law than is an exclusively male suffrage.

When Idaho women make a campaign for these reforms they will probably not receive such treatment as was given to the unenfranchised suffragists of New York. In 1854 Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony asked the New York Legislature to give married women a right to their earnings, and presented a petition to this effect with 5,931 signatures. Assemblyman Burnett of Onondaga said:

> They do not appear to be satisfied with having unsexed themselves, but they desire to unsex every female in the land and to set the whole community ablaze with unhallowed fire. * * * The object of these unsexed women is to overthrow the most sacred of our institutions, to set at defiance the Divine law which declares man and wife to be one, and to establish on its ruins what will be in fact and in principle but a species of legalized adultery. Are we, Sir, to give the least countenance to claims so preposterous, disgraceful, and criminal?

Mr. Burnett evidently was the direct spiritual ancestor of the modern anti-suffragists.

In connection with the Joint Guardianship bill the suffragists of New York had an experience which is not likely to befall the women of any enfranchised State. Through the efforts of Mrs. Stanton and Miss Anthony a Joint Guardianship bill was passed in 1860. But two years later it was repealed and the old statute was restored, in all its pristine barbarity, giving the husband not only the sole control of the children during his life, but the right to will them away from their mother after his death. This continued to be the law for many years after, during which time the suffragists worked diligently to educate the public mind in favor of a change and the anti-suffragists steadily threw cold water upon their efforts. At last Mrs. Harriet Townsend, another suffragist, stirred up the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Buffalo to action. They drew up and mailed to every member of the Legislature a circular which proved so effective that an equal guardianship law was passed again. The most telling part of the circular was a list of actual cases of hardship that had occurred under the old law. Every one of these examples was quoted from The Woman's Journal and credited to it.

The vicissitudes of the equal guardianship law of New York are a striking proof of the insecure tenure by which women hold any gains that they may obtain by direct influence. Every good law secured by long and arduous effort is subject to repeal at the caprice of a Legislature whose composition is constantly changing and whose members have no women as their constituents.

Idaho is the only one of the enfranchised States where a married woman does not have the control of her earnings. ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

Objects to Suffragists' Flags.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is there not a law in this State which prohibits the mutilation of the National flag? If so, why should a company of women, supposedly working in the interest of improved government, be permitted to parade through the streets of this city carrying a flag from which all but five of the stars have been removed? I refer to the display of two such flags in the suffrage parade of last Saturday afternoon.

In view of what it has cost our country to add each star to the original thirteen, how can any one with a spark of patriotism look upon such desecration unmoved? Whatever the merits of the suffrage cause, such action is not likely to gain converts among those to whom the National banner is a sacred symbol. G. H. HALL.

Wouldn't Debar Prestidigitateurs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I can assure you that more than one student of the occult deplores Dr. Hyslop's disparaging remarks about allowing conjurers to participate at spirit seances. When believers debar that kind of investigators, the public will be more suspicious than ever of spiritism. Any one, whoever he may be, who can help us in our efforts to discover the causes of the phenomena should be given a welcome. At least it seems that way to me.

FAIRNESS.

Riverside Drive Is Dusty.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a resident and property owner on Riverside Drive, I would ask your assistance in abating the dust nuisance thereon. The Drive should be properly watered, or, better yet, oiled. Stages pass constantly, as well as hundreds of other motor driven vehicles, the dust from which penetrates the third and fourth floors of houses, and when the windows are open renders the lower stories almost uninhabitable. A RESIDENT.

NUISANCES IN FIFTH AVENUE.

An Observer Points Them Out, Including the Faulty Pavement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On the west side of Fifth Avenue, between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Streets, the sidewalk for the space fronting a new building is raised several inches above the general level. On one side it has been sloped off with cement or other material; on the other (the north side) there are boards to make the elevation less noticeable. This is apparently due to the need of extra space for whatever may be below the sidewalk, and would seem a most arbitrary infringement on public rights, to say nothing of its dangerous feature. Before the slope was made on the north side, the writer saw a narrow escape from injury; a passenger, naturally not expecting such a sudden drop in the level walk, wrenched himself severely. He was probably a stranger and unprepared for such utter disregard for the rights of "the man in the street."

Again, what right have storekeepers to lower awnings in front of their windows in such a manner as to make it necessary for one of medium height to stoop in order to avoid either having his hat knocked off or his head injured by the iron work or the awning itself? The old steps and stoops have been done away with on Fifth Avenue, but many nuisances remain.

Is there any one in authority who can prevent such evils, or correct them after they come into existence? To whom should complaints on such subjects be made? Why should we suffer such things? No other people in the world would. There is no reason why Fifth Avenue should not be one of the most beautiful streets in the world, and it is paved in a manner which would reflect discredit on the smallest town in the country. This is a matter of everyday comment by people from other parts of the United States, as well as those from other lands. Take the pavement as an illustration: hardly is a piece of asphalt laid before it is turned up again to put in a forgotten pipe, or for some reason for which there should be no excuse. When repaired the asphalt is so badly replaced that it is rarely on a proper level thereafter.

We are informed that there is an association for the improvement of Fifth Avenue. If this association would commence with the street itself it would accomplish a worthy purpose. As it is, we have a pavement over which it is dangerous to drive a horse on account of holes and depressions, as well as being absolutely disgraceful.

I cannot hope that this wail of complaint will have much effect, but if you will use the influence of your paper I am sure some of our discomforts can be mitigated, and I firmly believe that other newspapers, as well, would enter a crusade for the improvement of our streets and the better observance of our neighbor's comfort. A PEDESTRIAN.

IMPORTUNITIES OF "FRIENDS."

Moralizes on Willingness to Sacrifice Acquaintances for Selfish Ends.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Perhaps those of us who are sane have the candor to admit a tincture of madness in our composition. Each seems to require at times a kind, firm friend to remind him of his condition; the critic, of course, to receive occasionally a mild presentation in reciprocation. Those of us involved in this interchange of candid conviction may be improved or made worse by the revelation. As the quality of friendship is now being discussed in your columns, perhaps it is worth remarking that those who habitually deplore the scarcity of true friendship are generally such as are eager to receive favors, but have nothing to exchange either in acts or material furnishing.

Among the poets Goldsmith, Coleridge, Shelley, Byron, Poe, and others drivel lachrymose, perhaps beautiful, rhymes in heart hunger for some form of assistance to increase their happiness, but make no offers of return. "What is the good of friends unless you can put them to some use?" is an old expression, and acted on. Many in commercial or professional life, unaccustomed to ask favors unless willing to return equivalents when opportunity offers, are made unwilling targets for the aims of others who claim to be friends.

The presentation of a lurid prospectus of enterprise with an invitation to invest or influence others to do so, a plea for an indorsement of a note, or to become a bondsman in security or even a bailsman, when some one has been indicted for poaching on preserves, are not uncommon experiences which the cautious decline. Nor is it uncommon to be asked for a letter of introduction in order to present a project to one in authority, when the one asked does not approve of it, and fears offending the one to be addressed; to be on merely nodding terms with an editor or a publisher and to be solicited to exercise powers to induce such to advocate a proposition against conscience or policy; to be referred to in confirmation of responsibility for a credit account, to "kite" exchange notes, to—to serve in fact, as a general convenience for the other. And in all such requests, if granted, you must assume the risks which the other relinquishes in readiness to sacrifice his friends. Evasive or frank declinations of such importunities generally offend the applicant and often, fortunately for the peace of mind and bank account of the other, a new field of friendship is sought and cultivated.

New York, May 6, 1911. EXCLUSIVE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to say to "Veritas":

Have you or friends or foes in life
The reason's plain and true—
It does not rest with them at all;
It is because you're you.
So study what you are yourself,
The rest will follow true;
If you true friendship always show
You'll find friends true to you.

"Our Lady of the Snows."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your "Topics of the Times," referring to Kipling as the originator of the expression in which Canada is called "Our Lady of the Snows," is misleading. The expression is not new in literature and was not coined by Kipling. You will find a poem with that very title in the collected poems of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, published in the early sixties in Montreal by Sadlier. Why persist in attributing to Kipling a stolen expression? Kipling also took the title for his book on Calcutta from Thompson's "The City of Dreadful Night," and made no apology for so doing.

THE LADIES' PARADE.

Oh say,
Wasn't the parade gay?
Wasn't it perfectly lovely and sweet
To see them tramping along the street
Just like men,
Though their shouts and cries
Were rather soprano than otherwise?
By gum,
The ladies were going some,
Weren't they? And when
The poor, side-tracked men
Could only stand on the curb and stare
At the lovely ladies marching there
And not be allowed to lend a hand,
Oh, Jemimy, wasn't it grand?
My scat,
There never was anything like that
In this town before,
And there won't be any more,
Because the men
Would rather they'd vote than march again.
Say,
Ain't it queer the way
The men don't want the women to go
About the streets as a public show?

FORTIFY CANAL OR EXPECT WORLD PEACE

British General Says Panama Question Is One of Optimism or Pessimism.

SIR IAN HAMILTON'S VISIT

Work of Digging Through Isthmus, He Says, Is Altruistic, for He Doesn't Think It Will Ever Pay.

Sir Ian Standish Monteith Hamilton, Adjutant General of the British Army, Inspector General of the Overseas, and famous Indian soldier, arrived yesterday from Bermuda by the steamship Bermudian, accompanied by his aides, Col. Hamilton Reed and Major William Maddocks, and will stay at the Ritz-Carlton until he sails for home to-morrow on the Cunarder Lusitania.

In an interview with a TIMES reporter the General said that he left England last January and went to Malta, Cyprus, Egypt, and the Soudan and turned back west and visited the West India Islands, Barbados, Trinidad, Jamaica, and Bermuda and the Isthmus of Panama, which he considered to be the most interesting feature of his trip.

"As a soldier man," said Sir Ian, "I was very proud to see such a great work as the Panama Canal being successfully carried out under military supervision. As a stupendous task for humanity to accomplish, it eclipses the building of the Egyptian pyramids by the Pharoahs. Through letters of introduction sent to me by Col. Roosevelt, I was the guest of Col. Goethals at Culebra Cut for two days, and I had a splendid opportunity of seeing how the work was carried out. One of the things that had a sort of fascination for me there was the huge steam shovel, which attacked the banks of solid earth like some frenzied giant hand and tore it asunder. When one saw the huge shovel wriggling around a bowlder until it was safely lifted off the ground, it seemed impossible to realize that it was all guided and worked by machinery, automatically and not by the human hand.

"In building the Panama Canal, America is carrying out a great altruistic job, for I do not believe the waterway will ever pay commercially.

"Then again," the General went on to say, "look at the enormous army of laborers along the canal who are fed every day by the Commissary Department under Major Webster, just like an army in the field. There is nothing edible to be had along the works from Colon to Panama, and every morning a train leaves with so many thousand eggs, so many pounds of bread, butter, meat, vegetables, and provisions of all kinds to supply the commissaries at the various points along the line, and they arrive on time somehow, and the people are all well fed and cared for by this wonderful organization under the control of the United States military authorities."

When asked about the fortification of the canal, Sir Ian Hamilton replied that he could offer no opinion on that subject. "That must be left entirely to the American Nation, and it all depends upon the question whether the people of this country are optimists or pessimists.

"If Americans believe that the universal peace plan advocated by Mr. Carnegie will be adopted by the great nations in the near future, then it would be totally unnecessary to waste millions of dollars in erecting fortifications on the Panama Canal. On the other hand, if the people are pessimistic as to the outcome of the peace proposals, why then the Government has no alternative but to fortify the canal in order to satisfy them."

"In what condition did you find the garrisons during your trip through the West Indies?" he was asked.

"The regular garrisons at Jamaica and Bermuda were well drilled and appeared to be close up to their full strength, and the islands, such as Trinidad for example, where there are local militia corps, appeared to be well protected."

"Did you hear any talk in favor of annexation to the United States while you were in Jamaica?"

"No, I did not. The people seemed very loyal everywhere, and the colored population of the West Indies believe that they are better off under British rule than they would be under the Stars and Stripes. The sugar crop has improved very much in Barbados this year, and the inhabitants of Bermuda live sumptuously on the money left there each season by thousands of American tourists."

Sir Ian added that he believed he was to command the Colonial forces at the coming coronation. In appearance he is tall, erect, and soldierly, of slight, wiry build, with brown hair and mustache, streaked with gray. He was born at Corfu, in 1853, but does not look within ten years of his age. During his long career the General has been engaged in every war since the Afghan campaign of 1878-9, and has several times beeen mentioned in dispatches for bravery in the field. He has three sets of medals and orders. His left wrist bears the mark of an Afghan knife, received when he was serving under Lord Roberts in the famous march from Kabul to Kandahar in 1880.

Gen. Hamilton visited this country eight years ago, after his return from the Boer war, as the guest of Gen. Corbin, and in Washington met President Roosevelt, who took him for a fourteen-mile gallop on horseback as hard as they could go.

"We were supposed to ride for the purpose of conversation," said the General, "but neither of us uttered a sound, and at the end of the ride were were both covered with perspiration and were breathless."

On his arrival yesterday at the hotel Gen. Hamilton received an invitation from Col. Roosevelt, and he went to Oyster Bay on the 4:29 train from the Pennsylvania station, to spend the night there.

To-day Sir Ian Hamilton will go to Cedarhurst to see the English polo team play a scratch match at the Rockaway Hunt Club grounds.

National Highways Protective Society.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The undersigned, members of the National Highways Protective Society, ask support and contributions for its work. The society needs:

1. More members, to extend its influence and power for good in this city and State and ultimately throughout the United States.
2. More money to maintain and extend its work.

We appeal to the public spirit of all good citizens and earnestly commend to your attention the within statement as to the nature and scope of that work, and the urgent need of your co-operation and support.

The society needs influence and contributions to promote:

Safe streets and highways.

Enforcement and judicious amendment of speed laws.

Saving children from dangers of street play by opening and equipping new playgrounds on vacant city property.

Suppression of "joy riding," smoke nuisance, and other criminal, unauthorized, dangerous, or obnoxious use of motors, motorcycles, and other vehicles.

Better methods and practice in street paving, repairing, and cleaning.

Good roads, and honesty, economy, and efficiency in their making and maintenance.

Sane automobile and highway legislation.

Reciprocity laws between States, whereby a single, adequate, and uniform motor license may safely be recognized in all the States.

Checks may be sent to Bradley Martin, Jr., Treasurer, Nineteenth Ward Bank, or to the National Highways Protective Society, 46 East Twenty-ninth Street, where pamphlets may be obtained.

CURRAN-POSTLEY BANNS IN PARIS

Guernsey Curran to Marry Elise Postley, Divorced Wife of His Brother, Ross Ambler Curran.

A MATRIMONIAL TANGLE

Divorcee, Brother of Bridegroom-to-Be, Recently Married in California Mrs. Sterling Postley, Also a Divorcee.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 8.—The wedding banns of Guernsey Curran and Elise Cook Postley, the divorced wife of his brother, Ross Ambler Curran, were affixed to-day at the Mairie Sixteenth Arrondissement. As, according to the French law, the banns need only appear ten days, the wedding may be expected every day. Elise Postley is at present staying at her aunt's Paris apartments in the Rue Lubeck.

The engagement of Guernsey Curran and Elise Postley makes even more complicated a matrimonial tangle involving families prominent in the social circles of New York, San Francisco, and Paris. Elise Postley is the daughter of Mrs. Clarence Postley, widow of Commodore Clarence Postley. She was formerly the wife of Ross Ambler Curran, but they were divorced. On March 26 last Ross Ambler Curran married, at Pasadena, Cal., Mrs. Sterling Postley, formerly Ethel Cook of San Francisco, who was recently divorced in Paris from Sterling Postley, a son of Mrs. Clarence Postley.

Mrs. Clarence Postley was recently reported in Rome, where she had gone, it was said, to have declared ecclesiastically null and void, by special dispensation from the Vatican, the marriage of her daughter Elise to Ross Ambler Curran, so that she might marry her one-time brother-in-law, Guernsey Curran.

SISTERS TO WED MINISTERS.

Daughters of Rev. T. L. Price Engaged to Revs. Bradford and Hendricks.

The engagements of Miss Frances Eugenie Price to the Rev. Arthur H. Bradford, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Namee Price to the Rev. Walter Hendricks, who has been appointed pastor of the Congregational Church at Laramie, Wyo., were announced yesterday. Both marriages will take place soon in Brooklyn.

The young women are the daughters of the Rev. Thomas L. Price, pastor of the Epworth Memorial Episcopal Church in De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn. They met their future husbands while engaged in social settlement work on the east side, Manhattan. The Rev. Arthur Bradford is the son of Dr. Amory Howe Bradford of Montclair, N. J., a former editor of the Outlook.

MISS MABEL CARHART WEDS.

Daughter of Edward R. Carhart Married at Home to Percy H. Budd.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Carhart to Percy H. Budd took place last evening in Brooklyn at the home of her father, Edward R. Carhart, President of the New York Produce Exchange. The Rev. W. E. Schoonhoven officiated, and the ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom. The wedding march was played by Miss Alice Van Alst and sung by Mrs. C. E. Rikel. Miss Elva Gamgee was maid of honor and Miss Lillian Carhart flower girl. The Misses Ethel Davison of Rockville Centre, L. I.; Helen Shaw of Oxford, Penn.; Helen Opp of Plymouth, Penn.; Marguerite Halstead, Marie Kaiser, and Maysie Grogan of Brooklyn, all school and college friends of the bride, acted as ribbon girls. The bridegroom was attended by Frank R. Vanderwater.

The bride wore white marquisette over white satin, and the maid of honor wore pink marquisette over pink satin. The decorations were in pink and white.

After the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Budd will reside in Phoenix, N. Y., where Mr. Budd is stationed as a member of the State engineering force on the new barge canal.

Mrs. Gilmor to Wed Dr. G. H. Boylan.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 8.—An engagement just announced in Baltimore society is that of Mrs. Mary Lloyd Key Gilmor, widow of William Gilmore, to Dr. George Halsted Boylan. Mrs. Gilmor is a daughter of the late Philip Barton Key and Mary Lloyd of Wye House, and a granddaughter of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Dr. Boylan is a native of Cincinnati and a graduate of Phillips Academy at Andover and of Yale. He studied medicine in Paris and served as surgeon in the Franco-German war by a special appointment of the French Government. Joseph E. Boylan of New York is his brother. Dr. Boylan's wife, who died in Rome two years ago, was a sister of William Gilmor and sister-in-law of his present fiancée. He has one daughter, Mme. de Monteverde, wife of the Vicomte Alfredo de Montverde, Counselor of the Portuguese Legation at Rome.

Mrs. Gilmor has three grown sons. They are Francis Key Gilmor, John Gilmor, and William Gilmor, Jr.

The wedding will take place soon, but will be small, owing to the mourning of both families.

SALOMON—HUTZLER.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Salomon of 125 Riverside Drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Antoinette Salomon, to Morton D. Hutzler of this city, formerly of Baltimore, Md. No date has been set for the wedding.

Luncheon for Miss Louise Chalmers.

Miss Louise Chalmers, who on June 1 will marry Reginald Ducat, will have a luncheon given for her on May 27 at Sherry's by Miss Elizabeth Ducat, who is to be the maid of honor.

Miss Chalmers is to give a dinner for all of the attendants on May 29 at the home of her father, Dr. Chalmers, and this will take the place of the usual bachelor dinner as well.

The wedding will take place on June 1 at 4:30 in Grace Church, and will be followed by a small reception at 5 o'clock at the home of Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers, 29 West Ninth Street.

Mr. Ducat and his bride are booked to sail on June 3 for Europe, to be absent four months, and on their return they will live at 45 West Eleventh Street.

H. W. SAVAGE TO SAIL FOR OPERA SINGERS

Will Start for Europe To-day to Engage Principals for "The Girl of the Golden West."

WILL LOOK FOR AMERICANS

Expects to Find Many of Them Studying in Europe—Tells of His Plans for Other Productions.

After several postponements because of business transactions Henry W. Savage will sail for Europe to-day on the Kronprinz Wilhelm. The principal object of his trip will be to engage singers for his English production of Puccini's opera, "The Girl of the Golden West." The cast will be made up of American singers as far as possible, and Mr. Savage expects to find many of them studying in Europe. Louisa Villani and Edna Showalter have already been engaged for the rôle of Minnie, and for a third singer as alternate in this role he has in view an American artist now singing in Europe. Col. Savage's itinerary will include London, Milan, Florence, Rome, Vienna, Berlin, and Paris. He expects while abroad to make arrangements for productions of "Everywoman" and "Excuse Me" in London and Paris.

Yesterday afternoon he told a little of his plans for next season. In addition to "The Girl of the Golden West" in English, he will have two companies playing "Everywoman" and three organizations in "Excuse Me," as well as two companies in "Madame X" and two companies in "The Merry Widow." "The Prince of Pilsen" will be continued. In addition to these he will have "Le Million," a French farce adapted into English by Leo Ditrichstein, and "Lord Piccolo," made into English by Edward Paulton and A. R. Thomas and called "Boy Blue." He expects to find several other possibilities on his present trip, which will last until the middle of June.

Corse Payton Stock Company at Grand

Corse Payton's stock company began a Spring and Summer season at the Grand Opera House last night with a large audience to welcome the organization. The play was "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," with Minna Phillips in the title rôle, and members of Mr. Payton's Brooklyn company to make up the rest of the cast. Claude Payton appeared as Lord Varney, William Mortimer as Capt. O'Hara, Lee Sterrett as Col. Kimby McFlontaine, and other important rôles were taken by George Sterrs Fisher, Joseph W. Girard, Richard Vanderbilt, Charles Greer, Everett Murray, Clifford C. Stork, Grace Fox, Ethel Milton, and Charlotte Wade Daniels.

"End of Eustace Ede," New Mystery Play.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 8.—"The End of Eustace Ede," a murder mystery play, was produced to-night for the first time at the Hyperion Theatre under Shubert auspices. The company was headed by Ida Conquest and Tully Marshall, and included Madge Kennedy, Ethel Banks, Milton Silas, George Howell, Harry Marshall, Harold De Becker, and William Constantine. The play deals with the strange death of an heir and the arrest of a profligate relative, Sir Hubert Ware, the rôle played by Marshall, on suspicion. The development of the plot is aimed along the same lines which brought Marshall prominence in "The City."

Wilson Returns in "Bachelor's Baby."

Francis Wilson returned to the Criterion Theatre last night in his own comedy of "The Bachelor's Baby," that he has played here for six months, and in nearly every other city in the country. Baby Davis again appeared as the infant of the title, and the rest of Mr. Wilson's cast was made up of many of those who had been with him in other seasons. The engagement at the Criterion is for a limited time.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES

Gus Edwards and his "Song Revue" headed the bill at the Colonial Theatre yesterday. Mme. Besson and company presented the sketch, "The Woman Who Knew," and others on the bill were Frank Morrell, Alexander and Scott, the Three Keatons, Cooper and Robinson, the Four Boises, and the Zara Carmen trio.

At Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre the bill was headed by "Scrogge," a dramatic sketch; John and Emma Ray appeared in a musical skit. Included in the rest of the bill were Della Fox, Genaro and Bailey, Juliet, Fletcher Norton and the Conley Sisters, Julius Tannen, Mabel Bardine, Harry Breen, Emmett and Weed, the Four Regals, Morrissey and Hanlon, Capt. Nat Ressler, and Ryan and Buckley.

Eva Tanguay was headliner at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and another feature of importance was a sketch, "$1,000 Reward," by Robert H. Davis, and played by Robert Gill and company. The rest of the bill was made up of Bert Levy, Hill and Whittaker, Wilfred Clark and company, Sebastian Merrill and company, Ducallon, and Gilbert Corbin.

"The Slums of Paris" was the headline feature at the Alhambra Theatre. James F. Dolan and Ida Lenharr offered a comedy sketch, and others who appeared were Harry Fox and the Millership Sisters, Nana, "The Spook Minstrels," the Four Melody Monarchs, the Four Bards, and Sharp and Wilks.

At the Bronx Theatre there was a special bill in celebration of the 1,000th performance of vaudeville at that house this week. The headline act was the Four Mortons, in a comedy sketch, and others who appeared were Montgomery and Moore, Joseph Hart's players in "Dinkelspiel's Christmas," Sam Mann and company, Grace Hazard, Jack and Violet Kelly, the Harvey Devora Trio, Work and Ower, the Big City Four, Fred Duprez, and the Flying Caros.

Robert T. Haines and his stock company began their second week at the West End Theatre last night with "The Liars," the Henry Arthur Jones comedy in which John Drew starred several seasons ago. Mr. Haines played the leading role, and other important parts were taken by Beatrice Morgan, Beth Franklyn, Josephine Brown, Sydney Greenstreet, Robert Cain, and Ethelbert Hales.

For the last week of the season at the Manhattan Opera House, which began last night, the attraction is Henry W. Savage's production of "Madame X."

At the Academy of Music the stock company appeared yesterday afternoon in George Broadhurst's political play, "The Man of the Hour."

"The Queens of the Jardin de Paris," in a spectacular extravaganza, is the attraction for the week at the Columbia Theatre, opening yesterday afternoon. The vaudeville programme is headed by Mlle. Kremsa and Sig. C. Casetta and a troupe of French dancers.

Harry Hastings's "Big Show" is the attraction at the Olympic Theatre; "The Parisian Widows" at Hurtig and Seamon's Music Hall, and Phil Sheridan's "Marathon Girls" at the Murray Hill.

For the last week of the stock season at the Crescent Theatre, Brooklyn, the attraction is "The Servant in the House," played by the regular stock company.

The bill at the Orpheum Theatre, Brooklyn, yesterday, included Irene Franklin and Burt Green, the Ryan-Richfield company, Valerie Bergere and company, the Avon Comedy Four, Mack and Orth, Will Rogers, Paul La Croix, the Aurora Troupe, and the Grazers.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The annual meeting of the Actors' Fund of America will be held at the Gaiety Theatre this afternoon, for the election of officers for the coming year. Adresses will be made and reports of the present officers will be read.

The one hundredth performance of "The Pink Lady" at the New Amsterdam Theatre will be given to-night. Since the piece opened there have been no interpolations in the songs, and the original cast is intact with the exception of one member.

Henry Miller has made a contract with Percy G. Williams by which he will play a three weeks' season in vaudeville at the Williams houses, beginning on May 29 at the Colonial. He will present "Frederick Lemaitre," by Clyde Fitch, with Daniel Pennel and Laura Hope Crews in his support.

The one hundredth performance of "Excuse Me" will be celebrated at the Gaiety Theatre to-morrow night, when souvenirs of a toy Pomeranian, like the dog in the farce, will be given to the ladies in the audience.

This afternoon at the Hudson Theatre the benefit performance for the professional Woman's League will be given, with a minstrel first part and a long olio that will be participated in by a number of musical comedy, dramatic and vaudeville stars.

Swift & Company's sales of Fresh Beef in New York City for the week ending Saturday, May 6, averaged 8.80 cents per pound.—Adv.

SUFFRAGISTS OFF TO ALBANY.

Will See the Judiciary Committee to Urge Referendum.

Carrying big banners and many pennants, the women suffragists will march to-day on the Judiciary Committee at Albany, to hand to the members individually the resolution which they passed at the mass meeting at Union Square following their big parade last Saturday.

The resolution gives the names of European countries and States in the United States where women have full suffrage, other States where the question of votes for women is to be submitted to the people, tells of the growth of public opinion in favor of suffrage in the State, asks the Legislature to "face the responsibility of blocking the legitimate political aspirations of the women of the State," protests against the delay in Albany, and demands that the question be given to the voters.

The Woman's Political Union, the Equal Franchise Society, and the Woman Suffrage Party will be represented. The women will carry the large banner, presented by Mrs. William Fain—which led the procession Saturday—with the verse beginning "Forward Out of Error"; the big white banner with the names of the members of the Judiciary Committee upon it, and other smaller flags carried in the parade. Most of the women will go up on the Empire Express in the morning, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and Alberta Hill going up last night to prepare the way.

At noon the procession will start from the station and make its way to the Capitol. Between the time the women reach there and 2 o'clock, when the committee goes into session, the women will interview the members and recall the promises of those who have given their word to stand for the bill.

It is not known how many women will make the trip. Notice was sent from the headquarters asking the members to go, but there will be no response until the women meet at the train. Among those known to be going are Mrs. John Winters Brannan, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., Mrs. Egerton Winthrop, Jr., Mrs. Butterworth, and Mrs. W. L. Wellington. Five members of the family of the late Robert Ingersoll, his widow, and her sister, Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. Walston Brown and her daughter, and Miss Maud Ingersoll will be of the party.

Miss Harriet May Mills, President of the New York State Woman Suffrage Association, also will go to Albany to see about the State bill, but she will not be in the procession. With Mrs. Roxana Burrows, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, she will see Senator Stillman and Assemblyman Spielberg, who presented the State Suffrage bill.

REPROACHES DR. WRIGHT.

Dean Lambert Thinks English Authority's Views on Hygiene Woeful.

Sir Almroth Wright, the famous English medical authority, whose original theories of hygiene have created a sensation, was reproached yesterday by Dean Samuel W. Lambert of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in a lecture at Teachers College.

"Hygienic principles are so widely known and their truth so firmly established," said Dean Lambert, "that it seems strange to be able to record two recent attacks on the truth of well-established laws of health, and on the recognized methods of medical research. It is, perhaps, no more than one should expect that the iconoclastic satirist Shaw, should attack vivisection and also sneer at cold tubs and fresh air. But it has been a surprise to the medical profession both in England and the United States to find such an attack being led by Sir Almroth Wright, who is best known for his development of the modern therapentic methods of treating infectious diseases by means of vaccine produced from the very germs themselves which are the cause of the disease to be treated.

"Such a scientist should be a teacher of others in modern methods of controlling disease, instead of writing as he has recently done against such bulwarks of personal hygiene as fresh air, physical exercise and bathing. He has called the fresh air treatment of tuberculosis 'a dreadful superstition.'"

CARNEGIE TRUST DIVIDEND.

Court Denies Creditor's Plea to Prevent an Early Payment.

An unsuccessful effort was made yesterday by Payson Merrill, receiver for Martin J. Condon, President of the American Snuff Company, to restrain the State Superintendent of Banks from paying a dividend to depositors in the Carnegie Trust Company until the question of ownership of $5,050, which the trust company obtained by the sale of Mr. Condon's securities, can be decided. A motion to that effect was made before Justice Hough in the United States District Court by Receiver Merrill's counsel.

Counsel for the State Superintendent of Banks, in opposing the motion, said it would be absurd to tie up the payment of a dividend, because after the dividend is paid there will still remain the sum of $302,000 in the Carnegie Trust for the settlement of Receiver Merrill's claim and others. Judge Hough dismissed the motion.

Supreme Court Justice Hendrick has set aside May 15 for the hearing of all objections to the plan for the payment of a first dividend by the Carnegie Trust Company. No details of the proposed dividend payment plan have been learned as yet, but it was reported in banking circles yesterday that the first dividend to Carnegie Trust depositors is not likely to be in excess of 25 per cent.

DR. HOLTZMAN FOUND DEAD.

Aged Physician a Cripple for 12 Years as a Result of a Fall.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 8.—Dr. Samuel E. Holtzman, who had been a Summer resident of Ocean Grove for twelve years, was found dead in bed today at his home, 15 Abbot Avenue, Ocean Grove. Death resulted from heart trouble. Dr. Holtzman was 73 years old. He had been a cripple for twelve years, his hip being broken in a fall down the steps of a church in New York.

He was an interne at the Lincoln Hospital, New York, when the civil war began, and returned to his old home in Indiana to join the Fifty-eighth Volunteers. He was a surgeon throughout the war, and part of the time was Medical Director of his regiment. He was born at Winchester, Va., but moved to Illinois early in life. Later he went to Indiana, and then to New York. His Winter home was with his son, S. Ford Holtzman, at Riverside Manor, Hastings-on-the-Hudson. Besides the son, a widow and three daughters survive.

More Opera Singers Sail To-day.

Several more of the opera singers will sail to-day. Mme. Olive Fremstad goes on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. She will not sing anywhere this Summer, but will spend her time resting and preparing her new rôles for next Fall. Miss Marianne Flahaut and Miss Jeanne Maubourg will go to Paris on the Nieuw Amsterdam. Miss Flahaut will not be a member of the Metropolitan company next season, but she returns to America to sing in concert. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Guard also sail on the Nieuw Amsterdam.

Robert Mantell Acts Louis XI.

Robert Mantell made his only appearance this season in "Louis XI." at Daly's Theatre last night, playing the rôle of the superstitious, crafty French King. Marie Booth Russell appeared as Marie, T. Sawyer Crawley as Tristan L'Hermite, Guy Lindsay as Philip de Commines, Henry Fearing as Jacques Coitier, Alfred Hastings as François de Paull, Fritz Lieber as the Duc de Nemours, and Oscar Pfefferle as Oliver de Dain. To-night Mr. Mantell will present "The Merchant of Venice," and to-morrow afternoon he will put on "Julius Caesar," which will be the bill for the rest of the week.

NEGRO COMPANY HAS SEASON AT MAJESTIC

In a Musical Play, "His Honor the Barber," Begins an Indefinite Engagement.

COMEDIAN DUDLEY THE STAR

Ada Overton Walker Prominent in the Cast—The Donkey Wears Blue Overalls and Knows His Cues.

The Smart Set company, in a musical play called "His Honor the Barber," began an indefinite engagement at the Majestic Theatre last night with much applause and a generally pleased audience to welcome them. The star of the organization is S. H. Dudley, a comedian with a large sense of rough humor and an ability to transmit his feelings across the footlights. In the piece he played a barber, Raspberry Snow, whose ambition was to shave the President.

Ada Overton Walker, once featured with the Williams and Walker company, was another prominent member of the cast. She had several songs and dances, and she was recalled over and over last night. The rest of the cast worked hard, and found favor with the house. Not the least among the company was Patrick, a donkey, who wore blue overalls and knew when to take a cue.

However, the same fault is to be found with this entertainment that has been found, with numerous other negro shows. There is too much effort to imitate white performers and very little attempt at showing the racial cleverness of the performers. Had it not been for the characteristic singing of the choruses the performers, for the most part, might have been members of an indifferent burlesque company. This choral singing is enough of a saving grace to make a visit to the Majestic worth while.

J. H. McEldowney.

Word was received at the National City Bank yesterday of the death on Sunday from heart disease at Ospedaletti, on the Italian Riviera, of J. H. McEldowney, a Vice President of the institution, who went abroad last October in search of health. Mr. McEldowney had been with the National City Bank since 1904, and had been a Vice President since January, 1910. He was born in Chicago Heights, Ill., forty-three years ago. His father was W. J. McEldowney, an old settler of the place, who organized the Bank of Chicago Heights. J. H. McEldowney received his training in his father's bank and was a Vice President of that institution. He entered the service of The Chicago Tribune in 1890 as real estate editor, where he was associated with Frank A. Vanderlip, now President of the National City Bank, but at that time financial editor of The Tribune. Mr McEldowney was later commercial editor of The Tribune. He was made an assistant cashier of the National City Bank soon after coming to New York.

Major Richard Church.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 8.—Major Richard Church died this afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, the Rev. Edward P. Hart, from a violent attack of gastritis. He was born at Belvidere, June 15, 1824. The father of Major Church was Philip Church, and his mother was Matilda Stewart, daughter of Gen. Walter Stewart, aid de camp to Gen. Washington. His parents were the first settlers in the town which they named Beldivere. Major Church came of a distinguished ancestry. His grandfather, John B. Church, married Angelica Schuyler, daughter of Gen. Philip Schuyler. Major Church had in his possession family letters written by George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, James Madison, Lafayette, and others. He was one of the earliest members of the Sons of the American Revolution, and for many years a member of the Union Club of New York.

Rev. Dr. J. H. De Forest, Missionary.

TOKIO, May 8.—The Rev. Dr. John H. De Forest, a veteran Congregational missionary of the American Mission at Sendai, died to-day. Dr. De Forest had been connected with the Sendai Mission for many years. This is an important commercial, educational, and military city on the northeast coast, 200 miles north of Tokio. He was graduated from Yale in the Class of '68. In 1908 Dr. De Forest was decorated by the Japanese Government with the Order of the Rising Sun, in recognition of his service in dispelling anti-Japanese misconceptions among Americans.

Ex-Senator Kittredge Buried.

EAST JAFFREY, N. H., May 8.—Funeral services were held in the Congregational Church here to-day for ex-United States Senator Alfred B. Kittredge of Sioux Falls, S. D., who died in Hot Springs, Ark., last Thursday. Burial was in Conant Cemetery, on the side of Mount Monadnock. The honorary pallbearers were Congressman C. H. Burke of Pierre, S. D.; R. F. Person of the United States Treasury Department at Washington; C. R. Beattie of Sioux Falls, S. D., who represented the Masonic body; Judge J. W. Jones of Sioux Falls, S. D.; E. R. Winan, who represented the Bar Association of South Dakota, and C. M. Day of Sioux Falls, S. D., who attended the funeral for the Elks.

Obituary Notes.

LEWIS M. HEDGES, one of the most widely known old-time showmen and for years manager for the late P. T. Barnum, died at his home in Chicago Sunday. He had been ill for about a year.

The Rev. Dr. MOSES H. HARRIS, pastor of All Souls' Universalist Church of Watertown, N. Y., died early yesterday at Clifton Springs Sanitarium. Death was due to heart disease following an attack of the grip. Dr. Harris was born at Green, Me., fifty-five years ago. He was a graduate of St. Lawrence University Theological School and was a Trustee of the university.

JAMES WALTER JONES, 88 years old, a member of the American Technical Society of Chicago, died on Saturday at his home, 149 Amity Street, Brooklyn.

EDWARD E. KELLY, 68 years old, a builder, and for many years associated with John B. MacDonald, who built the Subway in Manhattan, died from pneumonia on Saturday at his home, 456 Kosciusko Street, Brooklyn.

JAMES H. T. VANDEWATER, President of the Village of Cedarhurst, is dead at his home in that town from typhoid fever at the age of 56. He was born in Mineola and was a business man in Far Rockaway.

Col. DENNIS BUTLER HARRIS, born in Hanover County, Va., March 9, 1836, died yesterday in St. Luke's Hospital. In the civil war Col. Harris performed distinguished services for the Confederate Army, and was Deputy Commissary General Agent under Col. Craigsmiles of Cleveland, Tenn.

LAWRENCE REYMAN, aged 40, Assistant District Attorney of Ohio County, died in Wheeling, West Va., yesterday, after being ill a week with scarlet fever.

MICHAEL S. LEVY, 75 years old, widely known as a pioneer in the manufacture of straw hats, died in Baltimore last night. During a period of severe financial depression Mr. Levy was obliged to lay off several hundred hands. He advanced the employes their salaries for several weeks with the stipulation that they were to pay back the money when they again obtained work. When they were about to make the last payment, just before Christmas, Mr. Levy returned all the money that had been repaid.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

BIG INTERNATIONAL ATHLETIC CARNIVAL

Yale and Harvard to Compete Against Oxford and Cambridge in England in July.

LONDON, May 8.—An international 'Varsity meet in which the combined athletic teams of Yale and Harvard will line up against those of Oxford and Cambridge will be held on the Queen's Club grounds in July, the American challenge having been definitely accepted by the British universities.

July 6 has been suggested as the date of the meet, but this may be changed for a day a little earlier or later in order that it may not clash with other events of the month.

As a result of Oxford's declining the challenge of Harvard University for a boat race, it is understood that the stewards of the Henley regatta will this year suspend the rule debarring American universities from competing for the Grand Challenge Cup. The Harvard crew will thus have an opportunity of entering for this blue ribbon event.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 8.—Negotiations for an international athletic meet between Oxford and Cambridge and Harvard and Yale, which have finally been consummated, have been pending for nearly a year. Both sides were anxious that it should be held this Summer, in view of the crowds of Americans at the coronation and the fact that the Olympic games will come next year.

One of the hitches, however, was over the question whether the American students at the two English universities, where they are enjoying the Rhodes scholarships and where they have been important factors on the athletic teams, especially at Oxford, should compete in the international series. The Rhodes scholars did not wish to compete against their countrymen, and it is understood here that the Oxford team would be somewhat weakened in their absence.

The athletic authorities at Harvard have received no acceptance of the challenge, but the press reports were accepted as authentic.

Both Harvard and Yale athletic teams were defeated on Saturday by narrow margins, but the games showed that a combination of the two teams will give a single organization of considerable strength, Harvard having been fairly fast on the track, while Yale has some brilliant performers in the field events.

In the last meeting between the four universities, in 1904, the Americans won by a score of 6 to 3 events.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 8.—The news that Oxford and Cambridge had accepted the invitation jointly sent by Harvard and Yale for an international athletic meet came as a surprise at Yale, where the athletic authorities had almost lost sight of the negotiations. The information was received with interest, and when it becomes generally known is expected to serve as a stimulus for the interest in next Saturday's dual meet at Yale field between Harvard and Yale. The Yale athletic management will await information from Harvard before making a statement.

HARVARD WILL NOT PROTEST.

Dartmouth Hurdler Illegally Won Race, but His "Win" Will Stand.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 8.—The general opinion among the Harvard athletic authorities to-day appeared to be in favor of allowing Dartmouth's victory on the track Saturday, by a score of 60 to 57, to stand without protest, despite the fact that Smith, who scored five points for Dartmouth in the high hurdles, kicked down six barriers in violation of the rule recently adopted, which disqualifies a runner who knocks down more than two hurdles.

Manager Floyd of Harvard said that he was talking with Coach Hillman of Dartmouth regarding an agreement when the pistol sent the hurdlers away, while Referee Billings states that he heard something of such an agreement, so he made no ruling when Smith broke the tape, leaving six hurdles flat in his path.

Athletic Manager W. F. Garcelon of Harvard stated to-day that there would be no appeal to the referee for a decision on the high hurdles. Harvard athletes were warm in their praise to-day over the fast work of the Dartmouth men in the sprints and hurdles, as well as their strength in the field events.

YALE FIELD FOR ALL SPORTS.

Special Committee Would Provide for All Branches.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 8.—While no official information is given out as to the attitude of the Executive Committee of the Yale Alumni Advisory Board toward a stadium, individual expressions forecast the decision. The committee last week carefully looked over Yale Field. It found that practically there was no room at the field for athletics other than for major and freshman teams for intercollegiate contests, and no opportunities for recreation, scrub, and other teams.

The deep impression made upon the committee was that the first necessity at Yale, instead of being a stadium, was a new area for athletic grounds, to be sought somewhere near enough to the university to be accessible for sports, and that football and the stadium should be subordinated to that greater need. This, it is believed, will be the report which finally will go to the Yale Corporation.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Thomas H. Williams, President of the new California Jockey Club, arrived in New York on Sunday from the Pacific Coast. A gathering of well-known turfmen greeted Mr. Williams last night at the Waldorf-Astoria. In the party were Philip J. Dwyer, Andrew Miller, John G. Follansbee, John B. McDonald, Price McKinney, Thomas Welsh, Sim Walton, and William Carton. Mr. Williams will remain in the city for a week, attending to some business of importance.

In regard to the racing situation in the Golden State, Mr. Williams said:

"Merchants and men of high standing in the social and industrial world are in hope of a resumption of racing in California. They are sanguine that the members of the Legislature will realize that a great injury to all industries on the Pacific Slope has resulted from recent legislation. In addition to the obliteration of the thoroughbred industry, millions of dollars invested in other fields has been practically wiped out.

"Racing men have always been law abiding citizens and I believe that the outlook for racing in my State is good."

James Butler, Price McKinney, Philip J. Dwyer, Thomas H. Williams, and John G. Follansbee will go to Louisville to watch the running of the Kentucky Derby. Nearly thirty years have elapsed since Mr. Dwyer saw the great classic. In 1882 he started Runnymede, a famous horse in those days. The Dwyer Brothers' crack met defeat on that occasion. Apollo, a sterling racehorse, owned by Green B. Morris, won the event by a short head.

August Belmont's three-year-old colts Footprint and Whist, together with two two-year-old fillies, were shipped from the course of the Westchester Racing Association yesterday afternoon to Baltimore. The two-year-olds are Lucky Lass, a brown filly by Ormondale-Lux Casta, bred by Henry G. Oxnard in Virginia, and Wild Weed, a chestnut daughter of Ethelbert-Woodbine, who was foaled at Mr. Belmont's Nursery Stud in Kentucky. Taking a line on Whist's preparation and recent trials, it is evident that he will carry the silks of the Chairman of The Jockey Club in the running of the Preakness Stake, to be decided the last day of the meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club, May 18. The distance of this historic event—one mile and a furlong—is not beyond Whist's capabilities.

Richard T. Wilson's two-year-old bay colt Devilstone, by Yankee, out of Deviltree, was shipped with the Belmont consignment. His ankles were punch fired last Autumn. He has been well schooled from the barrier and worked fairly well over short distances.

SAILOR BURKE WHIPPED.

Montana Dan Sullivan Outpoints Brooklyn Boxer at Olympic A. C.

The prestige of the Sullivan family of Montana, which was badly dented in the New York A. C. ring a short time ago, when Sailor Burke slipped the dream punch to Brother Dan in the ninth round, was regained at the Olympic A. C. last night by Brother Jack. He took up the burden which Dan was unable to carry and put Burke in the background in a ten-round bout. The contest went the full distance, and there were many times during the encounter that neither could be charged with real fighting, but it furnished enough milling to distribute honors, and Sullivan was entitled to the honors portion.

Jack made a bad getaway. The memory of what Sailor did to his brother evidently had its effect on his work in the early chapters, and he did little fighting for the first three rounds. He assumed the defensive entirely and spent the greater part of the time clinching and avoiding Sailor's wallops. Burke can always fight like a "champ." when things are breaking right, and he took on the air of the man who has no fear of the outcome, strutting to his corner after gaining each round, and always wearing a sarcastic grin. He was not able to hurt Sullivan any in these rounds, as the lanky Montana boy was too clever at clinching. But Sailor did all the aggressive work, landed about the only blows which reached home, and was clearly entitled to the early honors.

But Sullivan began to grow confident as the bout wore on, and Sailor did nothing of a damaging nature. About the fourth round Jack began to push out a left jab, and it proved a big stumbling block for the Brooklyn tar as he rushed in to force matters the same as in the earlier round. Sullivan also uncorked an occasional right swing which rocked Sailor's head, and the latter began to show signs of letting up on his aggressive tactics. Nothing tames the Sailor like a stiff punch, and these did the trick nicely.

From the fourth round to the end Burke never got any more than an even break. In a majority of the rounds, especially near the close, the Westerner had things almost his own way, and used both hands with telling effect on the Sailor's jaw. Sailor tried hard to fight back when he felt himself slipping after showing that he was sure of the verdict, but stinging wallops turned him back all the time. From the half-way mark to the close of the bout two rounds were even and the rest belonged to Sullivan.

Foul fighting was especially prominent in the early part of the bout, and it crept in occasionally in the later rounds. In the second round Referee Dan Tone had to stop proceedings twice and warn both men to cut out their rough tactics. Burke's specialty was an elbow, which he used to dent Sullivan's neck, and Jack was not far behind with the roughness. He used his head against the Sailor's chin, straightening up from a crouching position with enough force to rock the Sailor from head to feet. In the closing rounds Burke excelled in the foul work, and each time was greeted with hisses.

The bout was marred all the way by too much clinching, and not one round of the ten furnished as much real action as it should have brought out. In this respect Sullivan did more to spoil the bout than Burke, especially in the early rounds.

Sullivan's long reach was a big factor in his victory. Built on less rugged lines than the Brooklynite and less anxious to go in and mix matters, the Westerner looked decidedly bad until he began to box. Then the sailor, easily Sullivan's superior in slugging, had to take to the rear. Burke landed very few blows on Sullivan except in the clinches, the Westerner doing about all the telling work in the open fighting. In the ninth round Sullivan landed a terrific right swing on Burke's jaw and the sailor reeled half way across the ring and to his own corner.

Three six round bouts preceded the main event and each was full of action all the way. In the opening number Young Reddy outpointed Jimmy Curtis. In the second bout Johnny O'Niel's strength proved a bit too much for Young Hickey's science, and in the semi-final Johnnie Lohr had the call over Frankie Maher.

BOXING AT THE GARDEN.

Champions of England, Canada, and United States in Bouts.

Madison Square Garden will be the scene May 19 and 20 of the first international boxing series for amateurs ever held in this country. Under the auspices of the Pastime Athletic Club and the sanction of the Amateur Athletic Union, the contests promise to become of a nature which will to all intents and purposes carry with them the title of world's champion in the various classes, despite the fact that titular honors are not involved.

With the assurance that England will be represented by the pick of her "Simonpures," recently made champions of "all England," through the medium of the Amateur Boxing Association's annual contests, the advent of these stars of the fistic world in metropolitan competition will probably inaugurate a new era in the sport.

Never before has an amateur boxing organization gone to such lengths to cater to the desires of the followers of fistiana, and it is almost an assured fact that the "nursery of athletes" will be flooded with membership applications in anticipation of the coming tournament.

Amateur boxing has a stronger hold on the sports loving public in England than here, where the game—after a lapse of years—has just begun to assume the condition of the time of the Horton law.

In order to provide against a surfeit of entries for the various classes, embracing 105 pounds, 115 pounds, 125 pounds, 135 pounds, 145 pounds, 158 pounds, and heavyweight, the committee has made provision for a competitive list which can be handled nicely in two nights. It will savor of an invitation series, with the acknowledge best men—at their weights—of the United States, Canada, and England arrayed against each other.

In the latter bevy are W. W. Allen and A. Spenceley, the 8 stone 4 pounds, (116 pounds) and 10 stone (140 pounds) champions of England; D. Erskine, the runner-up in the 9 stone (126 pounds) class; Bruce Logan, a star heavyweight, and R. Warner, a middleweight. These men will arrive next Saturday, and from that time until the contests are held will be the guests of the Pastime Athletic Club.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Jack Britton, the Chicago boy who is credited with having fought ten rounds to a draw with Packy McFarland last January, will be seen in action to-night at the show of the Twentieth Century A. C. at the St. Nicholas Rink. His opponent will be Johnny Marto, the west side lightweight. Britton is said to possess both cleverness and a punch, and Western critics aver that he will cause considerable trouble in the lightweight ranks. In Marto he opposes one of the sturdiest of New York's lightweight division. Marto is always boring in and slugging, and can be depended upon to give any of the lightweights a strenuous evening. The usual number of preliminaries will be staged, including a return bout between Harry Thiel and Mickey Devine, who put up such a hard fight at the club last week.

Young Fitzsimmons, the west side featherweight, who has been making rapid strides toward the top of the pugilistic ladder of late, has been matched with Dave Dillon for the star event of ten rounds before the Long Acre Club Thursday evening. Dillon was also a consistent winner until his recent bout with Phil Cross before the National Sporting Club, and he is anxious to make up for that defeat. In the six-round semi-final Johnny Ray, the east side bantamweight, will oppose Happy Bresnan of the west side.

Tommy Murphy is working hard at Sheepshead Bay in preparation for his bout with Knockout Brown before the Whirlwind Athletic Club at the Clermont Avenue Rink on Thursday night. Murphy is in the best possible condition, and is already down to 133 pounds, the ringside weight at which the boys will fight. The Flatbush boy realizes that he must dispose of Brown if he is to regain his former position in the lightweight division, and has mapped out a programme which calls for a bout with Ad Wolgast after he finishes with Brown. Murphy figures that the recent bout with Packy McFarland just about put him on edge for his coming encounter, and figures that he will be far better against the New Yorker than against the clever Chicagoan. Brown is training at the Boys' Club, where he has prepared for all his bouts, and is said to be in the best of condition. K. O. has had a long rest since his second battle with Ad Wolgast. The call for seats has been unusually large and indications point to a crowded house when the two boys face each other.

A. A. U. PRESIDENT CALLS FOR HELP

Everett C. Brown Fears Dry Rot in Some Union Divisions Unless They Work.

Everett C. Brown, President of the Amateur Athletic Union, fearing that the clubs in the various divisions of the governing body may rest on their oars after the close of the indoor season, has sent out an appeal in which he asks for a continuation of the systematic work which has made the A. A. U. the greatest organization of its kind in the world.

He advocates the forming of small groups among the playgrounds, Sunday schools, elementary schools, boys' clubs, universities, Y. M. C. A.'s, and athletic clubs. In this way the union will be built up locally, which will eventually argue for the good of the National body.

Continuing his request for help all along the line, Mr. Brown further said:

"Practically all of the officers of the different divisions of our organization are business men of some standing. Every business man knows that a great organization must go ahead. If dry rot ever starts in any division not only that division is sure to "go back" but the National body will also deteriorate. What I wish to impress upon you is that we must not be satisfied with the good work that has been done. There is an endless amount of good work to do, and by doing it you not only promote your own personal standing in your community but are completing the work of the National body, which we all admit must be continued as the greatest athletic body in the world.

"If you have not already begun, now is the time to do so. Establish headquarters, where not only athletes, but everybody interested in athletics, whether they be members of the A. A. U. or not, can find you. There is not a sporting editor in any part of the country who will not help you in this work. It is the kind of constructive work that they like, and practically every sporting editor in the United States is anxious to promote athletics in any form.

"The year 1912 is bound to be the greatest ever known in athletics. The plans are already being formulated for the sending of the finest team that has ever represented America to the Olympian Games to be held at Stockholm, Sweden. Every district in the country will have an opportunity to be represented, but they cannot be properly represented unless they have the best class of athletes, showing performances in their different events which will admit of their being chosen, and work should be started in each district of the United States at once, so that every athlete will be given a chance to show his ability. If this is done many athletes who are unknown in the athletic world to-day will undoubtedly be enrolled on the next Olympian team."

DINNA KEN BEST IN 'CHASE.

Tommy Wright Pilots Winner in Feature Race at Pimlico.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 8.—Showers caused numerous scratches to-day, but did not materially change track conditions at Pimlico.

The feature was the Potomac Steeplechase won by Dinna Ken with the gentleman rider, Mr. Tommy Wright, in the saddle. He carried Algie and Waterspeed along so fast they fell at the second turn of the course.

The Merchants Handicap, or Booming Baltimore race as it was called, was won by Servicence. The summary:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds, five furlongs. Wyandot, 112 pounds, (Glass,) 12 to 5, 6 to 5, and 3 to 5, won; Walter Scott, 107, (Bell,) 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, second; Blitzen, Jr., 112, (Garner,) 9 to 2, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, third. Brighton Beach A. C. Wins Fight Case.

Another fight case was thrown out of court yesterday for lack of evidence. It was the case against the Brighton Beach Athletic Club, the arrests being made at the club's stag on March 21. The accused were Eddie Powers, Tommy Barrett, Denny McGrath, and Raymond Bliss, who took part in the boxing entertainment. The case was tried in the Special Sessions before Judges Zeller, Samuels, and Wyart. Inspector Dooley and Capt. Robinson of Coney Island testified and tried to show that a prize fight had taken place, but the court decided that the evidence was insufficient and dismissed the case. The defendants were not called on to present any evidence.

Boxing Bouts Not Prize Fights.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 8.—Boxing bouts as staged at the Vernon Arena are not "prize fights" within the meaning of the law prohibiting such events, according to Superior Judge Willis, who to-day dismissed charges against those concerned in the Wolgast-Memsic contest of March 17. Judge Willis held that T. J. McCarey, promoter, had taken all precautions demanded by law.

SAMPSON THROWS 3 MEN.

German Giant Easily the Master of His Opponent on the Mat.

Paul Sampson, the giant German wrestler, although he did not show any marvelous ability at wrestling, lived up to his agreement last night by throwing the three best opponents procurable in the wrestling carnival last night at the Star Casino.

Sampson is one of the biggest and best formed mat artists that has ever come from Germany, but his task last night was an easy one from the start, as neither of the three opponents were on equal terms, either in experience or weight.

His first opponent was Young Zbyszko, a sturdy wrestler, but he lacked more than forty pounds on the German, and although he put up a good defensive battle he never once was the aggressor. Sampson agreed to throw all three men within twenty minutes each, and Young Zbyszko was thrown after 15 minutes and 45 seconds of work with a half nelson hold.

In the second encounter Sampson opposed George Sandalee, a Greek, and the bout furnished the spectators with the most excitement, as the Greek became very rough after a few seconds' work, and almost fought a fist fight with his German opponent.

After being aroused by the unfair work of Sandalee, Sampson soon showed his strength and pinned his man to the mat with an arm-and-shoulder hold in four minutes. The Greek protested the decision and was in a fiery state of mind, declaring he had not been thrown, and the German afforded him a second opportunity, provided he did not exhibit any of his foul tactics. The second match lasted just twelve seconds and the Greek was again floored in easy style with both shoulders squarely on the canvas.

The last opponent of the German, George Knox, known as the New Jersey butcher boy, proved the most worthy, and although he was also outweighed by the German, he put up a great defensive bout and was not finally thrown until the pair had grappled for 15 minutes and 24 seconds, when a half Nelson and bar, hold put him helpless on the mat.

Other matches served to arouse the spectators before the final encounter, in which a novelty was introduced in the way of a pair of youthful wrestlers, the Kruger brothers. The lads were not more than 10 years of age, and weighed about 55 pounds each, but they showed the marks of the science by bringing into use many of the well-known holds and tossed each other about the ring, but after ten minutes of work had to give up without either gaining a fall, and the bout was decided a draw by the referee.

REGATTA AT LONG BEACH.

Long Island Rowing Association Decides Upon New Course.

The Long Island Rowing Association's regatta will be held at Long Beach on July 22. The date and place was fixed at a meeting of the organization held at the Crescent Athletic Club last night, at which Dr. Robert J. Bell presided. The Long Beach course was chosen after some debate, the other course named being on Flushing Bay, where the regatta has been held in previous years. The Long Beach course is believed to be a better place to hold the event.

Judging from the reports of the representatives of the various clubs, the regatta will be one of the best the association has held. Ten events are already assured, and the entries for several of these events have been promised. The clubs represented were the Crescent Athletic Club, Flushing Boat Club, Nautilus Rowing Club, Brooklyn Rowing Club, and Ravenswood Boat Club.

Bergen Beach Club Shoot.

The Bergen Beach Gun Club will hold a shoot at the club grounds, East Seventy-first Street and Avenue N, Bergen Beach, this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock.

NOTES FOR THE GOLFERS.

Close scoring marked a four-ball match over the links of the Deal Golf and Country Club yesterday. J. F. Shanley, Jr., and J. B. Turner were opposed to P. W. Kendall and W. V. Conover, and after the last puts had been run down on the home green the match was found to be all even. As might be expected, "ringers" were of frequent occurrence, one of the most exceptional being Kendall's 3 at the 438-yard second hole. Conover's 4 at the long ninth hole was likewise out of the ordinary, as was Shanley's 3 at the fourteenth and Turner's 2 at the seventeenth.

Kendall and Conover turned for home 2 up, but the match became square when Turner got the 2 mentioned. Individually Conover led with a 79. Turner had an 80, Kendall 81, and Shanley 82. The best ball of the four was 67, 7 strokes better than par. The best ball of the opposing sides follows:

Kendall and Conover—
Out	3	3	4	5	4	3	5	4	4	—35
In	4	4	6	3	5	4	5	3	4	—37—72
Shanley and Turner—
Out	3	5	4	5	5	3	5	3	5	—38
In	4	4	5	3	3	5	5	2	4	—35—73

Playing over the Deal links on Sunday, George A. Burd had the distinction of making the 535-yard seventh hole in three strokes, the result of a drive, a brassie, and a 150-yard approach shot with a driving mashie. The Deal course is in excellent condition now. H. G. McGarvey is the club's new steward, who is conducting the restaurant under the management of the House Committee.

Golfing Events at Inwood Country Club

The Inwood Country Club of Inwood, L. I., will open the golf season with a tournament on May 14 with an eighteen-hole handicap, medal play. On May 27, 28, and 30 the Memorial Day tournament will be held. Other events during the season are: June 4, driving contest; June 18, approaching and putting contest; July 1, 2, and 4, Independence Day tournament; July 6, women's handicap, eighteen holes, medal play; July 23, two-ball mixed foursome; Aug. 5, carnival day, golf and tennis tournaments; Aug. 13, two-ball foursome; Aug. 20, two-ball mixed foursome; Sept. 2, 3, and 4, Labor Day tournament; Nov. 7, Election Day tournament; Nov. 30, Thanksgiving Day tournament; Dec. 25, Christmas Day tournament.

COMMITTEES ASSAIL GEORGIA CENTRAL

Settlements for Income Bondholders Found Inadequate and Bookkeeping Peculiar.

READY TO START LAWSUITS

Interest Payments in Full on All Classes of Income Bonds Is Demanded.

The protective committees representing the three classes of Central of Georgia Railway income bondholders decided at a conference yesterday to take further legal steps to enforce their claims against the railway for interest on their income bonds. Five months ago the Supreme Court of Georgia affirmed a decision awarding the income bondholders full interest for the year 1907. This was paid, but no settlement of the claims for interest for the years since 1907 has been made.

At the close of last week President Charles H. Markham of the Central of Georgia, who is also President of the Illinois Central, which controls the other road, issued a statement to the income bondholders naming the amount which the management regarded as due under the method of accounting fixed by the court in the suit which settled the claims for 1907. He said the accounts had been recast with a view to complying fully with the views of the court, and that it had been found that for 1908 $397,478 was due, for 1909, $92,500, and the same amount for 1910. Full interest for each year would require $750,000.

In a circular addressed to the bondholders yesterday the protective committees say that the sums named by the road do not represent a fair statement of the amount actually earned on the income bonds, and the committees, therefore, have instructed counsel to take legal steps to enforce the payment of interest in full. The committees have been advised that the real earnings for each of these years have been double the amount needed to pay the full interest.

This statement regarding negotiations for the sale of the income bonds was made by the committees yesterday:

In connection with the claim that no larger part of net earnings for the years 1908, 1909, and 1910 is available for the income bondholders, it is peculiarly significant that within the past month leading banking interests closely affiliated with the Illinois Central Railroad Company, have been in negotiation with the largest holders of income bonds for their purchase.

In order to end vexatious litigation, these bondholders finally offered their bonds and certificates at the flat prices of 112¼ for the first incomes, 106¼ for the second incomes, and 102½ for the third incomes, which prices included 17½ per cent. of overdue interest on all classes of bonds.

It was also provided that for a reasonable length of time, all holders of income bonds should have the right to tender them to the purchasers at the same prices. The proposed purchasers were asked to bear a certain part of the Protective Committees' expenses, as well as of other expenses forced upon them by the litigation to which they were compelled to resort to establish the improper practices of the railway company. The banking interests expressed a willingness to purchase all the bonds or certificates representing bonds at the prices mentioned, but refused to grant the condition looking toward any reimbursement of the committees' expenses.

Referring to the manner in which the Central of Georgia's accounts are kept, the committees point out to the income bondholders that the expenses incurred in contesting the claims of the bondholders for interest due in 1907 were entered as part of the operating expenses of 1910 and charged against the income bondholders for last year. The committees also cite a loan of $1,000,000 made to the Union Pacific by the Central of Georgia. This loan was made in November, 1907, and was carried as a cash item by the Central of Georgia until February, 1908, when, after being reduced to $800,000, the loan was entered among bills receivable. Toward the close of the fiscal year, the committees' statement says, this loan was transferred to the Ocean Steamship Company, which is a creature of the Central of Georgia Railway.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The wheat market drifted all day, waiting for the Government report, which was issued after the close. There was very little interest shown in the market. Prices worked up a little during the morning, reacting late. The Curb, after the Government report came out, was practically unchanged. The cables were weaker from England and the Continent, and there were reports of better weather conditions. World's exports were 12,176,000 bushels, against 11,088,000 bushels the previous week and 9,268,000 bushels last year. The amount of wheat afloat for Europe decreased 1,248,000 bushels. There were cables telling of beneficial rains in parts of Southeastern Europe. The American weather conditions were favorable for Winter wheat. There were light scattered showers in the Northwest, but no general rain. The visible supply showed heavy decrease. The reduction was 1,938,000 bushels in the United States and 2,003,000 bushels in Canada, making a grand total reduction of 3,941,000 bushels. The decrease caused some covering, the market selling off later. The Government report issued after the close showed, as expected, a gain of 2.8 in condition, with the present condition 86.1, compared with 86, a ten-year average. The area abandoned was 3,118,000 acres, mainly in Oklahoma and Kansas. The Government gave an estimate of the probable yield indicated of 15.6 per acre. This is the first estimate ever made by the Government prior to the preliminary figures given after harvest. It was based on the average results from the May conditions. The report indicated a crop of 489,325,000 bushels. The Produce Exchange estimate, based on a five-year harvest results, pointed to a yield of 16.2 bushels per acre and an outturn of 508,146,000 bushels. The estimates compiled at Chicago varied from 472,000,000 bushels to 479,000,000 bushels. Cash wheat was inactive, with prices nominal. No. 2 red was quoted at 96⅞c., free on board; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.09¾; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03⅜; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.05⅜.

CORN.—The corn market was dull and prices showed decline. The weather conditions were favorable for farm work, while the demand for cash corn was slow and foreign markets were heavy. Prices worked off, with reports of quite large selling by some of the speculative interests West. The visible supply showed a decrease of 800,000 bushels, but the Western receipts were liberal and for the day showed a total more than double the corresponding day last year. The close was at about the low point. Cash corn was nominal. No. 2 was quoted at 59¾c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.—The market showed heaviness, with prices selling down on favorable weather conditions and the weakness in other grain. The weather conditions were favorable for the germination and the growth of the early seeded crop and also favorable for completion of the late seeding in the Northwest. The receipts were fairly liberal at the West for the day and cash oats were quiet. The visible decreased 1,130,000 bushels. There was no report on oats or corn by the Government. Standard oats were quoted at 40¼c; No. 2 white, 40½c; No. 3 white, 40c.

PROVISIONS.—The trading in hog products was quiet and prices showed some advance, owing to smaller hog receipts than anticipated West and some advance in live hog prices. May pork was strong on covering of shorts.

COTTONSEED OIL.

There appeared to be but little opposition given to the upward movement yesterday, and offerings were limited. The firmness of lard at the West had a sympathetic effect, but it is apparent that requirements of oil by consumers at present is about commensurate with supplies. The fine weather prevailing in the cotton belt had but little influence, it being realized that several days ago when complaints of abnormally heavy precipitation were being received, little new buying was stimulated. Crude was quiet and steady, quoted at 5.07@5.20c. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

Interest was concentrated chiefly upon developments in the old crop options, with July especially conspicuous, that month advancing to new high levels for the season, while May was within one point of the highest price recorded on the crop. There appeared to be no fresh developments in the situation to account for the advance, but from the start bull support was manifested, and this tended to intimidate shorts, buying by Wall Street interests being in fair volume at various times. The movement was checked by realizing sales thought to be for the account of prominent holders, while some interests also expressed the belief that there was little desire to attract cotton from the South in the local market. Since the advance commenced several weeks ago, however, the amount shipped here has been below expectations, owing to commensurate strength of Southern spot markets. New crop months lagged during the session reflecting practically ideal conditions in the belt.

The weakness at Liverpool was quite unexpected at the start, with spot sales there in small volume. British Board of Trade returns showed exports of yarns during April of 4,000,000 pounds less than during March, although 2,000,000 pounds above a year ago. Exports of cloths were 115,000,000 yards less than in March, but also materially above last year. For the season yarn exports aggregated to 77,000,000 pounds, against 63,000,000 pounds last year, and of cloths 2,255,000,000 yards against 1,905,000,000 yards last year. The initial declines were from 3 to 10 points, with the principal weakness locally in the new crop months, but immediately following, the tone hardened. The official forecasts promise a continuation of favorable conditions and detailed weather reports received during the day showed clear skies and temperatures generally seasonable. Private crop advices were in the main favorable, and it was generally thought that with a period of conditions such as are at present prevailing, optimistic crop accounts will predominate and the June Government report which will be made up as of date of May 25 will read bearishly, especially as acreage is thought to be from 4 to 7 per cent. over last year and use of fertilizers probably 10 per cent. greater. Habersham King in his first report of the season states that 80 to 85 per cent. of the crop is from two weeks early to normal and from 15 to 20 per cent. from one to three weeks late. He reports the condition in Texas and Oklahoma the best in years. The fact that new crop options in the local market, however, are ruling at fair discounts as compared with Liverpool leads to caution in selling, although on the other hand the public shows little disposition to take to the buying side at present.

Exports were liberal and are now 1,585,000 bales above last year. Local stocks are 123,000 bales, against 235,000 bales a year ago. Southern spot markets unchanged to ⅛c higher; New York, 15c advance; middling, 15.65c.

COFFEE.

First prices were unchanged to 4 points lower, but a firmer feeling developed with new crop fairly active speculative buying. The close was 5 points higher to 2 points lower, with total sales of 40,500 bags. Havre closed ¼ to ½ franc up, while Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig higher. Rio was 75 reis lower. Santos unchanged. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 77,804 bags, against 54,538 the previous week and 83,735 last year. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States was 2,382,538 bags, against 3,114,079 last year and 3,579,979 two years ago. Receipts at Rio and Santos were 5,000 bags, against 11,000 last year.

Two-Year Sentence for a Bigamist.

Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday sentenced John Smied of 355 East Fifty-ninth Street to not less than two nor more than five years in Sing Sing, following his plea of guilty to a charge of bigamy. When being arrested he had two pictures, one of Judge Warren Foster of General Sessions and one of Susan B. Anthony in his possession, and his wives said he had told them they were his parents.

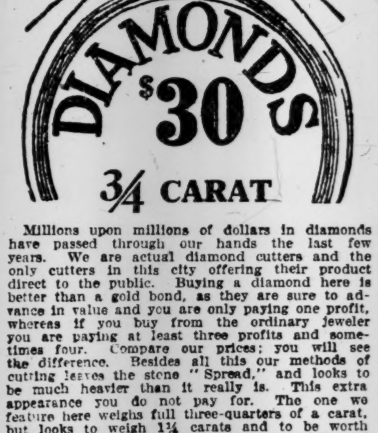
FOR SALE.



Millions upon millions of dollars in diamonds have passed through our hands the last few years. We are actual diamond cutters and the only cutters in this city offering their product direct to the public. Buying a diamond here is better than a gold bond, as they are sure to advance in value and you are only paying one profit, whereas if you buy from the ordinary jeweler you are paying at least three profits and sometimes four. Compare our prices; you will see the difference. Besides all this our methods of cutting leaves the stone "Spread," and looks to be much heavier than it really is. This extra appearance you do not pay for. The one we feature here weighs full three-quarters of a carat, but looks to weigh 1¼ carats and to be worth $75 to $100. Our price for this one is $30, and we have hundreds of others from $28 to $500 per carat that are equally as cheap, quality considered. No mail orders. All checks will certainly be returned the same day.
N. B.—Our refund agreement goes with every diamond we sell. Ask to see it.

Stocks Dull and Irregular—Call Money Rates, 2@2⅜ Per Cent.

WHEAT CONDITION BETTERED

May 1 Condition Above 10-Year Average—Winter Killed Acreage Larger Than Was Expected.

Most stocks moved in a very narrow range yesterday and the trading was on a light scale. Fairly large net gains by Atchison and both issues of American Can, with net advances of a point in several less active issues, offered a contrast to the movement in some other stocks, including Canadian Pacific, which showed a net loss of 1¼, while several other stocks closed with losses exceeding a point. Union Pacific and Reading showed a sagging tendency and closed with fractional net declines, while Reading at the close of the day was up an eighth. The information which the day brought to hand had considerable importance, but little relationship could be established between the day's developments and the dealings on the Stock Exchange except in one or two specific instances. Reports indicating progress in the plan to list Atchison in Paris were the ostensible explanation of the 1½-point gain which that stock showed, but the publication of the Government's May crop report aroused but little interest on the Stock Exchange so far as this was reflected in the trading of the closing hour.

During April the condition of Winter wheat, according to the Government's estimate, improved from 83.3 to 86.1. This brought the condition on May 1 above the ten-year average and is a very gratifying showing, although offset to some extent by the fact that yesterday's acreage figures indicated Winter damage 50 per cent. larger than had been estimated. In other words the December estimate of acreage has been reduced by 3,118,000 acres instead of by about 2,000,000 acres, as some private estimates indicated, but even allowing for this reduction in acreage the promise is still for a yield of Winter wheat close to the best previous yield. Deterioration in condition, which usually takes place between May and the time of harvest, may be expected to reduce the estimate of 508,000,000 bushels figured on the Produce Exchange yesterday, but even allowing for normal decline from this time on there is hope of a Winter wheat crop close to the 492,000,000 bushels harvested in 1906. The grain markets were irregular yesterday but were a fraction lower at the close.

The report of the Copper Producers Association showed an increase of over 3,500,000 pounds in the stocks of copper on hand, bringing the total on May 1 up to 165,555,000 pounds. Production in April was about 12,500,000 pounds less than the March output and deliveries were smaller by about 10,600,000 pounds. This decrease in production presumably reflects the curtailment of output at a number of mines, although these monthly figures are not an accurate record of actual production inasmuch as they show refiners' output and not the actual output of the mines. Something more than passing interest attaches to the announcement yesterday of an issue of $2,000,000 notes by the American Woolen Company because of the operation in which the company has been engaged of using part of its cash resources for the retirement of common stock. The present issue of notes seems to be entirely for refunding purposes, but coming so soon after the retirement of the common stock by the use of treasury funds, this note issue cannot but emphasize the awkwardness of the recent stock retirement plan.

Prospects of continued warmer weather in the cotton belt were reflected in further declines in the new crop options in the cotton market, but the conflict of conditions bearing on the new crop and the old crop months was still influential in causing a varying course for these two groups of options. While the more distant months showed net losses for the day, some advances, though slight ones, occurred in the nearer months.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

Business was curtailed materially on the Consolidated Exchange by the annual election, but at the same time commission houses continued to handle a gratifying volume of orders in odd lots, with the list of issues represented a large one. There were transactions in a number of stocks, of which no sales were reported on the New York Stock Exchange, including Republic Steel, Consolidated Gas, and Pacific Mail.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

PRICE MOVEMENTS NARROW

American Tobacco Makes an Exceptional Gain of Two Points—Western Pacific 5s a Fraction Higher.

The Curb market was very dull yesterday and devoid of special feature. At the end of the day prices were but little changed. An advance of 2 points in American Tobacco was exceptional. In the mining list movements were of the narrowest kind. Among the bond issues Western Pacific 5s gained a fraction to 92.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 8.—Changes in the local market were but fractional, and the trading was so light it was difficult to note any particular trend in the undertone. The telephone stocks continue in good demand, at the recent advance, but outside of Mayflower, which advanced ⅛ point on a fair volume of transactions, the copper shares were extremely quiet.

Large Rail Orders.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has decided on the purchase of 40,000 tons of steel rails, which is one of the largest orders which has come to the railmakers this year. These rails are to be rolled partly by the United States Steel Corporation and partly by the Lackawanna Steel Company. The St. Paul is accustomed to divide its rail orders between these two companies about in the proportion in which it carries ores for these two concerns. In a general way all the railroads follow the custom of distributing their orders among manufacturers who contribute directly to their traffic, and the allotment of the St. Paul rail order is an illustration of the practical working of this plan. The greater the prosperity of the manufacturers contributing traffic to any railroad the greater the prosperity of the railroad itself, and in this fact lies the ready explanation of the custom of the railroads to place their orders with factories from which they derive traffic.

Puget Sound Bond Issue.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound is planning to make a further issue of $25,000,000 of its 4 per cent. first mortgage bonds to cover expenditures to this amount, the funds for which were provided by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. There have been issued already $123,000,000 of these Puget Sound bonds, all of which went into the treasury of the old St. Paul, and this additional $25,000,000 will be dealt with in the same way. In addition to taking all the bonds issued by the Puget Sound the St. Paul holds the $100,000,000 of capital stock of the Puget Sound line. One dividend of 2 per cent. has already been declared on this stock.

Effect of New Law.

Until the enactment of a new law by the last Congress, it was the custom to send nearly all of the foreign gold currency received in this country to the Assay Office to be melted. This entailed the loss of the cost and labor of minting, besides putting the Assay Office to considerable unnecessary work. Now it is possible to deposit the coins in the Sub-Treasury and receive their equivalent in gold certificates. When it is desired to export gold to a foreign country the process is reversed, gold coin of that country being released for export. The law is regarded by the Assay Office officials as one of the best things Congress has done recently.

Small Addition to Copper Stocks.

An increase of 3,547,974 pounds in the stocks of copper on hand was reported by the Copper Producers' Association yesterday. There was a decrease of 12,446,857 pounds in the month's production as compared to that in March. Domestic deliveries showed a large decrease, viz., 18,678,000 pounds, but the foreign deliveries were 8,048,000 pounds larger. The net decrease in deliveries was accordingly 10,625,000. Per diem production of the metal was 8,936,174 pounds, as against an average of 4,210,712 in March, 3,922,489 in February, and 3,782,148 in January. Altogether, copper men were inclined to call yesterday's figures a satisfactory exhibit, in view of the depressed state of the trade. Neither gains nor losses in April were strongly enough marked to reflect any important change.

WHEAT CROP MAY BREAK ALL RECORDS

Yield of 508,145,000 Bushels This Year Indicated in Government Report.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR RYE

Harvest Will Probably Be 35,277,000 Bushels—7,546,000 Tons of Hay on Farms.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The average condition of Winter wheat on May 1 was 86.1, compared with 83.3 on April 1, 82.1 on May 1, 1910, and 86, the May 1 ten-year average, according to the May crop report of the Department of Agriculture issued at 2:30 P. M. to-day.

The average condition of rye was 90, compared with 89.3 on April 1, 91.3 on May 1, 1910, and 89.7, the May 1 ten-year average.

The area of Winter wheat to be harvested was about 31,367,000 acres, or 1,940,000 acres (6.6 per cent.) more than the area harvested in 1910, and 3,118,000 acres (.9 per cent.) less than the area sown last Fall, (34,485,000 acres.)

The condition of the wheat crop on May 1 for the last five years averaged 85.7 per cent.; the final yield per acre averaged 15.5 bushels. If the above ratio should prevail this year, the condition of 86.1 per cent. would indicate a yield of 15.6 bushels per acre. On the estimated area to be harvested, 15.6 bushels per acre would produce 5.4 per cent. more than the final estimate of production last year and 9.6 per cent. more than the production of 1909.

The average condition of meadow (hay) lands was 84.7, compared with 89.8 in 1910, and a ten-year average of 89.4.

Stocks of hay on farms is estimated at 7,546,000 tons, (12.4 per cent. of crop,) against 7,275,000 tons, (11.2 per cent.) on May 1, 1910.

The average condition of pastures was 81.3, compared with 89.3 in 1910, and a ten-year average of 87.4.

Of Spring plowing, 71.0 per cent. was completed up to May 1, compared with 80.3 per cent. in 1910, and a ten-year average of 67.2.

Of Spring planting, 60.0 per cent., compared with 65.0 in 1910.

The acreage of Winter wheat remaining to be harvested and condition of Winter wheat and rye on May 1, by States, follows:

On the basis of the Government crop report, the statistician of the New York Produce Exchange finds an indicated yield of 508,145,000 bushels of wheat. If the indicated crop is harvested it will mean about 16,000,000 bushels more than the greatest crop on record, which was that of 1906.

The Produce Exchange estimate of the indicated yield of rye is 35,277,000 bushels, comparing with an estimate of 34,849,000 bushels made as of April 1.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—It was quiet on the local Exchange to-day. Throughout the morning trading was extremely dull, with little change from Saturday's close, and similar conditions obtained until the close. United States Steel started at a fractional decline, and the Street was uncertain what kind of showing to look for in the statement of unfilled tonnage to be published Wednesday. Lehigh Navigation warrants were offered in odd lots at a fractional recession, whereas Alliance Insurance warrants were in some demand. Pennsylvania warrants fluctuated irregularly within a narrow radius.

JARVIS WINS IN LITTLE BOARD

Triumphs Over Budd by 7 Votes—No Contest in Big Exchange.

After the closest contest ever waged on the floor of the Consolidated Stock Exchange R. M. Jarvis was re-elected President for another term by a plurality of 7 votes yesterday. The election aroused more than the usual amount of interest, with the result that there were 556 votes cast out of a possible 900. This is the heaviest percentage of the possible vote in the Exchange's history.

Mr. Jarvis ran as an independent against Ogden D. Budd, the regular candidate, who had been picked by the official Nominating Committee. It has been a time-honored custom to renominate each President for a second term, and when Mr. Jarvis, who had served but one year, was passed over in favor of Mr. Budd a number of the former's friends started a spirited campaign in his behalf. Mr. Budd was President for two terms prior to President Badeau's incumbency.

The ticket ballot was split by so many members that there was a delay in counting, and the successful candidates for the remaining offices will not be announced until to-day. It was at first announced that Mr. Jarvis had won by four votes, but on a recount his total became 281, against 274 for Mr. Budd, with one blank. This is the first time that an independent candidate has succeeded of election against the regular nominee.

On the New York Stock Exchange the election was purely formal, with no opposition ticket. R. H. Thomas was reelected President, and Henry C. Swords Treasurer. E. H. De Coppet, Bayard Dominick, Jr., W. Strother Jones, Alexander M. White, and Willis D. Wood were elected members of the Governing Committee to serve four years, and A. W. Butler was elected to serve two years. Henry B. Cannon, S. L. Cromwell, William T. Floyd, I. Chauncey McKeever, and Edward Roesler were made the Nominating Committee for 1912.

CLEARING HOUSE MEETING.

Action on Admission of Trust Companies Likely to be Favorable.

Bankers actively interested in the proposal to modify the Clearing House's requirements in respect to the admission of trust companies expressed confidence yesterday that the plan would be approved at the special meeting of the Clearing House which is to be held today. Since this meeting was called a week ago some of the banks which do not favor the admission of the trust companies on the terms proposed by the committee have been attempting to organize the opposition in the hope of defeating the measure.

Defeat will be possible, it was said yesterday, only if the banks whose officers have already given their approval to the plan reverse their position when the vote is cast. No such change is considered at all likely. On the other hand it is thought that there is a good chance of the action at to-day's meeting being made unanimous.

A vote also will be taken to-day on the plan to establish a system of examinations of all the members of the Clearing House Association by an examiner named by the Clearing House.

Several trust companies which have not the required minimum of $1,000,000 capital for Clearing House membership are expected to increase their capital. Of the forty-four trust companies in the city there are sixteen which have less than $1,000,000 capital.

The Fidelity Trust Company issued notice yesterday of a special meeting of its stockholders, to be held May 24, to vote on an increase in its capital from $750,000 to $1,000,000, and to increase its surplus in equal amount. The $250,000 new stock will be issued at 200.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 8.—There was great strength to quotations on the local Stock Exchange today. Sears-Roebuck, at the close, was a fraction down, and McCrum-Howell preferred lost a full point at its lowest, though recovering practicaly all before the close. People's Gas lost a fraction. The American Can issues were the strong feature, the common shares closing at 12½ on more than a 1½ point gain, and the preferred adding slightly more than a point to 87. Diamond Match advanced 1½ and held most of the gain to the close, and Quaker Oats preferred rose to 104⅞, compared with the last sales.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 8.—There was a good supply of money and discount rates were quiet to-day.

The Bank of England bought the bulk of the $3,000,000 South African gold available.

The stock market opened heavy. Fears of labor troubles caused a sharp fall in home rails, and nervousness regarding the settlement of the Mexican troubles weakened Mexican rails, while Kaffirs suffered from Paris selling. Later the markets were supported and everything closed above the lowest.

American securities opened easy and below parity. Prices sagged until near the end of the first hour, when covering caused a rally in a part of the list. Wall Street bought in the late trading and strengthened prices. The closing was steady.

Bar silver strong at 24 9-16d per ounce. Money, 2¼@2½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¼@2 3-16 per cent.; for three months' bills 2⅛@2 3-16 per cent.

Bullion amounting to £21,000 was taken into the Bank of England to-day and £15,000 was withdrawn for shipment to Batavia.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.20; at Lisbon, 10.

PARIS, May 8.—Prices were heavy on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 95f 72½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 29½c for checks.

BERLIN, May 8.—Realizing depressed prices on the Boerse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 45 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 3 per cent.

Private discount rate, 3⅛ per cent.

ARTHUR LIPPER & COMPANY.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that the limited partnership formed by the undersigned, pursuant to the provisions of the statutes of the State of New York, under the firm name and style of Arthur Lipper & Company, which, by its terms, commenced on the 1st day of May, 1908, and expired on the 30th day of April, 1911, has this day been renewed and continued in pursuance of said statutes, and the terms of such renewed and continued partnership are as follows:

FIRST: The name or firm under which said copartnership is to be conducted is Arthur Lipper & Co.

SECOND: The general nature of the business intended to be transacted by such copartnership is a general banking and stock brokerage business, including the dealing in stocks, bonds, and other securities, as well as cotton, grain, and provisions, on commission, and the principal place of business is to be located in the Borough of Manhattan, City and County of New York, and State of New York.

THIRD: The names of the general and special partners interested in said partnership, all of whom are of full age, and their respective places of residence are as follows: Arthur Lipper, who resides at 137 West 75th Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City; Harry F. Louchheim, who resides at 56 West 71st Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City; Harry S. Behal, who resides at 2,005 Park Avenue, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Milton W. Lipper, who resides at 258 Riverside Drive, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, are the general partners, and Theodore W. Myers, who resides at Plaza Hotel, Fifth Avenue and 59th Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, is the special partner.

FOURTH: The amount of capital which the said Theodore W. Myers, as special Partner, heretofore contributed to the common stock, and which has been actually and in good faith paid in in cash, is the sum of Two hundred thousand Dollars ($200,000); such contribution and payment were made by the said special partner at the commencement of the limited partnership now being renewed and continued; no part of said sum of Two hundred thousand Dollars ($200,000) has been withdrawn by, or paid or transferred to, the said special partner, but the whole amount thereof remains invested in the said limited partnership wholly unimpaired, and the whole amount thereof, namely, Two hundred thousand Dollars ($200,000), is contributed by said special partner to the common stock of such renewed and continued limited partnership.

FIFTH: The time at which the limited partnership hereby renewed and continued is to commence is the 1st day of May, 1911, and the time at which the said limited partnership is to end is the 30th day of April, 1913.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have hereunto set our hands and affixed our seals this first day of May, 1911.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The sale of a block front in the upper part of the Bronx on the White Plains Road added to the activity of the realty market yesterday and was further evidence of the demand on the part of builders and investors to acquire large and well-situated plots in that borough for future improvement. Several sales of this character have occurred lately, and it is significant that most of the deals have been made for the purpose of early improvement. The present sale was made by J. Clarence Davies for Morris D. Baer and involved the block front on the west side of White Plains Road, between 233d and 234th Streets, having a frontage of 218 feet on White Plains Road and 180 feet on each of the side streets. In this section 233d Street is rapidly becoming the main crosstown thoroughfare and has shown marked business growth in the last two years.

Upper West Side Activity.

There is every indication that upper west-side property will prove as active this week as it did last, when it led the market in both speculation and investment transactions.

Yesterday there was a rumor of a block front deal in the Washington Heights section and the sale of the Wesleyan dwellings, a seven-story elevator apartment, at the southwest corner of 147th Street and Broadway. The structure, which has a frontage of 100 feet on Broadway and 25 feet on the street was sold by C. D. Hobbs to Mrs. Mary C. O'Brien for investment. Slawson & Hobbs negotiated the sale.

Further north the southwest corner of 189th Street and Amsterdam Avenue was resold by Cornelia E. Scott. The plot, which has a frontage of 100 feet on both the avenue and street is said to have been purchased by a builder, who will improve it with apartment houses.

Rex Beach Buys Apartment.

Rex Beach, the author, showed his appreciation of Manhattan realty as an investment by purchasing the five-story apartment house known as College View Court, on the southeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 138th Street, having a frontage of 100 feet on the avenue and 50 feet on the street. The property was bought from the Brown Realty Company through Stephen R. Tobin. The consideration was about $100,000.

Demand for Private Dwellings.

Amelia B. Willard has sold through Pease & Elliman 304 West Eighty-first Street, a five-story American basement dwelling, on a lot 20 by 68.2, 80 feet west of West End Avenue.

Sophie Sterns has sold through Slawson & Hobbs 254 West Eighty-eighth Street, a three-story front dwelling, on a lot 18 by 100.5. The buyer will occupy.

Deal in the Loft Zone.

Louis Schrag has sold for the Leasehold Improvement Company the two buildings, 358 and 360 West Twenty-sixth Street, on lot 40 by 98.9, to Theodore F. Wieland, who after extensive alterations will use the property for his own business.

The same broker has sold for the estate of Mary C. Warren the three-story stable, 117 West Twenty-fifth Street, on lot 25 by 98.9, to a client.

Estate Sells East Side Tenements.

A sale of more than ordinary note on the lower east side in that it involved the transfer of property which has been held in the ownership of one family for nearly 200 years was that of ten old three and four story front and rear tenement houses at 80 to 86 Ridge Street, between Delancey and Rivington Streets, the plot being 129 by 100. The property was sold by the Charles O. Livingston estate. David V. Vogel represented the estate in the deal. The name of the buyer was not divulged. It was held at $125,000.

Enlarges 37th Street Plot.

Judson S. Todd is the buyer of the plot at 24 West Thirty-seventh Street, sold last week by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company. Mr. Todd, who is President of the Holland Holding Company, acquired the property to enlarge his plot for prospective building, having recently bought through the same brokers the adjoining houses at 20 and 22 West Thirty-seventh Street, giving him a frontage of 63.11 feet. Mr. Todd also owns the abutting property at 19 and 21 West Thirty-sixth Street.

Bronx.

Smith & Phelps have sold for cash the plot of four lots, situated on the west side of Crotona Avenue, 80 feet south of 189th Street.

John Kelly has sold for Sophie K. Ahrns the three-story business building at the northeast corner of Burnside and Ryer Avenues, on lot 25.10 by 69 by irregular, to John F. Powers. The same broker has also sold for Bertha Gehle the three-story house 749 East 179th Street, on lot 24 by 100, to Philip Martin, and has resold it to Regina Kirschstein.

Smith & Phelps have sold the plot, 100 by 95, on the west side of Crotona Avenue, 80 feet south of 189th Street.

Edward D. Sniffen has sold the property 705 Westchester Avenue, running through to Jackson Avenue, for the Brocoval Realty and Holding Company, to Paul Kroeger of Cranford, N. J. The property was held at $28,000.

Suburban.

Howell C. Perrin has sold in the town of Mamaroneck, near Larchmont, N. Y., for Elias G. Heller, about 106½ acres, known as the Stephenson tract, on Weaver Street and Rockland Avenue; also, for the New York Central Realty Company, 10½ acres known as the Hickory Grove factory property near Weaver Street, adjoining the Heller tract.

The Lewis H. May Company has sold for Rose Dawson a plot on the west side of Seneca Street, Far Rockaway, to James McArthur, who will improve for ocupancy. This was a cash sale, and establishes the price of $2,250 a lot for property in this neighborhood.

William C. Tucker has sold to Henry Kordes of Hollis a parcel 100 by 185 on the north side of Warren Street, 285 feet east of Cherokee Avenue, Hollis, L. I.

William Scott has sold to William M. Thomas of Belle Harbor a parcel having a frontage of 100 feet on the west side of Fifth Avenue and 100 feet on the south side of Newport Avenue, Rockaway Park, L. I.

John Tyler has sold for W. M. Jenkins to William A. Riley, the Hotel Clifton and cottages, Patchogue, L. I. Mr. Riley is proprietor of the Hotel Markwell, New York City.

$400,000 Loan on Riverside Drive.

Glendinning & Martin have placed for the Dacorn Realty Company a loan of $400,000 on its ten-story elevator apartment on the southwest corner of 145th Street and Riverside Drive.

To Enlarge Grace Institute.

Plans have been filed for enlarging the Grace Institute, at 149 to 155 West Sixtieth Street, by building a two-story extension on the east of the present building, thereby giving it an additional frontage of 45.3 feet, at a cost of $15,000. D'Oench & Yost are the architects.

New Dwelling for J. R. Sheffield.

Plans have been filed for the construction of a dwelling for J. R. Sheffield on the north side of Sixty-seventh Street, 140 feet west of Park Avenue. It will be a five-story building, 20 by 80.5, with an extension. The façade will be of limestone in the modern French Renaissance style of architecture, and the dwelling will be equipped with an elevator. Walter B. Chambers, architet, places the cost at $50,000.

Smith Estate Sale To-day.

Joseph P. Day, the auctioneer, will offer in the Vesey Street Salesroom to-day one entire block of fifty-five lots, part of the Loyal L. Smith estate, located on Riverside Drive, Fort Washington Avenue, 160th to 161st Street. The mansion to be offered was at one time occupied by President Madison, the fourth President of the United States, about 1805. The property at that time was owned by Aaron Burr.

Want Queens Map Completed.

A delegation from the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island, consisting of Messrs. John W. Paris, H. Stewart McKnight, D. Maujer McLaughlin, J. W. Doolittle, James Frank Burton Thompson, C. A. Thompson, and J. Wilkinson, waited on Controller William A. Prendergast yesterday to ask his assistance in securing a sufficient appropriation for the Topographical Bureau of Queens to complete the final maps for that borough.

Mr. Crowell, the engineer in charge of this department, and Deputy Commissioner M. P. Walsh of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity accompanied the delegation to testify to the pressing need for the completion of the final maps.

The Controller suggested that the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island take up the matter with Borough President Gresser and have the latter make the application for an additional appropriation at an early date to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and that if such application was a reasonable one it would have his signature.

Notes.

Peter Gilsey is the buyer of the dwelling 332 West Eighty-fourth Street, sold recently by Theodore Starrett.

On Thursday of this week the application for a paid fire department for the Second Ward of the Borough of Queens, made by the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island, comes up before the Board of Estimate for consideration.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM, PART I., OF THE Supreme Court of the State of New York, held in and for the County of New York, at the County Court House in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 21st day of April, 1911, present, Hon. Samuel Greenbaum, Justice.—In the matter of the application of NORTHERN CONDENSED MILK COMPANY of New York, a corporation for voluntary dissolution.

On reading and filing the petition of John F. Kloos, Frederick W. Pennoyer, Charles H. Jaquith, Jr., a majority of the Directors of the Northern Condensed Milk Company of New York, a corporation created under the laws of this State, and having its principal office located in the County of New York, and the schedule thereto annexed, duly verified by the petitioners on the 21st day of March, 1911, from which petition it appears that the case in one of those specified in Section 170 of the General Corporation Law; and it further appearing, to the satisfaction of the court, from said petition, that the said corporation is insolvent; and on reading and filing notice of this application dated March 21st, with proof of due service thereof, and of said petition and schedule and of a copy of this order on the Attorney General:

And, after hearing Lawrence B. Dunham, of counsel for the petitioners, and no one, representing the Attorney General,

Now, on motion of Blackwell Bros., attorneys for the petitioners, it is Ordered, That all persons interested in said corporation show cause before William A. Wight, Esq., who is hereby appointed referee for that purpose, at his office, No. 31 Nassau Street, New York City, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 25th day of May, 1911, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, why the said corporation should not be dissolved; and it is

Further Ordered, That a copy of this order be published at least once in each of the three weeks immediately preceding said 25th day of May, 1911, in The Law Journal and THE NEW YORK TIMES, newspapers published in the County of New York; and it is Further Ordered, That William B. Farrell be, and he hereby is appointed temporary receiver of all the property of the Northern Condensed Milk Company of New York, with power to collect and receive the debts, demands, and other property of the corporation; to preserve the property and the proceeds of the debts and demands collected; to sell or otherwise dispose of the property as directed by the court; to collect, receive, and preserve the proceeds thereof; and to maintain actions or special proceedings for either of these purposes; and to employ such attorneys or counsel as may be necessary for the administration of this trust and for the protection of the assets of said corporation and the defense of actions or proceedings.

It Is Further Ordered, That all creditors of said corporation be and they hereby are restrained from beginning any action against the said corporation for the recovery of a sum of money or from taking any further proceedings in any actions against said corporation heretofore commenced.

It Is Further Ordered, That the said receiver, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, execute and acknowledge in the usual form and file with the clerk of the County of New York, a bond to the people of the State of New York in the penal sum of four hundred ($400) dollars, with sufficient surety, to be approved by a Justice of this court, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties as such receiver; and

It Is Further Ordered, That said receiver deposit all funds of the corporation not needed for immediate disbursement in the

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A moderate disturbance that developed during Sunday night has caused rains from North Carolina to New England, and to-night it is central over Virginia.

Pressure has also fallen considerably over the remainder of the country, with high temperatures, but without much precipitation.

There will be showers Tuesday along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coasts. In the central valleys the weather will be generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday, and it will also be fair Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England. Temperature changes will not be marked.

Winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be moderate and variable; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate west to south.

FORECASTS, TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Showers south, fair north portion Tuesday; Wednesday fair; moderate variable winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Tuesday morning, followed by fair; Wednesday, fair, warmer; moderate variable winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M.	54	63	4 P. M.	62	62
6 A. M.	56	66	6 P. M.	60	60
9 A. M.	56	69	9 P. M.	57	58
12 M.	58	70	12 P. M.	56	58

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 64; for the corresponding date last year it was 58; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 57.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 66; at 8 P. M. it was 59. Maximum temperature, 71 degrees at 10:10 A. M.; minimum, 58 degrees at 9 P. M. Humidity, 39 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 62 per cent. at 8 P. M.

SUMMONSES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, FOR the Southern District of New York.—In the matter of WILLIAM PARSONS and CHARLES H. PARSONS, copartners, etc., alleged Bankrupts.—In Bankruptcy.—No. 14,991.

It appearing to my satisfaction that an involuntary petition was duly filed in this court on the 25th day of April, 1911, praying for the adjudication in bankruptcy of William Parsons and Charles H. Parsons as copartners and individually, and that one of said alleged bankrupts, Charles H. Parsons is not within said District, and that service of a subpoena herein cannot, after diligent search, be had upon him, and after reading and filing the petition herein filed on the 25th day of April, 1911, the return of the Marshal of this Court, and the annexed petition of Mark Nave, Esq., verified the 6th day of May, 1911, Now, on motion of Thompson and Ballantine, attorneys for the petitioning creditors herein, it is ORDERED that Charles H. Parsons appear, plead, answer, or demur herein, on or before the 27th day of May, 1911, and that in case of his failure so to do, an adjudication shall be made against him according to the prayer of said petition; and it is further ORDERED that this order be published in THE NEW YORK TIMES once a week for two successive weeks, said publication to commence not later than the 9th day of May, 1911, and that a copy of this order be mailed to said Charles H. Parsons at his last known place of residence on the same date.

C. M. HOUGH.
U. S. D. J.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—ELIZABETH LAHON, plaintiff, against LOUIS H. LAHON, defendant.—Summons.—Action for absolute divorce.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated New York, February 15th, 1911.

LESTER B. NELSON, Plaintiff's Attorney, Office and Post office address, No. 320 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

To Louis H. Lahon, defendant:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. Charles L. Guy, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated March 9th, 1911, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, at the County Court House, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

Dated New York, April 3, 1911.

LESTER B. NELSON, Plaintiff's Attorney, Office and Post Office address, No. 320 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

HOE SALE DISPUTE STIRS CITY CLERK

Broke His Rule in Issuing License So That Englishman Could Be Auctioneer.

WON'T DO IT NEXT TIME

Declares He Was Misled as to the Need of Having Mr. Hodgson Handle the Rare Books and Manuscripts.

City Clerk Scully declared yesterday that as the result of a controversy that arose in connection with the Hoe sale he will not hereafter issue an auctioneer's license to a corporation, as he did to the Anderson Auction Company for use at this sale.

The license was issued as an exception to his usual practice, in order that Sydney Hodgson of Hodgson Brothers of London, might act as auctioneer. He refused to issue the license directly to Mr. Hodgson because he is not an American citizen. There is no provision of law prohibiting such a license, but in view of the policy of other laws in that direction he was advised by the Corporation Counsel some time ago to make the rule against aliens.

The law governing the issue of licenses to peddlers, for instance, permits their issue only to citizens or persons who have declared their intention of becoming citizens.

There is no law against granting licenses to corporations, either, but a rule against them was established by Mr. Scully himself some time ago to prevent a practice he found in existence by which a corporation, upon paying one $100 fee, used the license to cover sales by different auctioneers at different times. This was regarded as a loss of revenue to the city, and also as unfair to licensed auctioneers, each of whom had paid the $100 fee to cover his personal sales.

"I made an exception in this case," said Mr. Scully yesterday, "because Major Turner, the President of the auction company, told me that Mr. Hodgson was the only man available who was qualified to handle the sale of some of these books. As he is an alien I could not give him a license, but I finally granted one to the Anderson Auction Company with a stipulation that it should be used only by Mr. Hodgson, thus preventing any such abuse as I had made the rule to prevent. Later I found that some of the books were being sold by Daniel R. Kennedy, the regular auctioneer of the company. It seemed to me that if he was qualified to sell one day he was qualified to sell every day, and if I had known that anybody but Mr. Hodgson was able to conduct the sale I would not have granted the license. Mr. Kennedy, of course, had his own license.

"While the sale was in progress Mr. Kennedy came down to the City Hall and protested against permission being given to Mr. Hodgson to serve, but it was too late then to do anything about it."

It was learned yesterday that the Anderson Auction Company, through an attorney, also made application for a permit to conduct sales at night, and that there was a lively discussion over the licensing of Mr. Hodgson. The night permits can be issued only by the Mayor, and only to auctioneers who already have licenses. W. B. Maloney, the Mayor's executive secretary, discussed the matter with Mayor Gaynor for nearly two hours before it was arranged to grant the permit.

"What caused the disturbance," said Mr. Maloney yesterday, "was a question I asked the attorney as to whom the company intended to employ under the corporation license and the night permit. When he said there would be at least half a dozen who were experts in different lines, I told him this would not be permitted. I sent for Mr. Scully, and he came in and told of the agreement that only Mr. Hodgson should act under the license. It was finally agreed that the same restriction should apply to the night sales, and the permit was issued. At the same time a night permit was granted to Mr. Kennedy.

"Mr. Kennedy came down here later and made a protest at the use of Mr. Hodgson, as he is an alien, but I was able to give him no satisfaction. There was nothing illegal even in granting a license or permit to an alien, and the city was protected against loss of fees, so the matter was left where it was."

Mr. Hodgson was on the block at five sessions during the sale and Mr. Kennedy at fourteen.

At the office of the Anderson Auction Company yesterday it was said that there had been no unpleasantness between the firm and Mr. Kennedy in regard to the matter, and that he had been advised before the sale that Mr. Hodgson would sell some of the more important works, as he is a scholar, and Mr. Kennedy is a general auctioneer not making a specialty of books.

Some persons who discussed this matter yesterday went so far as to suggest that the issue of the license, which they contended was irregular, might invalidate the sales made by Mr. Hodgson, but this was ridiculed by lawyers, who said that the courts had uniformly decided otherwise whenever such a point had been raised.

Major Emery S. Turner, President of the Anderson Auction Company, returned to town late last night from the funeral of his sister at Carmel, N. Y. He said he could not undertake to discuss the question raised by Dr. L. A. Baer, the German expert, as to the authenticity of two of the pieces sold at the Hoe sale, but would make a full statement to-day, which would bring out some entirely new points in regard to the matter. He said he did not wish to discount his formal statement by talking on the subject at all late at night after a hard trip by automobile.

As to rumors that he contemplated some legal action against Dr. Baer, possibly even involving his arrest, Major Turner said they were absolutely without foundation. No legal action would be taken by the Anderson Auction Company, he said.

Major Turner's office force was busy during the day preparing material for this statement. This included descriptions of the "Anne of Bretagne" Ovid manuscript and the Henri III. binding, portions of which were denounced by Dr. Baer as forgeries, as printed in catalogues and bibliographical works for years past.

George D. Smith, the purchaser of these works, said yesterday that no steps would be taken in the matter until the return of Major Turner. He said that he would confer with him to-day, and that an investigation would undoubtedly be made to establish the genuineness of the works.

Mr. Smith said he had had no communication with the executors of the Hoe estate in relation to the matter, and the whole affair was awaiting Major Turner's return. P. P. Chew, co-executor with F. W. H. Crane, said the question had not been brought officially before the executors in any way, although of course he had seen Dr. Baer's statement in THE NEW YORK TIMES. They contemplated no action until they heard from Major Turner.

The conditions of the Hoe sale applying to such a situation as has been created by Dr. Baer's statement were as follows:

"All books are sold as catalogued and are assumed to be in good condition. If material defects are found, not mentioned in the catalogue, the lot may be returned. Notice of such defects must be given promptly and the goods returned within ten days from the date of the sale. No exceptions will be made to this rule.

"Autograph letters, documents, and manuscripts are without recourse. The utmost care is taken to authenticate and correctly describe items of this character, but the company will not be responsible for errors, omissions, or defects of any kind."

This is the usual distinction made at sales between books, which are practically guaranteed, and manuscripts, which are not guaranteed. The rule of "no recourse" would apply to the Ovid manuscript questioned by Dr. Baer, but how the conditions would be construed in regard to the Henri III. binding is rather a nice question. Dr. Baer admits that the book and the back of the binding are of the age represented, but says the gilding, including the portrait of Henri III. are spurious. In any case, however, those interested are confident that should Dr. Baer's contention be upheld the Hoe estate would not permit either Mr. Smith or the Anderson Auction Company to suffer any loss. The items under criticism represent only $12,600 out of a total of nearly $1,000,000 realized at the sale.

For purposes of comparison the following condition laid down by the Anderson Auction Company in the case of art objects soon to be put on sale is of interest:

> All lots will be exposed for public exhibition two or more days before the date of sale, for examination by intending purchasers, and the Anderson Auction Company will not be responsible for the correctness of the description, authenticity, genuineness, or for any defect or fault in or concerning any lot, and make no warranty whatever, but will sell each lot exactly as it is, without recourse. But upon receiving before the date of sale expert opinion in writing that any lot is not as represented, the Anderson Auction Company will use every effort to furnish proof to the contrary, and in default of such proof that lot will be sold subject to the declaration of the aforesaid expert, he being liable to the owner or owners thereof for damage or injury occasioned by such declaration.

The question whether Mr. Hoe himself was confident of the genuineness of the Henri III. binding is still unsettled. Dr. Baer said that a friend of Mr. Hoe's told him that Mr. Hoe had expressed doubts of it. The person referred to by Dr. Baer is a man of prominence in the art world. Owing to his official position he does not wish to have his name brought into the discussion. When questioned yesterday he declined either to confirm or to deny that Mr. Hoe had made the statement attributed to him.

DEFENDS THE HOE SALE.

W. N. C. Carlton Says All Doubtful Articles Were So Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 8.—W. N. C. Carlton, Librarian of the Newberry Library, discussed to-night charges attributed to Dr. L. A. Baer of Frankfort, Germany, one of the experts at the Hoe Library sale in New York against some of the rare manuscripts and books sold.

"Certain foreign representatives," he said, "came over to the sale with the idea that they would show us Americans a few things and just wade in and 'clean us up.' Well, they didn't, did they? Perhaps they are a little bit piqued over their failure.

"The only basis for any charges of this character would lie in gossip emanating from the failure of the experts to agree upon the authenticity of some articles. In nearly every case of this kind, however, the auctioneer announced the doubtful nature of the article before the sale began. My recollection is that out of the 3,500 articles sold only twelve came in this doubtful class."

Dr. Carlton said to-night that he could not remember the exact titles of these articles. He said:

"I remember a very rare book which some of the experts believed to contain leaves in the back which were fac similes. If they were not genuine, they were very clever imitations, and the experts could not reach an agreement on them. The article was sold as perfect and nobody found any fault with it.

"There was also a Charles VI. manuscript, which some of the experts claim was really written 150 years later. But they could not agree, and it was sold as the real thing.

"In another instance the experts failed to reach an agreement on a book which was supposed to have once been the property of Queen Elizabeth. In this case they would not guarantee that it was genuine, and the price was very much lower than it would have been.

"I want to say finally that the whole sale was absolutely on the square. Every bidder had ample opportunity to examine the articles offered, and should blame no one but himself if he did not get what he thought he was getting. I never attended a sale with which so little fault could be found."

GIRL KILLED BY BOY OF 12.

Shooting Follows Quarrel Over Their Respective Ages.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 8.—Annie Johnson, 11 years old, was shot and killed at Starks, La., by Dewey Spiller, 12, to-day. The children were playing near the barn at the little girl's home. They became engaged in a childish quarrel.

"I'm pretty near as old as you, I'm 'leven," said Annie.

"Aw, you're just a kid; you're only 10," said Dewey.

The quarrel soon was dropped, but a little later the girl was shot in the head by a bullet from the boy's small rifle.

The lad says the killing was accidental, that he was shooting at a post. Witnesses testified at the inquest that the post was but a foot to one side of the girl's head.

The Coroner's Jury returned a verdict which failed to indicate their opinion in the matter. There probably will be no action and the boy's statement will not be questioned.

DR. LUCAS TO HEAD AMERICAN MUSEUM

Trustees Finally Choose the Brooklyn Curator to Succeed Dr. H. C. Bumpus.

HAVE BIG BUILDING PLANS

Large Extensions in Prospect and Many Additions to be Made to the Exhibits.

The Trustees of the American Museum of Natural History, which has been without an executive head since Dr. H. C. Bumpus, its director, resigned a year ago after a dispute with a subordinate, announced yesterday that Dr. Frederick Augustus Lucas, at present chief curator of the museum of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, has been selected to fill Dr. Bumpus's place.

Dr. Lucas will assume his duties on June 15. He comes to the Museum with strong indorsements from Dr. William T. Hornaday, director of the Bronx Zoo, and Charles H. Townsend, in charge of the Aquarium. This fact is held to be important by the Museum's Trustees, because they plan to make the Museum, with the increased space to be made available through additions to its present building, "a valhalla for all the notable dead both of the Aquarium and of the zoological garden."

Dr. Hornaday, Mr. Townsend, and Dr. Lucas were classmates thirty-one years ago in Ward's Natural Science establishment at Rochester. There they learned the art of taxidermy, which Dr. Hornaday helped later to popularize. The Museum Trustees think the close co-operation which will result among the three great institutions dealing with natural history will benefit all of them materially.

They announce that the plan for popularizing the museum, a favorite plan of Dr. Bumpus, will not be overlooked. Besides announcing the election of the new Director the Trustees announced a new building plan which will give the museum a building facing on Central Park West. In the new building will be housed a department of oceanography, and back of it, in a smaller building to be constructed especially for their benefit, will repose the skins and bones of mammoths of the sea—the whales and all their near and far relations.

The fact that the Trustees have decided to seek more space for the museum through the extension of the building plan does not mean that the buildings will be built as suggested, as the Board of Estimate has still to approve the plans and appropriate the necessary funds. No city officials were present at yesterday's meeting, although Mayor Gaynor, Controller Prendergast, and Park Commissioner Stover are members of the Board of Trustees.

In developing the museum to its present dimensions the city has already appropriated $5,518,820, the latest appropriation having been $100,000, granted two years ago for completing the south section of the west façade. In addition to the money appropriations the city provided, through the Park Department, in 1872, the eighteen-acre plot known as Manhattan Square, to which the museum moved in 1877 from its old headquarters in the Arsenal in Central Park.

"I don't anticipate that the Board of Estimate will oppose our plan," said President Osborn of the Trustees yesterday, "for there is every reason to make this the greatest museum in the world. It was the first in this country, and its plan of organization is such that for every dollar spent by the city there is certain to be another dollar spent by the Trustees from bequests.

"Last year we spent considerably more than the sum appropriated for us by the city—that is, the value of exhibits donated to the museum came to a larger amount than the money spent in building and maintenance."

The Trustees were required this year, in accordance with a new rule of the Board of Estimate, to put in its building plans for the next five-year period, instead of just for the current year. They went even a step beyond that, as the plan they have drawn up calls for a ten-year building campaign.

The museum will be fifty years old in 1919. All that it is proposed to build this year is the southern wing and court building of the east façade, this to be followed in order by a west façade entrance, a west transept, an east transept, an east façade entrance, and a grand central rotunda suitable for an exhibit of astronomical photographs.

Among the Directors who were present and voted for the building plan and for the appointment of Dr. Lucas as Director were J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., Henry F. Osborn, Cleveland H. Dodge, Archer M. Huntington, Joseph H. Choate, and Ogden Mills.

There was no prominent candidate other than Dr. Lucas for the place, it was learned, although there was some sentiment in favor of offering the place again to Dr. Bumpus and giving him a free hand to organize the museum along lines he had suggested.

The Trustees sought Dr. Lucas, they said, and had considerable trouble in obtaining his consent to leave the Brooklyn Museum. He was born at Plymouth, Mass., on March 25, 1852, and was educated in the public schools of that city. At the age of 19 he became an associate of Dr. Hornaday at the Ward establishment in Rochester, and in 1882 was called to the United States National Museum as osteologist. There he gained recognition through his efforts in assembling, mounting, and classifying exhibits. In 1893 he was promoted to the post of Curator of the Department of Comparative Anatomy, and in 1901 he became Curator of the section of vertebrate fossils. In 1902 he took charge of the Department of Biology. He was called to Brooklyn in 1904, and he has since been Curator-in-Chief of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

He served on the United States Seal Investigating Commission in 1897, and had charge of installing Government exhibits at the St. Louis, Chicago, and other fairs. He has contributed liberally to both general and scientific publications, and is the author of several books on North American mammals. He is a Director of the Audobon Society, and has membership in many scientific clubs.

Home for the Friendless Meeting.

Owing to the fact that the Home for the Friendless, 936 Woody Crest Avenue, has been quarantined because of a few mild diphtheria cases, the seventy-seventh annual meeting of the American Female Guardian Society will take place in the Chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, 5 West Fifty-fifth Street, tomorrow at 11 A. M. The morning programme, the reports for the year, the election of the Board of Managers for the ensuing year, and an address by the Rev. William B. Hamilton of Elizabeth, N. J., will be carried out, but the afternoon exercises by the children and the exhibits from the society's twelve industrial schools will be omitted.

TIRED OF BEANS, RUN AWAY.

Four Wards of Children's Aid Society Walk Many Miles and Then Give Up.

Because they were tired of being in a place where they had nothing but beans, four little boys, protegés of the Brooklyn Children's Aid Society, left the home of Mrs. Annie Yerrington, at Farmingdale, L. I., Sunday, and started to foot it back to the city. They were picked up at 11 o'clock at night by Policeman Appleby, footsore, weary, and frightened, and put to bed in Nassau County Jail at Mineola. Yesterday morning the Aid Society was notified by telephone and a woman came out from Brooklyn and led the four crestfallen children back to their Summer lodging at Farmingdale.

The boys range in age from 7 to 11. They are Freddie Elliot and George Elliot of 57 Sand Street, Birdsall Sands of Court Street, and Lawrence Norse, North Elliot Place, Brooklyn. According to the story of their lives with which they regaled the people around the jail the father of one is dead, the father of another has ran away, and there were other sufficient and non-incriminating reasons for their being in the charge of the Aid Society. They told also about the wonderful place where they were last Summer, where the apples were as big as a man's fist, where you didn't have to wear a shirtwaist ten days before you could change it, and where you could have a hundred slices of bread if you asked for it.

When Sheriff Charles DeMott received the quartet last night, he decided to put them in the women's side of the jail, which was unoccupied. He told them they could pick out whatever places they liked best to sleep in. One opened the door of a cell and claimed that as "his room." Another picked out another "room," while the remaining two, who had been accustomed to sleeping together, snuggled down on the narrow bed of still another cell. When they were all undressed, Sheriff DeMott says, the four plumped down on the cement floor in their little nightgowns and said their prayers in concert. They were eager yesterday morning to hear what was to be done with them. When the Sheriff told them he had telephoned the Children's Aid Society and they were going to be sent back to Farmingdale, each told his own story.

"We thought you said you'd take us back to the city in your big automobile," they cried.

"Well, maybe I will," was all the Sheriff found the courage to say.

When the representative of the Aid Society appeared and told them they must go back to Farmingdale, they trotted out dejectedly behind her.

LECTURES DISAGREEING JURY.

Judge Says It Was Too Much Influenced by Clamor Against the Police.

Judge Swann, in General Sessions, yesterday severely lectured a jury which disagreed in the case of three young prisoners who were charged with attempted burglary.

The accused were Reuben Nohin, 524 Timson Avenue; John Hanrahan, 515 Timson Avenue, and Alexander Ferarci, 766 Fox Avenue, Bronx. It is alleged that all three on April 17 tried to force an entrance into a grocer's shop at 982 Union Avenue, kept by Abraham and Jacob Schneider. The Schneiders were returning from dinner when they discovered the would-be burglars at work. They cornered them and called Detectives Wickman and Quick, who arrested them. The policemen's testimony was corroborated by that of three other witnesses. The only witnesses for the defense were the defendants themselves. The jury was out two hours and stood eleven to one for acquittal. Judge Swann, in discharging the jury, said:

"The minds of this jury have been influenced by the public clamor against the police. This is the clearest case of guilt I ever saw, and I fully expected to have you bring in a verdict of guilty in five minutes. The defendants were caught red-handed and had a jimmy in their possession.

"It appears that some members of this jury were so influenced by the ridiculous statements made very recently about the testimony of the police that they would not believe the officers who testified in this case. The evidence of those officers was only incidental, however, as three respectable citizens testified to seeing the boys drop a jimmy. I am informed that you stand eleven to one for acquittal. One of you is a hero. This disagreement with eleven standing against one for acquittal only goes to show the disastrous effects of minds influenced and inflamed against the police. If such disagreements as this continue crime will become rampant in this city.

"Is every one of the witnesses except these three defendants a liar? That is what the jury has said, all except one man among you.

"These young scamps will be tried again and convicted."

CHILDREN SHOW THEIR GAMES

Proteges of Playgrounds Association on Roof of Waldorf-Astoria.

One hundred and twenty-four of the children of the Parks and Playgrounds Association of the City of New York gave a pretty exhibition on the roof of the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday afternoon. A half-hour of story telling is one of the features of the play for the older children, and these stories are often simply dramatized by the children themselves. The pantomime which was presented yesterday was made out of the story of "Father January and His Brothers." The children were dressed in special frocks to represent the seasons, Winter in white, Spring in pale green, Summer in rose pink, and Autumn in warm brown, with colored leaves. This piece was given by the biggest children, from 10 to 14.

The little tots who played the games were from 4 to 6 years of age. They were in their home clothes, the ones they wear in the playgrounds. Two of the tiniest were boys, hardly 4, one in little blue overalls and the other in trousers which were held up by sure-enough, real men's suspenders. Both wore shabby little caps with visors and kept them on all the time. A little girl in a pink-checked gingham had a pink scratch to match it across her small nose, and a chubby little Italian girl in a dark checked frock had her short hair braided in small horns that stood out on either side of her head. They played, "Yes, I know the muffin man," and the minuet game, "I'll show you how to dance the way my grandma used to dance," with great delight, bobbing up and down with little regard for time.

WORK OF SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE

Commemoration of the 81st Anniversary of Its Foundation.

Six hundred sailormen—officers, coal passers, firemen, and ablebodied seamen—gathered at the rooms of the Seamen's Institute, 507 West Street, last evening to observe the eighty-first anniversary of the founding of the American Seamen's Friend Society, which is not local, but international, in its scope. In the afternoon a reception had been held which was attended by many women interested in the work of organization.

The Rev. Dr. J. B. Calvert, President of the Institute, presided at the meeting, and after a song service and the reading of annual reports of the officers, six trustees were elected, as follows:

Anton A. Raven, 51 Wall Street; the Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, 346 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn; Frederick B. Dalzell, 70 South Street; Capt. Charles B. Parsons, Red Bank, N. J., and Fritz V. Briesen, 25 Broad Street.

The reports showed that in the fiscal year ended March 31 2,453 religious services had been held, with an attendance of 58,926 seamen; 28,116 visits to ships had been made by the 51 men and women engaged in the work of the institute; free meals to the number of 11,290 and free lodgings to the number of 10,378 had been provided. The reading rooms had been used 656,887 times by the persons frequenting them. The money receipts for the year had been $35,623.55, and the disbursements $53,685.85, meaning a drawing upon funds on hand.

Maynard Quits District Attorney.

It was learned yesterday that Reuben L. Maynard, Assistant District Attorney at $7,500 a year, had resigned last Monday. The only reason given was that his civil practice had grown so as to demand all his attention.

MEEKS IS DISMISSED.

Axe Finally Falls 68 Days After His Work in Charity Department Ceased.

Commissioner Michael J. Drummond yesterday dismissed from the Department of Charities George W. Meeks, Superintendent of the Bureau of Dependent Adults. According to the Commissioner, Meeks was found guilty of misconduct, and explanations given by him as to charges brought against him were unsatisfactory. Meeks had been connected with the Charities Department since March 1, 1904, and at the time of his dismissal drew a salary of $2,700 a year.

Mr. Meeks was served with a notice on April 26 to appear before Commissioner Drummond to answer to charges of insubordination, misconduct, and violation of rules, but did not comply until two days later. Assistant Corporation Counsel Benedict was present when Meeks was examined, but the latter had no legal counsel present.

The particular charge on which Mr. Meeks was dismissed was the continual low rating in his monthly reports of Max Rothschild, registrar of the bureau. Deputy Commissioner Goodwin of the Department of Charities is said to have told Meeks on March 28 last that Rothschild's rating should be increased. The Superintendent replied to Goodwin that he would not increase the rating of the Registrar, which, he said, was based on efficiency, attendance, and sobriety. The following day Meeks was superseded by Angus P. Thorne, formerly his assistant, as Superintendent of the Bureau of Dependent Adults. Meeks continued to report at the bureau and draw his salary, although his work was done by his successor. Mr. Thorne has been temporarily appointed to the position of Superintendent of the bureau.

Mr. Meeks was connected with the Department of Charities thirteen years. Mr. Rothschild, who for six years was Registrar of the bureau, recently left the Charities Department and became Day Superintendent of the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids, at Broadway and 138th Street.

PATIENT'S THROAT CUT.

Nurse Finds Her Senseless, but She Will Recover.

After giving her a tray holding her supper, a nurse in Lincoln Hospital left Mrs. May Russell, a patient with heart disease, last night and went to attend other patients. When she returned she found Mrs. Russell senseless with her throat cut. Dr. Clark and Dr. Polson dressed the wound, and late last night it was said that Mrs. Russell would recover.

None of the other patients saw Mrs. Russell cut herself. The wound, although long, is only skin deep and might have been made by design or accident. The hospital authorities decline to say that Mrs. Russell tried suicide.

The woman, whose home is at 540 Bergen Avenue, has been in the hospital since April 17.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Collector Must Be Informed of Exact Objection—Leather Duty Case.

In overruling a protest filed by R. Deutsch, the Board of United States General Appraisers lays down the principle that the exact objection on the part of an importer of foreign merchandise to the classification imposed by a Collector must be brought to the attention of that official at the time of filing the protest, and not first made known at the trial of the case before the board.

The protest by the importer in this case alleged dissatisfaction with rate and amount of duty charged by Collector Loeb on cotton and woolen goods. At the trial testimony was introduced showing that the intention of the protestant was to complain against the collection of the cumulative duty of 1 cent per square yard levied under Paragraph 323 of the Tariff act of 1909, which prescribes such additional duty on cotton cloth which has been mercerized. According to General Appraiser Cooper, who writes the decision for the board, the testimony shows that the objection made at the trial was probably in the mind of the importer when he filed his protest. This objection, however, the General Appraiser says was not brought to the knowledge of the Collector by the protest.

"In fact," says the decision, "the Collector understood that the protest was against the collection of duty on an excessive number of square yards, as shown by his letter transmitting the protest to the board, in which he states that 'a review of the liquidation shows the number of yards assessed at 8 cents per square yard and those assessed at 6¼ cents to be correct.' The protest did not apprise the Collector of the importer's real claim. We therefore hold that the protest is insufficient, because it does not comply with the requirements of the statute."

The Mark Cross Company and other importers came before the board asking for a construction to be placed on the present tariff involving the paragraph in the law providing for leather cases containing sets. The question is as to the scope to be given articles regarded as entireties, as specified in Paragraph 432. This provision reads as follows:

"Bags, baskets, belts, satchels, card-cases, pocketbooks, jewel boxes, portfolios, and other boxes and cases, made wholly or in chief value of leather, not jewelry, and manufactures of leather, or of which leather is the component material of chief value, not specially provided for in this section, 40 per centum ad valorem; any of the foregoing permanently fitted and furnished with traveling, bottle, drinking, dining, or luncheon, and similar sets, 50 per centum ad valorem."

The Cross Company alleges several rates of duty under various paragraphs, all of which are lower than the rate assessed by Collector Loeb. The importers contend that the cases in question either do not contain sets of any kind or that they do not contain sets of the kinds included in Paragraph 452, or they are not made wholly or in chief value of leather. If any of the cases are dutiable at 50 per centum under this paragraph, the rate applies to the cases only, and not to the sets contained therein.

General Appraiser McClelland sustains the importers to the extent of holding that leather cases containing drinking cups, leather portfolios equipped with writing paper, leather cases containing a small drinking glass, leather cases holding an article serving as a hammer, shears, file, &c., are "entireties," and as such entitled to duty at 40 per cent. Several other exhibits, containing several articles to a case, are held to be "traveling sets," such as are provided for in the latter part of Paragraph 452. These sets are held dutiable as assessed by Collector Loeb.

MAYOR'S HEALTH STILL POOR.

Was Unable to Aid in Drafting the New Charter, He Says.

Commissioner of Records Andrews made public yesterday a letter on the proposed new charter in which Mayor Gaynor commented on his health more frankly than he has done at any time since he was shot last Summer. Said the Mayor:

> In my miserably impaired physical condition I have not been able to take the part in the drafting of the new charter which I had at one time hoped to take. I have had nip and tuck to keep on my feet throughout the Winter. I must bear with things as best I can until the good weather restores me.
>
> I am conscious of my shortcomings and of how much I have tried the patience of every one, but I have done the best I could to stick to the job. I would like to go before the Legislative Committee, but I cannot. But I am content with whatever may be done. I think I will write a memorandum about the charter in a few days.

Regarding the objection to the Mayor's veto power in the Board of Estimate the Mayor says:

> You are quite right in pointing out that it is nothing new. It is taken from the present charter, from the so-called Ivins proposed charter, and from the so-called Hammond proposed charter, as you point out. And this is the case with nearly everything that we read so much exaggeration about.
>
> I never asked for the Mayor's veto power to be enlarged. The draftsmen merely took the thing as it had been recommended for years. By the present law the Mayor has a veto in respect to franchises and contracts connected therewith. The enlarged veto, so as to include purchases of real estate and expenditures of city money, was recommended by the last two Charter Commissions, as I have said.
> As to the veto of purchases of real estate, I suppose you know that the Controller now has an absolute veto in that respect, and all that the proposed charter amendment does in that respect is to take his absolute veto away and give the Mayor instead a suspensive veto, namely, a veto which suspends until and unless it be overridden by a two-thirds vote.

Other criticisms of the Charter, the Mayor says, are baseless, adding that "the aim of the workers was to follow the recommendations of the last two Charter Commissioners."

CITY HALL NOT DAMAGED.

Cost of Cleaning Up After Marathon Runners' Invasion Only $1.

Borough President McAneny, who is taking a few days rest at Atlantic City, sent a letter to his secretary, Julian F. Beaty, yesterday directing him to investigate the desecration of City Hall on Saturday by the Marathon runners, in which he said in part:

> With regard to the use of the City Hall by the participants in the 'Modified Marathon,' my first understanding was, when you spoke to me, that not more than twenty or twenty-five men were expected to finish, and that some room in the basement of the Hall could be used without disturbance to anybody. As the race was a matter in which the town seemed to be interested, and as various city officials had agreed to take part in the start and finish ceremonies, it seemed to me not inappropriate that the runners be given the privilege asked, especially as they would arrive hot and tired, with no other place to change their clothes at hand, and as I understood it, they required a room merely for change of clothes. I recall that when you were unable to figure out any space in the basement, you spoke of the committee room of the Aldermanic Chamber, and I agreed to this on the understanding that there was a separate entrance to that room through which the men could be taken without difficulty. What actually occurred, according to the newspapers, was certainly beyond us. I cannot understand why the police did not prevent damage; but I feel also that whatever did happen, the affair was accidental in character, and one of those things that ought to be taken with a considerable amount of good nature.
> I think it would be well, however, to have an immediate examination made of the physical condition of the rooms that were used, and of the furniture in them. Get up a complete report of the actual damage done, and have it ready for me to-morrow evening. Let the report be thorough and explicit.

Later in the day Mr. Beaty issued a statement in which he said: "Pursuant to the direction of the Borough President I caused a careful examination to be made this morning by the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Offices, and he has reported to me that the total damage done will not exceed $1. There is not a single piece of furniture broken, and the Board of Estimate Chamber this morning is in perfect condition."

LEAD US IN AEROPLANING.

Dr. Bell, After Year of Travel, Finds Other Nations Far Ahead.

After a journey around the world Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell got back to New York yesterday on the White Star liner Celtic. The inventor and his wife have been a year on the road. They sailed from Vancouver and visited Honolulu, Tasmania, New Zealand, the Philippines, China, India, and Europe.

"At Allahabad, India, I saw the first aerial post route in operation," said Dr. Bell. "Two bags of mail are carried several miles to the railroad station. The aeroplane makes the trip in safety and in fast time. Europe is ahead of us in aeroplanes.

"While in Italy I saw in operation the hydroplane invented by Foranini. It has several planes which support the engine.

"The 100-horse-power engine is below the water line, and the machine can accommodate three passengers. It weighs two tons. I say it under way on Lake Maggiore when it made about forty-five miles an hour. This is, I believe, the greatest speed ever attained on water."

Dr. Bell said they are building their own aeroplanes in the antipodes and protecting the home make by a high duty. He said that while on the way by steamship from Australia to Tasmania he saw the sailors throw a big case overboard. Upon inquiry he learned that it contained an aeroplane, its owner having it thrown overboard rather than pay the enormous duty demanded. He added he believed the story was true.

Dr. and Mrs. Bell were met at the pier by Glenn Curtiss, A. D. McCurdy, and a number of friends. Their six-year-old grandson, Melville Bell, also welcomed them home.

DEAF MUTE DIES IN FIRE.

Suffocated by Smoke and Burned in Bed in Tenement Blaze.

In a fire of unknown origin which wrecked the home of William Brannon on the fifth floor of a tenement house at 189 Greenwich Street yesterday morning, his seven-year-old son, Nicholas, a deaf mute, was suffocated and burned to death. He was dead when Fireman Robert Boyle made his way through the smoke and flames to the bed where the boy lay with his five-year-old sister, Irene. Boyle carried them both down the ladder, bedclothes and all. The little girl was so badly burned that she was removed to the Hudson Street Hospital.

Fireman Peter J. McKenzie was trapped in the rooms by the sweep of the flames, and saved himself from suffocation only by hanging from a windowsill. When he had recovered himself, he was able to swing across and down to the roof of an adjoining building. The blaze was confined to the Brannons's rooms.
